King George Insists Disarmament Plans Continue

SPEECH READ AT CLOSE OF PARLIAMENT

Declares Germany's Withdrawal Should Not Put An End to Negotiations

PROBLEMS DISCUSSED

Legislative Body to Meet Again Tuesday With Usual State Ceremonies

LONDON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Disarmament negotiations must be pushed vigorously despite dislocation caused by Germany's withdrawal, King George said today in a speech on the prorogation of parliament.

The speech was read in the house of Lords before the assembled members of lords and commons by Lord Sankey, the lord chancellor. Only ten peers were present.

Parliament's adjournment will be a brief one. It will meet again Tuesday with the usual state ceremony.

The king, discussing domestic problems, referred warmly to the fortitude of British people that had strengthened the financial structure.

Although Germany's withdrawal from the League of Nations and Disarmament Conference had dislocated the disarmament program, the speech read, "the work for international disarmament through agreement between nations must be vigorously pushed."

"I earnestly trust that the difficulties which have arisen may be surmounted," the speech said.

Discussing the financial situation, the king commented:

"The willingness of my people to bear heavy sacrifices has made it possible for this country, almost alone among the great countries of the world, to maintain a satisfactory balance between national income and expenditure."

The king's speech came as the British government was making a strong effort to restart the work of the World Disarmament commission.

ATTORNEYS IN SUIT SUED FOR $500,000

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Conrad Mann, Kansas City businessman and civic leader who was saved from a prison term by presidential pardon, today filed suit here for a $500,000 judgment against the attorneys who defended him in his trial on lottery charges.

Frank H. Hering, editor of the Eagles magazine, joined him in the suit, which was filed against the New York law firm of Arlen G. Sliger, Richard B. Scandrett jr., and Robert A. Chambers, S. W. Landon, Rufus J. Trimble, J. Anthony Panuch and Joseph R. Kelley.

Mann and Hering seek the half-million dollar judgment against the attorneys as compensation for "humiliation, shame and disgrace" suffered through alleged unskillful handling of their case.

PRESIDENT TO LEAVE TONIGHT FOR VACATION

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—With his policies the center of increasing debate, President Roosevelt prepared to leave tonight for Warm Springs, Ga., to rest until after Thanksgiving and to gather strength for an expected showdown when congress returns.

For Mr. Roosevelt it is a partial pause in the battle for recovery which he has fought for eight and a half months on an epic scale. Six weeks of grace remain before congress steps in to judge the results.

As the situation is appraised by observers here, President Roosevelt still retains wide popular support, but with criticism growing. Developments this week were generally interpreted as proof that the president was not pulling his punches.

On the contrary, replacement of unsympathetic treasury officials by Henry Morganthau jr., a disciple of Professor George Warren and the commodity dollar, was regarded here as notice that the president was determined to push through his experiment despite indifferent results to date.

Two of Mr. Roosevelt's most important experiments are just going into their stride.

Civil Works

He has launched a gigantic civil works administration, designed to give temporary winter work to 4,000,000 now on relief rolls, and fill the gap caused by delay in the $3,300,000,000 Public Works program. If successful it would leave only about 4,000,000 unemployed, a figure which some regard as normal, and would constitute progress to which the administration could point proudly when congress reconvenes.

Mr. Roosevelt's other short-cut is the managed dollar, which has aroused widespread questioning. Commodity prices have not risen proportionately to the decline of the dollar. A gradual drifting apart has occurred between Mr. Roosevelt and his more conservative advisers and a new school of economists is in favor.

The committee for the nation, whose recommendations Mr. Roosevelt has followed in a series of drastic steps beginning with the gold embargo is being watched in Washington as an accurate forecaster of what the administration will do next.

Hard Sledding

NRA has come in for hard sledding. General Hugh H. Johnson returned from his barnstorming tour frankly disturbed by lack of compliance with codes. Critics said Johnson sought to over-regiment the country and started a reaction when he pressed the blue eagle campaign to extend Washington control over all retail stores.

Administration defenders insist however that there are visible results. Miss Frances Perkins, secretary of labor, reports employ-

STATE MAY ABANDON ITS RECOVERY ACT

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The California recovery act, which has aided industry in the formulation of codes, may be abandoned because of insufficient funds to continue its operation, according to Edwin M. Daugherty, C. R. A. administrator, and Rolland A. Vandegrift, finance director.

The C. R. A. will accept no more code applications, will hold no hearings other than those already scheduled, and will make no attempt to enforce the present codes. The staff will be reduced to a force of two men whose main duty will be the answering of questions.

The corporation commission, charged with handling the CRA has hardly enough funds to direct its own afairs, Daugherty said.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED IN STORM AREA

At Least 60 Known Dead in Middlewest as Cold Wave Continues

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(UP)—One of the most severe early winter storms on weather bureau records caused heavy loss of life and sent temperatures crashing to abnormal lows in midwestern and northwestern states today.

The cold wave extended from White River, Ont., where it was 28 degrees below zero, to Mobile, Ala., on the Gulf of Mexico, where

DEATH PENALTY IS PAID BY MURDERER

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—John C. Fleming, San Bernardino county murderer, was executed on the gallows here today.

The trap was sprung at 10 a. m., and Fleming was pronounced dead at 10:15.

Fleming was convicted of the murder of Amos Leece in San Bernardino.

He was very calm as he walked to the gallows accompanied by Father Patrick Cronin, prison chaplain. Shortly before the trap was sprung he expressed regret for "causing the warden so much trouble."

Eighteen witnesses were present at the execution.

AUTO RACER HURT IN TRAFFIC CRASH

TAFT, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Billy Arnold, former national champion automobile racing driver, was in a Taft hospital today, critically injured when his car overturned in a ditch near the city limits.

Arnold's machine hurtled into the ditch when he sought to avoid a collision with another car, police were told.

Arnold was en route from Taft to Bakersfield, Cal., to appear in connection with a moving picture. His injuries consisted of cerebral concussion, several broken ribs, and bruises. He was expected to recover.

HUGE LOANS TO FILM COMPANY ARE REVEALED

Senate Probers Find That $72,000,000 Poured Into Fox Pictures

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—More than $72,000,000 of Chase National bank funds were poured into a Hollywood venture, under investigation today by the senate stock market committee, in which Albert H. Wiggin and his associates captured control of Fox Films, Inc.

Wiggin and his associates dealt through a holding company, General Theaters Equipment, Inc. Creation of this corporation and the seizure of Fox Films was costly to Wiggin, to his associates and to the investing public.

As Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, develops the background of the story it is shown that General Theaters Equipment, Inc., securities contained millions of dollars in water.

From August 7, 1929 to May 7, 1930, less than a year, the Chase National bank loaned an aggregate of $72,900,012 to underwriting the trading syndicates in General Theaters and Fox stock. The golden stream flowed from the bank treasury at an average rate of $26,000 a day.

Wiggin's name has not figured directly in the multi-million dollar transactions. But it is understood he participated in the Theaters Equipment syndicates through the firm of Pynchon and company, headed by George M. Pynchon, a neighbor and close friend.

The movie venture bankrupted Pynchon and company. In the language of Wall Street, the Chase bank "pulled the plug" on Pynchon loans in the spring of 1931. The company closed its doors.

The loans were called over Wiggin's protest but at the demand of Winthrop W. Aldrich, brother-in-law of John D. Rockefeller jr., who had become suspicious of the movie transactions. Aldrich in the end forced Wiggin out of the bank.

General Theaters Equipment was organized in the summer of 1929 by absorbing several supply and patent companies owned largely by Harley L. Clarke, Chicago utilities operator. Some $28,000,000 of water flooded the theater equipment corporation from the outset. It failed February 29, 1932.

MARY M'CORMIC IS SUED FOR MILLION

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Mary McCormic, opera singer and former wife of Prince Serge Mdivani, who assertedly slapped Grace Williams, writer, in a local newspaper office Wednesday night, today was named defendant in a $1,000,001 damage suit.

Miss Williams demanded $1 actual damages for the slap, and $1,000,000 for "humiliation and injured feelings."

PRICE OF FEDERAL GOLD IS UNCHANGED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The government today made no change in the price of newly mined American gold from the $33.56 an ounce price set yesterday.

Today's Washington price was 93 cents under the world price set in London today.

The London price today was 128 shillings 2 pence, down 4 pence from yesterday. On the basis of the early high exchange rate for the pound—$5.38 1-8 — this was equivalent to $34.48 a fine ounce.

Slayers Are Being Held Under Guard

Pair Will Be Tried Under New Kidnaping Law That Provides Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17.—(UP)—One of the two confessed kidnapers and slayers of Brooke Hart, 22, emptied shots from a revolver into the youth as he struggled in the water of San Francisco bay prior to his death last Thursday night, federal agents charged today as they bared new details of alleged confessions.

The officers attributed the act of brutality to Thomas Harold Thurmond, who with John Holmes, father of two young children, confessed kidnaping young Hart, slugging him and throwing him still alive from the San Mateo bridge.

Thurmond made no mention of a revolver in his formal confession, but during questioning by Harold Anderson and Edward Condoy, department of justice agents, told of the shooting.

Reed Vetterli, chief of the department of justice forces in San Francisco confirmed the latest story of Thurmond, which for sheer cruelty linked the Hart case to the Lindbergh baby slaying and the Marion Parker killing in Los Angeles in 1927.

Planned to Kill

Vetterli and Sheriff William Emig of San Jose agreed that the kidnapers planned from the start to kill Hart and never intended to return him after payment of the $40,000 they demanded. In this respect they described the case as resembling the "technique" of the Lindbergh baby murder and the killing of the Parker girl by William Edward Hickman.

Slayers of the Lindbergh baby collected ransom after the child's death. They still are at large. Hickman employed the same strategy and collected money from the banker-father of the little Parker girl. In the case of Hickman, however, he was traced by serial numbers on the currency, captured in Oregon, and hanged at San Quentin prison.

FORMER ENGINEER COMMITS SUICIDE

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Stock market losses were blamed today for the suicide of Fred H. Pierson, 65, purportedly a former wealthy San Francisco civil engineer, whose bullet-pierced body was found in a clump of bushes in Lafayette park here.

Friends said his grief over investment losses was increased by the recent death of his wife and his inability to obtain employment.

A pistol was found beside the body. The weapon had been fired into the mouth. A note urged police to send the body to San Francisco relatives. They were William Sanderson, Mills Bldg., Mrs. Kate Sanderson, 2504 Leavenworth Ave., and Miss Ethel Denine, 184 Clayton St., all of San Francisco.

MURDERERS FACING TEST OF INSANITY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Personal belief that an insane man never fully recovers his mental balance caused Governor James Rolph to order a complete investigation of two condemned men today before making a decision in their cases.

The men, Gilbert F. Collie and Odd G. Cornell, are in the Mendocino state hospital, where they were incarcerated after being adjudged insane. Previously, they were sentenced to be hanged after they were convicted of murdar. Hospital physicians now claim the men are sane, and legally it is necessary for the governor to set dates for their execution, or to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

State Farm Bureau Meeting at Santa Barbara Raps State Sales Tax

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Charges of irregularities on the part of state and national federation officials in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys were being investigated today by a special committee of the California Farm Bureau federation.

J. A. Smiley of Santa Ana, Joseph Hart of Stanislaus county, and H. H. Gysbers, Sacramento county, were appointed by President R. W. Blackburn of Thermal, at the annual convention here, to make a sweeping investigation into valley affairs and national officials.

Delegates condemned the state sales tax in its present form on grounds it "aggravates many existing taxes inequalities and is operating unjustifiably to the disadvantage of farmers. A second resolution attacked the cost of obtaining farm credit loans as "excessive and burdensome."

The NRA also was criticised,

GANGSTERS BUILD UP ALIBI DEFENSE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 17.—(UP)—An alibi defense was builded today by attorneys for four Chicago gangsters charged with kidnaping William Hamm jr. wealthy brewer, for $100,000 ransom.

Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, Willie Sharkey, Gus Schaeffer and Eddie McFadden, the accused men, were "many, many miles away from St. Paul" when Hamm was held by kidnapers from June 15 to 19, William Scott Stewart, chief defense attorney, contended.

Federal attorneys, prosecuting under the Lindbergh law which provides life imprisonment on conviction of carrying a kidnaped person across a state line, closed their case after more than a dozen witnesses had identified the four men as involved in the extortion plot. Touhy was pointed out as leader of the gang that kidnaped Hamm.

NURSE REVEALS HER MOTIVE IN GRACE SLAYING

Miss Frieda Weltz Facing Grilling Cross Examination in Trial

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Nervous for the first time during her trial, Miss Frieda Weltz, titian-haired war nurse, faced a searching cross-examination today on her story that she killed Francis J. M. Grace, retired shipper, because he had attacked her.

Miss Weltz revealed the "hidden motive" when placed on the stand in her own defense as the murder trial approached its close. Parts of her story, told while she twisted a handkerchief in her hands, were absolutely corroborated by the testimony of Mrs. Richard Frank, wife of the butler in the Grace home here.

The former San Francisco and Pennsylvania nurse told of an attack which too place in a mountain cabin, of her fears of approaching motherhood, of illegal means of avoiding it, and of Grace's failure to provide promised financial aid.

Mrs. Frank, a surprise witness, testified that she took care of Grace at a San Francisco hotel when he was suffering from "alco-

STATE HOTEL MEN WILL OBSERVE LAW

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—California' hotel men, unable to agree on what kind of liquor program they preferred, had pledged themselves today to observe the law and not attempt to serve hard liquor in public.

A long conference here accomplished practically nothing, delegates said, except disclosing how difficult it may be for the hotel industry to agree on a liquor plan. Some want permission to serve hard liquor; others are content to serve wine and beer only. They could not agree as to the advisability of a special election on liquor.

There was no mention of the clubs which have been organized in hotel buildings to provide a "legal" drinking place for hard liquor.

Nations Agree to Refrain From Interference of All Internal Affairs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The United States government today extended diplomatic recognition to the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics.

The recogition was timed at 11:50 last night when Commissar Litvinov and President Roosevelt signed an exchange of notes.

Recognition involved eight documents affecting Soviet-American problems.

Simultaneously President Roosevelt announced that William C. Bullitt, state department adviser, will be America's ambassador.

Recognition was announced by President Roosevelt at the White House after 19 days of intense negotiations with foreign commissar Maxim Litvinov, who came to the United States on the president's invitation.

Thus was ended a 16-year break in relations between two of the world's mightiest nations. Diplomatic intercourse between the two was stopped in 1917 after the Bolsheviks swept the frail Kerensky regime from power and set up the world's first major Communist state.

Eight Points

The eight points covered in the Roosevelt - Litvinov agreements were:

1. An exchange of letters saying the two executives were glad that their countries were resuming normal relations.

2. An exchange of notes by which the Soviet union and the United States pledged each other to refrain from interference in the internal affairs of the other country. This was designed as a protection from Communist propaganda in the United States.

3. An agreement that citizens of one country in the other should be permitted freedom of religious worship and exercise of ecclesiastical functions.

4. A protocol providing that a consular convention should be negotiated giving Americans in the Soviet union the same civil rights as those enjoyed by the nations of any third country in Russia.

5—A memorandum from Litvinov replying to a verbal question by the president defining prosecutions for economic espionage.

An Agreement

6—An agreement that the Soviet government, preparatory to a final settlement of claims and counter claims between the two governments, not make any claim with respect to court judgments or official actions affecting obligations of the government of Russia.

7—A statement by Litvinov that the Soviet union would not hold the United States responsible for property damage arising from damage to property during the activities of U. S. troops in Siberia in 1918.

8—A joint statement saying that Mr. Roosevelt and Litvinov had exchanged views "with regard to methods of settling all outstanding

GUILTY CONSCIENCE EASED BY OFFICERS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Her guilty conscience soothed by the fact that no charges had been preferred against her, Doris Edminister, 29-year-old Seattle girl who hitch-hiked here to give herself up to police, was on her way home today.

Miss Edminster walked into the office of Capt. C. R. Williams of the automobile detail last night and told him she had left Los Angeles two years ago without completing payments on an automobile and a radio.

"My conscience bothered me," she said.

Capt. Williams said he had been unable to find a complaint against the girl and suggested her trip was in vain.

MURDERERS FACING TEST OF INSANITY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Personal belief that an insane man never fully recovers his mental balance caused Governor James Rolph to order a complete investigation of two condemned men today before making a decision in their cases.

The men, Gilbert F. Collie and Odd G. Cornell, are in the Mendocino state hospital, where they were incarcerated after being adjudged insane. Previously, they were sentenced to be hanged after they were convicted of murdar. Hospital physicians now claim the men are sane, and legally it is necessary for the governor to set dates for their execution, or to commute their sentences to life imprisonment.

State Farm Bureau Meeting at Santa Barbara Raps State Sales Tax

SANTA BARBARA, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Charges of irregularities on the part of state and national federation officials in the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys were being investigated today by a special committee of the California Farm Bureau federation.

J. A. Smiley of Santa Ana, Joseph Hart of Stanislaus county, and H. H. Gysbers, Sacramento county, were appointed by President R. W. Blackburn of Thermal, at the annual convention here, to make a sweeping investigation into valley affairs and national officials.

Delegates condemned the state sales tax in its present form on grounds it "aggravates many existing taxes inequalities and is operating unjustifiably to the disadvantage of farmers. A second resolution attacked the cost of obtaining farm credit loans as "excessive and burdensome."

The NRA also was criticised,

GANGSTERS BUILD UP ALIBI DEFENSE

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 17.—(UP)—An alibi defense was builded today by attorneys for four Chicago gangsters charged with kidnaping William Hamm jr. wealthy brewer, for $100,000 ransom.

Roger (The Terrible) Touhy, Willie Sharkey, Gus Schaeffer and Eddie McFadden, the accused men, were "many, many miles away from St. Paul" when Hamm was held by kidnapers from June 15 to 19, William Scott Stewart, chief defense attorney, contended.

Federal attorneys, prosecuting under the Lindbergh law which provides life imprisonment on conviction of carrying a kidnaped person across a state line, closed their case after more than a dozen witnesses had identified the four men as involved in the extortion plot. Touhy was pointed out as leader of the gang that kidnaped Hamm.

NURSE REVEALS HER MOTIVE IN GRACE SLAYING

Miss Frieda Weltz Facing Grilling Cross Examination in Trial

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Nervous for the first time during her trial, Miss Frieda Weltz, titian-haired war nurse, faced a searching cross-examination today on her story that she killed Francis J. M. Grace, retired shipper, because he had attacked her.

Miss Weltz revealed the "hidden motive" when placed on the stand in her own defense as the murder trial approached its close. Parts of her story, told while she twisted a handkerchief in her hands, were absolutely corroborated by the testimony of Mrs. Richard Frank, wife of the butler in the Grace home here.

The former San Francisco and Pennsylvania nurse told of an attack which too place in a mountain cabin, of her fears of approaching motherhood, of illegal means of avoiding it, and of Grace's failure to provide promised financial aid.

Mrs. Frank, a surprise witness, testified that she took care of Grace at a San Francisco hotel when he was suffering from "alco-

STATE HOTEL MEN WILL OBSERVE LAW

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—California' hotel men, unable to agree on what kind of liquor program they preferred, had pledged themselves today to observe the law and not attempt to serve hard liquor in public.

A long conference here accomplished practically nothing, delegates said, except disclosing how difficult it may be for the hotel industry to agree on a liquor plan. Some want permission to serve hard liquor; others are content to serve wine and beer only. They could not agree as to the advisability of a special election on liquor.

There was no mention of the clubs which have been organized in hotel buildings to provide a "legal" drinking place for hard liquor.

WM. BULLITT APPOINTED AMBASSADOR

Announcements Are Made By President Roosevelt After Long Conference

COVER EIGHT POINTS

Nations Agree to Refrain From Interference of All Internal Affairs

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The United States government today extended diplomatic recognition to the Union of Socialistic Soviet Republics.

The recogition was timed at 11:50 last night when Commissar Litvinov and President Roosevelt signed an exchange of notes.

Recognition involved eight documents affecting Soviet-American problems.

Simultaneously President Roosevelt announced that William C. Bullitt, state department adviser, will be America's ambassador.

Recognition was announced by President Roosevelt at the White House after 10 days of intense negotiations with foreign commissar Maxim Litvinov, who came to the United States on the president's invitation.

Thus was ended a 16-year break in relations between two of the world's mightiest nations. Diplomatic intercourse between the two was stopped in 1917 after the Bolsheviks swept the frail Kerensky regime from power and set up the world's first major Communist state.

Eight Points

The eight points covered in the Roosevelt - Litvinov agreements were:

1. An exchange of letters saying the two executives were glad that their countries were resuming normal relations.

2. An exchange of notes by which the Soviet union and the United States pledged each other to refrain from interference in the internal affairs of the other country. This was designed as a protection from Communist propaganda in the United States.

3. An agreement that citizens of one country in the other should be permitted freedom of religious worship and exercise of ecclesiastical functions.

4. A protocol providing that a consular convention should be negotiated giving Americans in the Soviet union the same civil rights as those enjoyed by the nations of any third country in Russia. .....

5—A memorandum from Litvinov replying to a verbal question by the president defining prosecutions for economic espionage.

An Agreement

6—An agreement that the Soviet government, preparatory to a final settlement of claims and counter claims between the two governments, not make any claim with respect to court judgments or official actions affecting obligations of the government of Russia.

7—A statement by Litvinov that the Soviet union would not hold the United States responsible for property damage arising from damage to property during the activities of U. S. troops in Siberia in 1918.

8—A joint statement saying that Mr. Roosevelt and Litvinov had exchanged views "with regard to methods of settling all outstanding

GUILTY CONSCIENCE EASED BY OFFICERS

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Her guilty conscience soothed by the fact that no charges had been preferred against her, Doris Edminister, 29-year-old Seattle girl who hitch-hiked here to give herself up to police, was on her way home today.

Miss Edminster walked into the office of Capt. C. R. Williams of the automobile detail last night and told him she had left Los Angeles two years ago without completing payments on an automobile and a radio.

"My conscience bothered me," she said.

Capt. Williams said he had been unable to find a complaint against the girl and suggested her trip was in vain.

HART'S BODY STILL MISSING THIS MORNING

Agents Anderson and Conroy said Thurmond and Holmes admitted they bought blocks of stucco cement used to slug Hart and to weight his body. They also purchased wire with which to bind him, the confessions said.

Body Not Found

Meanwhile, dragging operations were continued in San Francisco bay, near the San Mateo bridge, where portions of a man's shirt and bits of flesh were recovered by grappling hooks last night.

Thurmond and Holmes were held in the San Francisco jail as feeling ran high in San Jose, where Alex J. Hart, the father, is one of the city's most prominent men. Angry crowds formed around the San Jose jail before the prisoners were brought here. One leading San Jose newspaper ran a front-page editorial under the title "Human Devils." The article told readers it was a case for "mob violence."

Holmes' visitors at the jail included his wife Evelyn. She was semi-hysterical and crying a belief in her husband's innocence. Holmes is an unemployed oil worker of a good family. His parents gave him a junior college education. The family is respected in San Jose and the accused man never had been in trouble of any sort prior to his arrest.

Father Stricken

Maurice P. Holmes, the father, came to the San Jose jail before his son's removal to San Francisco. Seeing the muttering crowds, he cried: "What are all of these people doing here?"

Then, overcome by the seriousness of his son's plight, he pushed his way down the street, refusing to speak to friends or acquaintances.

There was a general agreement of authorities that the confessed slayers will be prosecuted in San Jose on a charge of kidnaping, which, under a new California law, provides the death penalty in cases where the victim met with violence.

Thurmond and Holmes were captured Wednesday night after the former went to the Plaza garage in San Jose and telephoned to the elder Hart a "final demand" for $40,000 ransom. Department of justice agents were "tapped in" at the San Jose telephone exchange. They traced the call and descended upon the garage. Thurmond eventually involved Holmes, who was captured as he slept in a San Jose hotel.

HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE REPORTED IN STORM AREA

Jack Frost made his earliest appearance in many years. At least 60 persons were reported dead or missing as a result of the storm.

Near Green Bay, Wis., on Lake Michigan, a steam tug and several fishing boats battled ice and a gale in an effort to rescue three youths marooned on a small boat. An airplane located the boat 12 miles from shore.

The boat, a small cabin craft, was reported without heating facilities in near-zero weather. Aboard the boat, which was frozen in ice, were Elmer Phillips, 20, and Joseph and Walter Brunette, brothers.

Near St. Paul, Minn., two men were frozen to death. Peter Rezek, 55, Willard, Wis., was found frozen on railroad tracks, and Michael Donaher, 48, St. Paul, died of exposure soon after being removed from a cave where he had sought shelter from the storm.

Reports of deaths resulting from the storm included: Pennsylvania, 11; New York, 7; Minnesota, 2; Michigan, 2; Ohio, 2; Indiana, 3; Illinois, 2; and one each in New Hampshire, West Virginia and North Dakota. Two duck hunters were missing in Michigan. Twenty-seven men were feared lost when the British freighter Saxilby foundered in the Atlantic.

SENATE PROBERS GO TO SAN FRANCISCO

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—A story of colossal losses suffered by California investors through bankruptcies and receiverships was contained in the records of a special U. S. senate investigating committee today as it shifted the scene of its inquiry to San Francisco.

The story of unfortunate, unwise and sometimes dishonest management of invested millions was completed when the committee learned the Fox West Coast Theater chain was thrown into bankruptcy to escape unprofitable lease obligations. Louis W. Myers, an attorney, testified a $25,000 weekly loss was converted into a $30,000 weekly operating profit when the chain was taken over by the newly formed Fox West Coast Theaters Corp., and unprofitable theaters were discarded through bankruptcy proceedings.

questions of indebtedness and claims' and that they hoped for a speedy solution of these soon.

Litvinov will remain in Washington for several days for further discussions on financial matters and other questions not definitely settled in the exchange of letters and memoranda.

Stimulate Trade

President Roosevelt's break with the non-recognition policy of his four predecessors was expected to stimulate a vast flow of trade between America and the Soviet Union. Recent studies made for the state department estimate that the Soviet will place here within the next year orders for goods worth $350,000,000.

Exchange of ambassadors between Washington and Moscow as well as the establishment of consulates by each nation in the leading cities of the other is expected shortly.

The president's action was not unexpected. Ever since he entered the White House last March he has been preparing for this momentous step.

For months the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Agricultural Adjustment administration and other government organizations have been studying means of financing American exports to the Soviet.

The state department, meantime, has conducted a thorough inquiry into the diplomatic, political and legal aspects of recognition. These studies, placed before the President recently, prompted him to end the long era of Soviet-American isolation.

Retards Japanese

Major diplomatic reverberations are expected from this new cohesion between the United States and the Soviet, particularly in the Far East. Experienced observers here believe it will retard Japanese expansion on the Asiatic mainland and in the islands of the Pacific, inasmuch as the Soviet and America are now better prepared to cooperate in safeguarding their far eastern interests.

Administration officials believe, however, that the president's recognition policy was prompted primarily by a desire to build up Soviet-American trade, and the diplomatic consequences are incidental.

Recognition of the Soviet government had been hinted almost since President Roosevelt's inauguration. It became virtually certain on June 24 when the Reconstruction Finance corporation authorized a loan of about $4,000,000 to Russia for the purchase of American cotton.

The loan, of course, was approved by the then Secretary of Treasury Woodin and President Roosevelt. Issuance of such a loan was regarded as tacit recognition of Soviet's stability and ability to pay. Further loans may be made for the purchase by the Soviet union of American copper and wheat.

First Transactions

The transaction was the first official one between this government and that of the Soviet since the World war. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover maintained a strict policy of non-recognition and even refused to countenance loans through American banking institutions.

The Republican administrations stoutly opposed recognition of the Soviet because she defaulted on the debts of the Kerensky and czarist governments.

Senator George Norris of Nebraska was the only prominent Republican to advocate resumption of diplomatic relations. He charged America with "hiding her head in the sand" and said Soviet recognition would result in vast trade benefits.

President Roosevelt agreed with the logic of Norris' argument and saw in recognition a real help for this country's struggling farmers.

The Soviet and the United States meantime are the two biggest non-league nations. Recognition thus was expected by some observers to facilitate collaboration of the United States and the Soviet Union in concerting measures to support the league of nation's recommendations concerning the far eastern crisis.

New Government

When the czar's government fell in 1917 a provisional government was established in Russia under Alexander Kerensky. The latter was recognized by the United States, holding sway until the fall of 1917.

On November 7, 1917, the Bolsheviks established a "dictatorship of the proletariat." They seized banks and factories and nationalized the land.

The American government maintained an attitude of "watchful waiting" during Russia's "sad reverses," as President Wilson called them. Kerensky's ambassador remained in Washington until 1822, even though his government had been virtually non-existant for five years.

When the ambassador finally left the mansion which housed the Russian embassy, the United States merely refused to recognize the ruling government of Russia.

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET TONIGHT ON BUILDING PROGRAM

Further discussion of affairs in connection with the proposed reconstruction of buildings at the high school, damaged by the March earthquake is scheduled by the board of education when it holds a called meeting tonight. The meeting yesterday when the firm of Allison and Allison, Los Angeles architects was dismissed after having been employed to direct the work, was adjourned to meet at the call of Chairman George Wells.

The board planned to meet this morning but could not act as it had been impossible to ge formal notice of the meeting to W. M. Burke, board member who made the motion releasing Allison and giving his share of the reconstruction work to Frederick Eley. Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton, legal advisor to the board ruled against taking further action until Burke had been given formal notice of the meeting.

It is considered likely that further discussion of architects may form a part of the business at tonight's meeting.

RICARDO CORTEZ TO WED N. Y. DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Ricardo Cortez admitted his engagement to Mrs. Christine Lee, wealthy Beverly Hills and New York divorcee. An "old fashioned Hollywood wedding" with all the trimmings was planned, the husband of the late Alma Rubens said. Their engagement capped a four-month friendship. Mrs. Lee recently divorced Lester Lee, New York broker, in Reno.

Fifi Dorsay and Maurice Earl Hill, former Minnesota football star, are expected to be married within a week. Applying for a license, the vivacious actress said they would be married "as soon as possible." Hill is an interne.

Agricultural adjustment administration efforts to raise prices have progressed but farm commodities have failed to reach parity with other prices. The administration says time is required for the effects of AAA work to show.

With one swift, startling stroke after another, Mr. Roosevelt has launched what many describe as a revolution. His champions hail this as a long range effort to revamp the country's economic structure. His critics question it, as an attempt to modify the American system, without authorization by the voters. That is the core of the political issue which is thrusting itself up through the dizzy whirl of action. Many say it will rage through the next presidential campaign as one of the great issues of the times.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 17. (To the Editor of The Register:) Well, in one of the papers I read today, it had an awful lot of information, if true. Said Al Smith, No. 99, was to go to the Senate, replacing Dr. Copeland, No. 86. Copeland to go to France as Ambassador, replacing Jesse Straus, No. 63. Postmaster-General Farley, No. 77, to go in as next Democratic Governor of New York, replacnig Lehman, No. 66. Raskob, No. 55, to replace as U. S. Treasurer, Mr. Woodin, No. 44. Even if this is just a rumor it makes good reading, and if it's a fact it makes Democratic history. It means the shock troops are going in.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—A story of colossal losses suffered by California investors through bankruptcies and receiverships was contained in the records of a special U. S. senate investigating committee today as it shifted the scene of its inquiry to San Francisco.

The story of unfortunate, unwise and sometimes dishonest management of invested millions was completed when the committee learned the Fox West Coast Theater chain was thrown into bankruptcy to escape unprofitable lease obligations. Louis W. RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA IS MADE PUBLIC questions of indebtedness and claims' and that they hoped for a speedy solution of these soon.

Litvinov will remain in Washington for several days for further discussions on financial matters and other questions not definitely settled in the exchange of letters and memoranda.

Stimulate Trade

President Roosevelt's break with the non-recognition policy of his four predecessors was expected to stimulate a vast flow of trade between America and the Soviet Union. Recent studies made for the state department estimate that the Soviet will place here within the next year orders for goods worth $350,000,000.

Exchange of ambassadors between Washington and Moscow as well as the establishment of consulates by each nation in the leading cities of the other is expected shortly.

The president's action was not unexpected. Ever since he entered the White House last March he has been preparing for this momentous step.

For months the Reconstruction Finance corporation, the Agricultural Adjustment administration and other government organizations have been studying means of financing American exports to the Soviet.

The state department, meantime, has conducted a thorough inquiry into the diplomatic, political and legal aspects of recognition. These studies, placed before the President recently, prompted him to end the long era of Soviet-American isolation.

Retards Japanese

Major diplomatic reverberations are expected from this new cohesion between the United States and the Soviet, particularly in the Far East. Experienced observers here believe it will retard Japanese expansion on the Asiatic mainland and in the islands of the Pacific, inasmuch as the Soviet and America are now better prepared to cooperate in safeguarding their far eastern interests.

Administration officials believe, however, that the president's recognition policy was prompted primarily by a desire to build up Soviet-American trade, and the diplomatic consequences are incidental.

Recognition of the Soviet government had been hinted almost since President Roosevelt's inauguration. It became virtually certain on June 24 when the Reconstruction Finance corporation authorized a loan of about $4,000,000 to Russia for the purchase of American cotton.

The loan, of course, was approved by the then Secretary of Treasury Woodin and President Roosevelt. Issuance of such a loan was regarded as tacit recognition of Soviet's stability and ability to pay. Further loans may be made for the purchase by the Soviet union of American copper and wheat.

First Transactions

The transaction was the first official one between this government and that of the Soviet since the World war. Presidents Coolidge and Hoover maintained a strict policy of non-recognition and even refused to countenance loans through American banking institutions.

The Republican administrations stoutly opposed recognition of the Soviet because she defaulted on the debts of the Kerensky and czarist governments.

Senator George Norris of Nebraska was the only prominent Republican to advocate resumption of diplomatic relations. He charged America with "hiding her head in the sand" and said Soviet recognition would result in vast trade benefits.

President Roosevelt agreed with the logic of Norris' argument and saw in recognition a real help for this country's struggling farmers.

The Soviet and the United States meantime are the two biggest non-league nations. Recognition thus was expected by some observers to facilitate collaboration of the United States and the Soviet Union in concerting measures to support the league of nation's recommendations concerning the far eastern crisis.

New Government

When the czar's government fell in 1917 a provisional government was established in Russia under Alexander Kerensky. The latter was recognized by the United States, holding sway until the fall of 1917.

On November 7, 1917, the Bolsheviks established a "dictatorship of the proletariat." They seized banks and factories and nationalized the land.

The American government maintained an attitude of "watchful waiting" during Russia's "sad reverses," as President Wilson called them. Kerensky's ambassador remained in Washington until 1822, even though his government had been virtually non-existant for five years.

When the ambassador finally left the mansion which housed the Russian embassy, the United States merely refused to recognize the ruling government of Russia.

the federation declaring some codes had increased agricultural production costs more rapidly than had farm prices been boosted by the agricultural adjustment administration. A fourth resolution said the federation "believes and endorses a program to conserve and develop natural water resources in California."

Blackburn was re-elected president. Alex Johnson, Berkeley, was re-elected secretary, and Ray B. Wiser, Gridley, vice president. Next year's convention will meet at Bakersfield.

Detailed charges were not made public, but Blackburn said they were made by newspapers of the Sacramento and San Joaquin valleys. No action was taken on the convention floor. An earlier resolution demanding the investigation was submitted to the directors who failed to pass it to the resolutions committee.

FAIR MANAGER GETS POST FOR 21ST TIME

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Charles W. Paine, of Sacramento, today held the post of Secretary-Manager of the California State Fair board for the 21st consecutive term. His election was unanimous.

The board, after a lengthy hearing at which financial conditions were discussed, appointed a committee to study possibilities of raising money to finance a construction program at the fair grounds.

Miss Olga Uhling, of San Pedro, was a recent dinner guest in the home of Mrs. George Clough. On Tuesday Mrs. Clough motored to Long Beach, where she met her mother ,Mrs. J. Hansen, of San Pedro, the two spending theday in that city.

Going For Poetry In a Small Way

If you go in for "light" reading matter, you'll be interested in the 28-page volume of Omar Khayam that Hamilton Woods and Frederick Vroom have just published in Worcester, Mass. The book of verse, weighing but a third of a carat, is so small that an ordinary thimble can hold 28 volumes!

SCHOOL BOARD TO MEET TONIGHT ON BUILDING PROGRAM

Further discussion of affairs in connection with the proposed reconstruction of buildings at the high school, damaged by the March earthquake is scheduled by the board of education when it holds a called meeting tonight. The meeting yesterday when the firm of Allison and Allison, Los Angeles architects was dismissed after having been employed to direct the work, was adjourned to meet at the call of Chairman George Wells.

The board planned to meet this morning but could not act as it had been impossible to ge formal notice of the meeting to W. M. Burke, board member who made the motion releasing Allison and giving his share of the reconstruction work to Frederick Eley. Assistant District Attorney W. F. Menton, legal advisor to the board ruled against taking further action until Burke had been given formal notice of the meeting.

It is considered likely that further discussion of architects may form a part of the business at tonight's meeting.

RICARDO CORTEZ TO WED N. Y. DIVORCE

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Ricardo Cortez admitted his engagement to Mrs. Christine Lee, wealthy Beverly Hills and New York divorcee. An "old fashioned Hollywood wedding" with all the trimmings was planned, the husband of the late Alma Rubens said. Their engagement capped a four-month friendship. Mrs. Lee recently divorced Lester Lee, New York broker, in Reno.

Fifi Dorsay and Maurice Earl Hill, former Minnesota football star, are expected to be married within a week. Applying for a license, the vivacious actress said they would be married "as soon as possible." Hill is an interne.

PRESIDENT TO LEAVE TONIGHT FOR VACATION

ment 23.5 per cent higher than a year ago and payrolls up 34.3 per cent.

Agricultural adjustment administration efforts to raise prices have progressed but farm commodities have failed to reach parity with other prices. The administration says time is required for the effects of AAA work to show.

With one swift, startling stroke after another, Mr. Roosevelt has launched what many describe as a revolution. His champions hail this as a long range effort to revamp the country's economic structure. His critics question it, as an attempt to modify the American system, without authorization by the voters. That is the core of the political issue which is thrusting itself up through the dizzy whirl of action. Many say it will rage through the next presidential campaign as one of the great issues of the times.

WILL ROGERS says:

BEVERLY HILLS, Nov. 17. (To the Editor of The Register:) Well, in one of the papers I read today, it had an awful lot of information, if true. Said Al Smith, No. 99, was to go to the Senate, replacing Dr. Copeland, No. 86. Copeland to go to France as Ambassador, replacing Jesse Straus, No. 63. Postmaster-General Farley, No. 77, to go in as next Democratic Governor of New York, replacnig Lehman, No. 66. Raskob, No. 55, to replace as U. S. Treasurer, Mr. Woodin, No. 44. Even if this is just a rumor it makes good reading, and if it's a fact it makes Democratic history. It means the shock troops are going in.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

holism." Grace told her, she said, that he was in "pretty bad trouble," that he had fallen in love with a woman and that the woman was going to have a baby.

Twelve nurses appeared as character witnesses for the defendant. Each of them kissed Miss Weltz on leaving the stand. The courtroom spectators applauded.

When questioned concerning the shooting, Miss Weltz claimed that she had secured the gun with the intention of committing suicide and didn't know that she had shot Grace until she heard him fall on the ground.

POLICE SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT WHO HAS FLED

Knocked insensible with a heavy blunt instrument early this morning, P. T. Riley, itinerant, is near death in the Orange County hospital while police throughout Southern California are seeking for his suspected assailant, known only as "Whitey" to associates of the two men in a hobo camp near The Arches in Newport Beach.

Riley was found by several of his friends this morning shortly after he had been clubbed unconscious. Attendants at the nearby service station were called and sheriff's officers summoned to investigate. Riley, whose former home or occupation is unknown, was rushed to the hospital but could give no details of the fight because he was unable to talk. Attending physicians said he had a possible skull fracture, broken nose and other serious injuries. His chances to live are uncertain, it was learned from the hospital.

"Whitey," the man believed to have wielded the iron bar or heavy timber on Riley, was missing from the hobo camp this morning. Descriptions have been flashed over the Southland and every effort is being made to apprehend him. When last seen, he was wearing blue overalls, white shirt, leather hat and had a canvas bedroll. He is said to be about 50 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and has light colored hair.

Deputy Sheriff L. H. Nicholson, handling the investigation, is questioning the members of the camp to determine any possible bad feeling beween the men or other motive that may have caused a fight.

FARM BUREAU ASKS ACTION ON FARM LOANS

Returning from the annual meeting of the California Farm Bureau Federation R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, this morning released information regarding 12 resolutions adopted by the state group with direct bearing on Orange county affairs.

Probably the most important was Resolution No. 8 ordering executive officials of the California Farm Bureau Federation to obtain from the Farm Credit Administration, if possible, elimination of requirements adding to the cost of loans without improving the security therefore and to make a study of the possibility of using Torrens titles as adequate evidence of title and any other possibilities of making loans.

Under Resolution No. 6, the research department of the state organization was directed to study the sales tax as it is operating in California and elsewhere with a view of making constructive recommendations.

Resolution No. 9 directed executive officers to vigorously pursue a policy of securing the alteration or elimination of all such rules, regulations and practices of the Eleventh District Farm Credit Administration that delay the farmer with a legitimate case from obtaining speedy and maximum relief from the burden of his indebtedness, and instructed the executive officers to take such steps as may appear necessary to secure fulfillment of this program.

Loan Costs High

Declaring that the cost of obtaining loans for agricultural purposes is disproportionately high in many cases due to provisions of the law relating to the recording and releasing of mortgages, delegates to the sesion adopted Resolution No. 13 instructing the Law and Utility department of the California Farm Bureau Federation to ascertain and prepare legislation obtaining the maximum reduction in such costs consistent with protection to the lender.

The idea originating in Orange county from the work of H. D. Zimmer, Clarence Brown, C. J. Cogan, Lawrence Kokx, M. Sasaki, S. Murata, E. E. Eastman and Flaherty establishment of a vegetable department of the state organization was authorized by Resolution No. 14.

Resolution 15, protested the adoption of all NRA codes affecting agricultural costs of production without giving due consideration to the price parity program for agriculture and the extent, if any, to which agricultural returns have been increased by such program.

Resolution No. 20, directed the Research department to join in a study with the State Department of Education and such other departments or organizations as are concerned with the study of the school problem with the understanding that the organization will not be bound necessarily by any recommendations to be made by the committee.

Citrus Industry

Two resolutions were adopted directly affecting the citrus industry. Resolution No. 21 orders institution of a campaign of education by all interested agencies, producers and consumer alike, setting forth the value of standardization as a means of upholding the reputation for qualities of California agricultural products, thus insuring consumer satisfaction and increased consumption with resultant greater revenue to California.

The second resolution, No. 30, inaugurated a new campaign for adjustment of freight rates that will enable this industry to survive.

Resolution 24 requested officers and directors of the organization to cooperate with growers of commodities in preparation of marketing agreements to the end that price restoration may be effective with the sale of 1934 crops.

Under resolution 26 the Secretary of Agriculture was requested to do all in his power to encourage the transfer of the agricultural producing power of planted acreages from surplus to non-surplus crops for which they are adapted. This directly affects the sugar beet industry. Under this resolution it has been pointed out that an effort will be made to restrict importation of foreign sugar and expand the acreage of American sugar beets. This will afford an opportunity for farmers to plant sugar beets on acreage taken out of production by agreements to restrict acreage of other crops in which a surplus is produced.

Resolution 32 requested the Secretary of Agriculture to use his best efforts to more expeditiously handle the codes submitted under the Adjustment Act.

Because the local high school auditorium has been closed the Orange County Forum programs are to be held in Fullerton high school auditorium, starting Tuesday, November 21, when Senator Robert LaFollette jr., will speak at 8 p. m.

EXPECT CROWD AT TRIAL OF PASTOR

The courtroom of Judge H. A. Robinson in La Habra is expected to be taxed to capacity next Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when the Rev. B. F. Chambers, minister of the Pentecostal church, goes on trial on a charge of disturbing the peace.

The complaint, signed by Mrs. Myra Hibbs, charges the pastor with "loud, and unusual and unnecessary noises" in leading his congregation.

According to the Rev. Claude A. Watson of Los Angeles, who has been retained as attorney for the defendant, the court will be asked to decide the difference between "religious noise" and other noises.

Complaint was made to the La Habra city council some time ago of alleged noise at the Pentecostal meetings and a committee was appointed to make an investigation.

ADMITS GUILT ON HIT, RUN AUTO CHARGE

With an amended information filed against him in department two in superior court this morning Frederick Handy pleaded guilty to a charge of failure to stop and render aid after an automobile accident. Handy originally was charged with failure to stop and render aid and with drunken driving. Handy applied for probation and Judge James L. Allen set the hearing on his petition for December 1.

Handy is accused of having neglected to stop after an automobile accident near the Eddie Martin Airport in which Dolores Gunther, 20, Martha Unzleman, 21, both of Orange and Winston Roby of the C. C. C. camp in Silverado Canyon were injured.

Dyril H. Beeman, accused of non-support of a minor child appeared late in court after Judge Allen had issued a bench warrant for his arrest and explained through his attorney that they had had car trouble on the trip here from Los Angeles. The warrant was recalled and Beeman pleaded not guilty to the charge. He waived a jury trial and his hearing set for December 6. It was indicated that a settlement of the case would be made out of court.

At the request of Defense Attorney Thomas McFadden, W. L. Hick's plea for probation on a statutory charge was continued for one week.

Oswald Stock pleaded not guilty to non-support of a minor child and had his trial set for January 10.

POLICE SEARCH FOR ASSAILANT WHO HAS FLED

Knocked insensible with a heavy blunt instrument early this morning, P. T. Riley, itinerant, is near death in the Orange County hospital while police throughout Southern California are seeking for his suspected assailant, known only as "Whitey" to associates of the two men in a hobo camp near The Arches in Newport Beach.

Riley was found by several of his friends this morning shortly after he had been clubbed unconscious. Attendants at the nearby service station were called and sheriff's officers summoned to investigate. Riley, whose former home or occupation is unknown, was rushed to the hospital but could give no details of the fight because he was unable to talk. Attending physicians said he had a possible skull fracture, broken nose and other serious injuries. His chances to live are uncertain, it was learned from the hospital.

"Whitey," the man believed to have wielded the iron bar or heavy timber on Riley, was missing from the hobo camp this morning. Descriptions have been flashed over the Southland and every effort is being made to apprehend him. When last seen, he was wearing blue overalls, white shirt, leather hat and had a canvas bedroll. He is said to be about 50 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall and has light colored hair.

Deputy Sheriff L. H. Nicholson, handling the investigation, is questioning the members of the camp to determine any possible bad feeling beween the men or other motive that may have caused a fight.

EXPECT AUTOMOTIVE CODE HERE TODAY

Delayed in Los Angeles, the new code governing maintenance and service on automobiles is expected hourly at the offices of the Automotive Trades association of Orange county, it was learned from Harry D. Riley, secretary.

Miss Evelyn M. Ellingson, Costa Mesa, has accepted a position as office manager and assistant secretary for the newly createtd Allied Automotive Industries association of Southern California, Riley announced. Riley is executive secretary and manager of the southern association.

Members of the used parts and wrecking craft of the county group will meet Monday night in the Builders Exchange building.

Spanish Village Votes On Council Member Saturday

Voters of San Clemente will go to the polls tomorrow to decide whether Earl Von BonHorst, who was recalled in a recent election, or Will J. Barry, who was discharged as a city employe immediately following the election, is to fill the vacancy on the city council.

The Social clubhouse will be the polling place and the ballots will be cast between 8 and 4 o'clock.

WHOLESALER SAYS BUSINESS IS IMPROVING

Discussing business conditions, J. S. Smart, of Smart and Final, wholesale grocers, told a group of 125 representatives of Red and White stores that business conditions now are better than a year ago at a quarterly meeting held last night in the Orange Woman's clubhouse.

Smart discussed various phases of the grocery business. Branch managers also spoke on the program, discussing business conditions and methods of meeting current problems.

For the entertainment portion of the program, the Santa Ana Elks double quartet and orchestra played and sang several selections, accompanied at the piano by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

A one-act play entitled "Greater Profits" with the scene in a grocery store was staged. Character parts were taken by Mr. and Mrs. Ben Manker, Mr. and Mrs. R. F. McPhee and son, Mrs. Bud Southard, Roy Smith and John McCourt.

TWAY OFFICIAL OF NEW GRAND JURY

Drawn yesterday by Presiding Judge G. K. Scovel the 1934 grand jury went into session at 10:30 a. m. and elected William Tway secretary.

According to W. H. Spurgeon, appointed foreman by Judge Scovel committee appointments will not be made until the group meets next Wednesday. This meeting is scheduled for the grand jury room at the court house at 10 a. m.

FARM BUREAU ASKS ACTION ON FARM LOANS

Returning from the annual meeting of the California Farm Bureau Federation R. D. Flaherty, secretary of the Orange County Farm Bureau, this morning released information regarding 12 resolutions adopted by the state group with direct bearing on Orange county affairs.

Probably the most important was Resolution No. 8 ordering executive officials of the California Farm Bureau Federation to obtain from the Farm Credit Administration, if possible, elimination of requirements adding to the cost of loans without improving the security therefore and to make a study of the possibility of using Torrens titles as adequate evidence of title and any other possibilities of making loans.

Under Resolution No. 6, the research department of the state organization was directed to study the sales tax as it is operating in California and elsewhere with a view of making constructive recommendations.

Resolution No. 9 directed executive officers to vigorously pursue a policy of securing the alteration or elimination of all such rules, regulations and practices of the Eleventh District Farm Credit Administration that delay the farmer with a legitimate case from obtaining speedy and maximum relief from the burden of his indebtedness, and instructed the executive officers to take such steps as may appear necessary to secure fulfillment of this program.

Loan Costs High

Declaring that the cost of obtaining loans for agricultural purposes is disproportionately high in many cases due to provisions of the law relating to the recording and releasing of mortgages, delegates to the sesion adopted Resolution No. 13 instructing the Law and Utility department of the California Farm Bureau Federation to ascertain and prepare legislation obtaining the maximum reduction in such costs consistent with protection to the lender.

The idea originating in Orange county from the work of H. D. Zimmer, Clarence Brown, C. J. Cogan, Lawrence Kokx, M. Sasaki, S. Murata, E. E. Eastman and Flaherty establishment of a vegetable department of the state organization was authorized by Resolution No. 14.

Resolution 15, protested the adoption of all NRA codes affecting agricultural costs of production without giving due consideration to the price parity program for agriculture and the extent, if any, to which agricultural returns have been increased by such program.

Resolution No. 20, directed the Research department to join in a study with the State Department of Education and such other departments or organizations as are concerned with the study of the school problem with the understanding that the organization will not be bound necessarily by any recommendations to be made by the committee.

Citrus Industry

Two resolutions were adopted directly affecting the citrus industry. Resolution No. 21 orders institution of a campaign of education by all interested agencies, producers and consumer alike, setting forth the value of standardization as a means of upholding the reputation for qualities of California agricultural products, thus insuring consumer satisfaction and increased consumption with resultant greater revenue to California.

The second resolution, No. 30, inaugurated a new campaign for adjustment of freight rates that will enable this industry to survive.

Resolution 24 requested officers and directors of the organization to cooperate with growers of commodities in preparation of marketing agreements to the end that price restoration may be effective with the sale of 1934 crops.

Under resolution 26 the Secretary of Agriculture was requested to do all in his power to encourage the transfer of the agricultural producing power of planted acreages from surplus to non-surplus crops for which they are adapted. This directly affects the sugar beet industry. Under this resolution it has been pointed out that an effort will be made to restrict importation of foreign sugar and expand the acreage of American sugar beets. This will afford an opportunity for farmers to plant sugar beets on acreage taken out of production by agreements to restrict acreage of other crops in which a surplus is produced.

Resolution 32 requested the Secretary of Agriculture to use his best efforts to more expeditiously handle the codes submitted under the Adjustment Act.

HOLLY TRUCKS GIVEN AWARDS FROM GOODRICH

Travelling slightly in excess of 80,000 miles in six months, a fleet of five trucks and trailers operated by the Holly Sugar corporation is the first in Orange county to receive the silver award of the Goodrich Safety league.

During this period, the fleet carried a total of 16,500 tons of "Holly" products, consisting of sugar and dried beet pulp. The success of the "Holly" fleet operations is attributed by W. E. Baker, general manager, to the efficient work of the fleet personnel, which includes the following Santa Ana men: H. B. Handerson, 1009 Oak street, truck superintendent; Ernest Peterson, 2026 Oak street; Roy Sparks, 924 Fairview; Fred Howell, 931 Spurgeon; James Cruze, 1022 Cypress street, and Charles Cecil Yates East Seventeenth street.

The recent sugar season ended November 8, after 100 days of beet slicing, during which time 132,500 tons of beets were delivered to the factory. Over 350 men have been continuously employed in factory operations during the slicing campaign and the permanent payroll during the inter-campaign period will total 75 men. The annual payroll of the Holly factory exceeds $200,000 while the farmers of this district are paid a total of over $700,000. More than $500,000 is spent for materials and incidentals in operating the large plant near Delhi.

The safety awards were granted following the six-month period without accidents. The white trucks are kept immaculately clean by the drivers and careful attention is given to the equipment, Baker said. The trucks and trailers were purchased in 1930 and have handled large tonnages each season.

SAFETY AWARDS GIVEN TO HOLLY FLEET

Holly Sugar corporation enjoys the distinction of being the first fleet operators in Orange county to receive the silver award of the Goodrich Safety league. The fleet of five trucks and trailers shown below has travelled in excess of 80,000 miles during the six-month period on which the safety award is based. Left to right in the picture are Roy Sparks, Ernest Peterson, Charles Yates, Fred Howell, Cecil Yates and James Cruze. In the second group on the right, from left to right, is Mayor Paul Witmer, R. G. Daniels, factory superintendent, Orval Lyon, of the Goodrich company, George Gowen, Holly purchasing agent, and W. E. Baker, of the Holly company.

MILLER OPENS NEW MARKET ON MAIN STREET

Grand opening of the Main Street Market, Chestnut and Main streets, will be staged tomorrow, it was announced today by R. R. Miller, proprietor.

Miller, who has operated the Modern market at 408 South Main street for the past six years, ever since he came to Santa Ana to enter business, has moved his market to the new location, where stocks and conveniences for patrons have been increased.

In his new location, Miller will specialize in a delicatessen and in small canned goods to accommodate smaller families. The market has a complete meat department where high grade meats are sold and a vegetable and fruit division, in addition to the market proper.

Store hours will be from 6 a. m. to 9 p. m., Miller announced. "We consider that we have the lowest overhead of any market in the city and we will sell as cheaply as the NRA provisions will permit," he said. High grade nationally advertised groceries will be handled.

Four persons have been added to the market force since moving into the new location, Miller announced.

S. A. COMMITTEE FOR U.S.C. MEET NAMED TODAY

Charles Swanner, Dr. Herbert Stroscheim, Ernest Winbigler and Bill Cole, U. S. C. alumni living in Santa Ana, have been named on a county-wide committee to assist in arranging for the appearance of Dr. Rufus B. von KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, in Santa Ana next Thursday evening.

District Attorney S. B. Kaufman was previously announced as representing this city on a general arrangement committee consisting of Judge Homer Ames of Anaheim, Raymond Thompson of Fullerton and Gordon Richmond of Orange.

Dr. von KleinSmid will be accompanied to Santa Ana by Harold William Roberts and the Trojan band as well as other dignitaries and their wives from U. S. C. He is expected to touch upon his trip to Europe this summer to study educational progress and world affairs and will discuss the position of universities on the Pacific coast.

Wayne Harrison, president of the Orange County Trojan Men's club, joint sponsors of the meeting with the Trojan Women's club, has authorized Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, toastmaster for the evening, to invite every school teacher in the county to hear the Trojan educator. Because of his infrequent appearances here, the public also is welcome.

Other committee members named to serve with the Santa Ana men are as follows: Anaheim, Dr. H. A. Johnson, Leonard Evans, William Webb and Dr. Charles Schutz; Orange, Roy Edwards, A. H. Dittmer, Martell Thompson and A. S. Berneman; Fullerton, Don Cruickshank, the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman, Albert Launer and Lloyd S. Varry.

Reservations will close Tuesday night and may be made in Santa Ana with Harrison in the Pacific building, Instructor John McCoy at the junior college and District Attorney Kaufman at the court house.

ROAMING BOYS PROVE PROBLEM FOR SOCIETY

Society will have to meet—and pay for a few years from now—the problem of the large number of wandering boys now roaming about the country, bumming rides on freight trains, and sleeping in jails, according to Judge LeRoy Dawson of the Los Angeles municipal court, addressing a joint meeting yesterday noon of the Santa Ana Lions and Kiwanis clubs. The affair, held at James cafe, was in the nature of a return visit of the Kiwanis club to the Lions club, with Col. M. B. Wellington of Kiwanis as program chairman.

The wandering boys are where they are by an exercise of their own will, Judge Dawson said, and camps and other movements which do not appeal to them do not meet the problem. The speaker urged a spirit of good sportsmanship on the part of the citizens, so they will meet the obligations and pay for their privileges as citizens.

In his talk, which bristled with sparkling humor, Judge Dawson, who is a prominent Legionnaire, and a nephew of W. B. Martin of Santa Ana, talked principally upon the night court over which he presides each evening from 8 until after midnight, during which time from 75 to 150 cases are handled. Everyone advocates law enforcement "for everybody else," he said, and that crap shooting, which is a social diversion west of Main street, becomes a crime in the district east of Main street, particularly in the colored Central avenue district.

The meeting was called to order by President Carson Smith of the Lions, and Andy Anderson introduced a number of men in the Lions as sons of Kiwanis members. President Doc Huffman of the Kiwanis club also spoke briefly and introduced Col. Wellington as chairman of the day.

Preceding the address, Frank Pierce, baritone soloist and music director at the First Christian church, entertained with three numbers, accompanied at the piano by Art Cannon.

Stephen Chalmers, noted author, will be the Lions speaker next Thursday, President Smith announced, when the Junior Lions will be honor guests of the club, and the following week the Lions will meet with the Rotary club, when Bob Shuler will be the speaker.

On December 7, with Don Jerome as chairman of the day, the Lions will be entertained by the Elks double quartet.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

H. S. AUDITORIUM, BUILT IN 1920 LARGEST IN CITY

Closing of the auditorium at the high school on recommendation of state authorities has left sponsors of public meetings usually held there in a quandary. The auditorium, erected in 1920 by John Simpson, contractor who also built the Roosevelt and Franklin elementary schools, has a seating capacity of more than 1500 persons and is the largest in Santa Ana. Plans for the auditorium were provided by Architect Marsh, records reveal.

Closing of the auditorium leaves the Methodist church auditorium as the place with the greatest seating capacity available. The church auditorium can seat approximately 900 people. Next to the Methodist church the Frances Willard Junior High school auditorium has the largest seating capacity. It will seat 623 people but is not available except on nights when it is not in use by the adult education department. The Temple theater will seat 500 people if the stage is utilized by installation of chairs. Without using the stage the theater can seat approximately 450 persons. The Ebell clubhouse auditorium has a seating capacity of approximately 350 people.

The high school auditorium was closed by order of the Santa Ana board of education after the state architect reported that the building was unsafe and unfit for occupancy due to earthquake damage.

E. L. SCHNEEBERGER CALLED BY DEATH

Elmer L. Schneeberger, 45, one of the first residents of San Clemente, passed away in a Los Angeles hospital this morning following an operation performed Tuesday. Funeral services will be held Monday at the Divel parlors in the Spanish Village, but the exact time has not been determined.

Mr. Schneeberger was with the Ole Hanson organization for a number of years and later was deputy tax collector. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nellie Schneeberger, and a son, Russell.

"MARRIAGE FOR SECURITY NOT NECESSARY FOR WOMEN UNDER NEW SOCIAL ORDER"—MILLS

Until it is no longer necessary for men to sell themselves for wages, it will be impossible to prevent women from selling themselves in marriage for the security of a home, Walter Thomas Mills declared last night, speaking at the People's Forum on "The Woman in Technocracy."

The success of the Technocracy movement, he said, will be assured when women take the lead. He asserted that many movements controlled by men have started and died because of petty and personal quarrels among the men involved but when women take hold of a movement they do so with determination and carry it through to success.

"Women," he said, "will lead in Technocracy as soon as they are sure that the Technocrats' proposals are for the greater security and well being of the family.

"Too many people believe the definition of a woman who is 'well married' means that the woman has wedded some one able to provide the necessities and comforts of life regardless of whether she loves the man or not. In other words it is a bargain where she agrees to surrender at the direction of the man in return for him contracting to feed and clothe her for the balance of her life."

Carry Heaviest Burden

Mills said that such marriages are decreasing as women are gradually coming to learn that she does not have to marry in order to secure a home and that she can support herself easier if she is not hampered by a family. He said that the wife and mother carries the heaviest burden in civilization. The development of the human being is more largely traced to motherhood than to any other reason.

The gradual development of the chain store, according to Mills, is merely the modern version of the prehistoric man's expanding flocks. When the prehistoric man clashed with a neighboring tribe over grazing land of flocks they either killed all the men in the defeated tribe or placed chains about their necks and took them prisoners.

"Today", Mills said, "big business has, through the chain store, placed its chains about the neck of every community and has taken it prisoner. Rockefeller and Morgan are the masters of retail trade as they are of the oil business and industry. They have their hands in California and each year this state ships huge profits to New York, never to return."

Women will rally to the support of Technocracy, he declared, just as soon as they become convinced that their husbands cannot get jobs under the present system. "If anything proposed under the N. R. A. were to become effective tomorrow", the speaker said, "there would still be twelve million left without jobs.

Have Equal Rights

"There is not a woman in the world that does not have equal rights to the world's natural resources and God never intended a child to be born and live on this earth unless it could really live. Some one must provide for these children, until they can care for themselves, for the race cannot last if it consents to live at the price of its young. The grown man cannot live at the expense of growing children and no community can permit itself to exist at the expense of growing children.

"Woman has a hatchet, not the kind that was used to smash salons but the ballot. Woman is a voter and has the power to make an end of depression once and forever.

"Technocracy is within your reach and if you do not get it it is your own fault. Every businessman in the nation has been working night and day for years creating the conditions that have made possible the advantages of technocracy. The way to get them is at the ballot box.

"Would any woman used to the mangement of her kitchen and paying the grocery bills manage the nation and permit waste? She would not. Through her vote she can and will turn idle millionaires into industrious citizens.

Use Ballot Box

"To you unemployed men I will say—ask for jobs at the ballot box, that is the only place where jobs await you. Be counted for Technocracy at the ballot box. I do not care what party you adopt but vote for the man or men who will take office and give you what you want."

He urged his listeners to affiliate themselves with political groups that do not receive contributions from Wall street, warning them that "the party or voting precinct that accepts contributions from Wall street will be dominated by Tammany Hall whether it is a New York or Orange county precinct."

He urged them to form their own organization and contribute to its support making it unnecessary to accept outside contributions. He declared that the only way to avoid control by Wall street is for the groups who want reform to pay their own bills.

"Political activities in Orange county," he declared "are financed by a handful of men. You never contribute anything but criticism of the man who sells out."

Small Claims Court In Busy Session

Maybe Santa Ana citizens are preparing to buy Thanksgiving turkeys and need some extra cash. Whatever the reason, the small claims court before Judge Kenneth Morrison, broke all records today with 22 cases.

Judge Morrison thought he had a big calender last week when 18 paintiffs presented their claims but he had a busier day this morning. The claims ranged up to $50 and even drop as low as 50 cents, Morrison said. The smallest claim today was for $8.

Former Resident Of Tustin Dies

Mrs. Anna Kaiser, 70, former resident of Tustin where she lived for 10 years before moving to San Dimas 10 years ago, died at her San Dimas home last night, according to word received here today. She had been ill for some time. She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. C. R. Maxson, of Tustin. Funeral services and interment will be made in Azusa tomorrow.

FORCED TO CASH BAD CHECKS, GIRL ASSERTS

Following her statement that she had been forced to cash worthless checks in Orange county for which she later was arrested, Superior Judge James L. Allen this morning continued the probation hearing of Mrs. June Deffley Brinkley for three weeks. The continuance was granted in an effort to take into custody the man responsible for issuing the checks.

According to the statement made to the court by Mrs. Brinkley, 21, former Santa Ana high school girl, she was forced to cash the checks which were written and signed by Dr. John W. Melville, said to be a Los Angeles physician. Dr. Melville, according to the girl's statement, maintained a girl friend of hers in an apartment in Los Angeles. Mrs. Brinkley, who has been separated from her husband for two years, had been living with an uncle in Whittier.

Mrs. Brinkley said that when she discovered that she was to become a mother, her uncle ordered her to leave his house. She was given sanctuary with the girl friend in the apartment maintained by Melville. Later, she said, Melville wrote the checks and told her that she would either have to cash them or leave the apartment. The girl told the court that Dr. Melville drove her to Santa Ana where she cashed four checks and to Orange where she cashed four more and took all the proceeds of the operation. She cashed another check in Ontario where she was arrested. In Ontario she was granted probation and turned over to Orange county authorities.

According to Mrs. Brinkley's story, she is the mother of a two and one-half year old son who is living at present with his grandfather in Phoenix, Ariz. The father of the child to be born in January, she said, is a Santa Ana man who has disappeared.

Judge Allen, continuing the case for three weeks instructed a warrant be issued for Dr. Melville. He was informed by Deputy Probation Officer Dave McMillan that the warrant has been issued and Melville apparently fled. In requesting probation for his client, Attorney Z. B. West said that she was to return to her mother in Phoenix, Ariz., where she will be given a home if granted probation.

ROAMING BOYS PROVE PROBLEM FOR SOCIETY

Society will have to meet—and pay for a few years from now—the problem of the large number of wandering boys now roaming about the country, bumming rides on freight trains, and sleeping in jails, according to Judge LeRoy Dawson of the Los Angeles municipal court, addressing a joint meeting yesterday noon of the Santa Ana Lions and Kiwanis clubs. The affair, held at James cafe, was in the nature of a return visit of the Kiwanis club to the Lions club, with Col. M. B. Wellington of Kiwanis as program chairman.

The wandering boys are where they are by an exercise of their own will, Judge Dawson said, and camps and other movements which do not appeal to them do not meet the problem. The speaker urged a spirit of good sportsmanship on the part of the citizens, so they will meet the obligations and pay for their privileges as citizens.

In his talk, which bristled with sparkling humor, Judge Dawson, who is a prominent Legionnaire, and a nephew of W. B. Martin of Santa Ana, talked principally upon the night court over which he presides each evening from 8 until after midnight, during which time from 75 to 150 cases are handled. Everyone advocates law enforcement "for everybody else," he said, and that crap shooting, which is a social diversion west of Main street, becomes a crime in the district east of Main street, particularly in the colored Central avenue district.

The meeting was called to order by President Carson Smith of the Lions, and Andy Anderson introduced a number of men in the Lions as sons of Kiwanis members. President Doc Huffman of the Kiwanis club also spoke briefly and introduced Col. Wellington as chairman of the day.

Preceding the address, Frank Pierce, baritone soloist and music director at the First Christian church, entertained with three numbers, accompanied at the piano by Art Cannon.

Stephen Chalmers, noted author, will be the Lions speaker next Thursday, President Smith announced, when the Junior Lions will be honor guests of the club, and the following week the Lions will meet with the Rotary club, when Bob Shuler will be the speaker.

On December 7, with Don Jerome as chairman of the day, the Lions will be entertained by the Elks double quartet.

IF YOUR EARS RING WITH HEAD NOISES

If you have roaring, buzzing noises in your ears, are getting hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal trouble of the ears, is hard of hearing or has head noises should give this prescription a trial.

H. S. AUDITORIUM, BUILT IN 1920 LARGEST IN CITY

Closing of the auditorium at the high school on recommendation of state authorities has left sponsors of public meetings usually held there in a quandary. The auditorium, erected in 1920 by John Simpson, contractor who also built the Roosevelt and Franklin elementary schools, has a seating capacity of more than 1500 persons and is the largest in Santa Ana. Plans for the auditorium were provided by Architect Marsh, records reveal.

Closing of the auditorium leaves the Methodist church auditorium as the place with the greatest seating capacity available. The church auditorium can seat approximately 900 people. Next to the Methodist church the Frances Willard Junior High school auditorium has the largest seating capacity. It will seat 623 people but is not available except on nights when it is not in use by the adult education department. BLOCK BOOKING PLAN HIT BY CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, Nov. 17.—Members of the Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church took action at a meeting held yesterday to take part in a nation-wide movement to secure one million persons to write to President Roosevelt, protesting block booking and blind booking of motion pictures, which practice, it was asserted, obliges theater managers to use pictures they do not desire. The motion to take part in the movement was introduced by Mrs. W. J. Sutherland.

Nearly 100 women were present and the program was centered around mountaineers of the Ozark mountains of Missouri and Arkansas, and those living in the mountain country along the Atlantic coast. Mrs. Robert Burns McAulay was program chairman.

Under the auspices of the Alice Lewis guild, a play, "Mrs. Gray of Lonesome Mountain," was presented with the following cast: Mrs. E. G. Smith, Mrs. Vern Estes, Mrs. L. R. Doncaster, Mrs. Alden Davis, Mrs. Wilbur Carpenter, Melvin Estes, Maxine Davis, Margaret Carpenter and Charlotte Doncaster. Mrs. W. P. Dews told a story in the dialect of the southern mountaineers. Mrs. W. E. Anderson was the group leader and was assisted by Miss Adella Dutton, Miss Bertha Youngs, Mrs. C. D. Lester, Mrs. Lucien Flippen, Mrs. R. M. Culter, Mrs. Edith Richardson, Mrs. A. D. Smith, Mrs. M. H. Baylor, Mrs. Vern Estes, Mrs. Lucy Robinson, Mrs. Lulu Shoemaker, Mrs. Jerome Westfall and Mrs. R. M. O'Neal.

Luncheon Held By Church Class

ORANGE, Nov. 17.—Benedictine class members held a monthly sewing session yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. George Fuerstenau, South Lemon street, with Mrs. Fuerstenau and Mrs. Leslie Scriven as co-hostesses. Following a covered dish luncheon, a business meeting was conducted by Mrs. Cris Loptien, vice president.

Plans were made for the next meeting, to be held December 13 in the home of Mrs. E. A. Kern, Mrs. C. P. Rumbeck will be co-hostess.

Those present were Mesdames H. T. Brewer, Roy Cox, Russell Kenyon, Floyd Arnold, Frank Batchelor, J. W. Bomboy, John Moore, J. B. Kilgore, W. Sipherd, Roy Cavett, Homer Baker, Cris Loptien, Leslie Scriven, Mary Stuart, C. P. Rumbeck, George Bolm, W .H. Dwyer, Grover Hamill and E. A. Kern.

HEADS POST

M. E. Daugherty, newly elected commander of Otto Rozell post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, presided over a meeting of the organization for the first time this week.

OVER 500 AT FOUR FATHER-SON BANQUETS

ORANGE, Nov. 17.—Four father and son banquets were held last night, with 500 present at the quartet of events staged at the First Presbyterian, the First Methodist, the Holy Family Catholic and the El Modena Friends churches. A flying squadron consisting of Mayor Clyde Watson, A. Haven Smith, Chief of Police B. F. Richards and the Rev. J. A. Shirley, rector of the Trinity Episcopal church, visited each banquet.

At the First Presbyterian church speaker was the Rev. Harry Evan Owings of the Santa Ana First Baptist church. He told the 225 men and boys present that fathers and sons should have three things in common, activities, companions and ideals. Mrs. B. D. Stanley gave a toast, Mrs. Walter F. Kogler sang and Mrs. Christine Lambert played piano accompaniments, as groups of fathers and sons of five varying ages were introduced. Alfred Higgins presided. The Rev. M. L. Pearson ed the opening devotionals and Dr. Robert Burns McAulay, pastor of the church, the closing.

At the Holy Family Catholic church, 65 were present and Gordon X. Richmond acted as toastmaster. Dr. V. A. Rossiter and Paul Rossiter gave toasts to fathers and sons and Major D. M. Healy gave the address of the evening, stressing the fact that to be a successful father is a real job. Boys of the present generation, he said, have a greater problem to face than those of other generations and the need of understanding between father and son is greater than ever. Ed Bula gave accordion numbers and two talented little girls, Freda and Elsie Hinck, gave a group of songs.

The Rev. Frank Toothaker was the speaker of the evening at the First Methodist church, with 180 present. The speaker used the topic "A Chip Off the Old Block," for discussion. Fred Krohe gave the toast to the boys and Harold Larsen the toast to the fathers. George Bonecutter, Harold Davis, Frank Holt and Harold Dwyer sang several numbers, with Zara Sergeant as the accompanist. The largest family group present consisted of B. R. Douglas, his son, Leo Douglas, and the latter's four sons. Joe Peterson's class of the church school gave two skits and Mrs. Peterson, pianologues. M. M. Fishback was toastmaster and H. E. Girton program chairman. Raymond McCall led the singing and Raymond McCall played. Fred Lentz was awarded a prize for the best entries in a hobby exhibit. His entry was a model airship. Frank Hoag was in charge of the exhibit.

Sixty-five fathers and sons attended the banquet held last evening in the El Modena school. The banquet was sponsored by the Pioneer club members and their leader, Douglas Noble, assisted by the mothers.

The Rev. J. K. Stewart, pastor of the Beverly Hills Community church, gave the address. Elwood Paddock was toastmaster and J. M. Brubaker led in group singing. Mrs. Mary Marshburn played the piano accompaniments. A toast, "Our Dads," was given by Charles Barnett. "Our Sons" was given by C. A. McClellan.

W. C. Chapman gave a talk illustrated with chalk drawings. J. B. Wilbur brought greetings from other banquets. The Rev. James C. Fisk, pastor of the El Modena Friends church, offered prayer.

DOROTHY KERN IS HONOREE AT BRIDGE AFFAIR

ORANGE, Nov. 17.—Entertaining Wednesday evening in her home, 434 North Glassell street, Miss Mildred Buckridge complimented Miss Dorothy Kern, fiancee of Melvin Clement.

Expressive of a yellow color scheme observed throughout the evening were yellow roses used in decorating. Two tables of bridge were in session, prizes for scoring high and low going to Mrs. Kemper Taylor and Miss Alice Morris.

Packages presented to Miss Kern proved to contain gifts for her trousseau. Tables were spread with yellow linens for the serving of refreshments at the close of the evening.

Miss Buckridge's guests were the honoree, Miss Kern, and Mrs. Georgia Lewis, Mrs. Richard Battle, Miss Lois Clement and Mrs. Stanley Wilson, Orange; Mrs. Kemper Taylor and Miss Alice Morris, Santa Ana.

Bridge Enjoyed In Laguna Home

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 17.—The home of Charlotte Guyer at Laguna Beach, was the scene of the regular meeting of the Girls' Bridge club one evening this week. Autumn colors were used in decorating the large living rooms of the home. Instead of giving prizes, members voted to send a large bouquet of flowers to the Glendale hospital for Miss Julia Bingham, a member of the club, who has been seriously ill there for the past several days.

Guests of Miss Guyer were Margy Burns, Doris Vegely, Viva Goff, Frances Parks, Marion Pence, Esther Runnels, Mildred Pence, Ruth Stein, Catherine Pence, Mildred Staples, Doris Suddaby, Virginia Thurston, Eva Watkins, Margie Watkins and Kay Watts.

The next meeting will be held as a week end party at the Thurston cabin a Lake Arrowhead Saturday and Sunday.

Long GOLDEN STRANDS OF FINE TOBACCO —and no loose ends

It would delight you to open a Lucky Strike and examine the long, golden strands of fine tobaccos. To notice how fully packed it is . . . how free from annoying loose ends. Every Lucky Strike is a blend of the world's choicest Turkish and Domestic tobaccos—finely shredded—long and evenly cut. That's why every Lucky draws so easily—burns so smoothly.

PICKINGS

When Congress gets back into its official seats in January a lot of Roman candles were dut to pop around the head of Henry Morganthau jr.

Members of both houses drifting back here from the farm sections ahead of the grand opening day say the farm credit administration hasn't done right by their constituents.

Senator Bennett Clark of Missouri—pal of Huey Long—swears he is going to introduce a bill immediately it's possible for abolition of the farm credit administration.

The ex-governor's office has figures aplenty to show he has cut miles of red tape and is dealing out loans on farm mortgages at better than a million dollars a day.

Gentlemen on Capitol Hill demand to know who's getting it. They swear it hasn't been going to their particular states. Clark says FCA has milked more money out of some Missouri counties in examination fees than it has poured into them.

Clark denies he is forming any bloc to swat this farmer's agency out of existence but he insists all the senators and congressmen from his section of the country are right with him.

In light of this the younger Morgenthau has been lifted out of a tough spot.

The farm loan bank serving Missouri also handles Arkansas and Illinois. Senator Joe Robinson, the majority leader, is from Arkansas, and Speaker Rainey is from Illinois.

If these two are in Clark's corner (and he thinks they are) the matter can still be counted on for a lot of debate on the floors of both houses.

TRAILINGS

Rep. Dickstein of New York is all set to explode over the undercover Nazi movement in this country.

Those who have been working on the investigation say privately there won't be any major sensations forthcoming at this time.

For one thing Dickstein's powers are too limited. He's called an inquiry as chairman of the house immigration committee but the house unfortunately didn't vote one last spring.

An appropriation to shoot investigators out on the by-ways is necessary to get at any really significant ramifications of German propaganda activities in the United States.

Furthermore Dickstein's ace witness, Heinz Spanknoebel, cannot be haled up except by due and expensive procedure. He is a Nazi citizen.

The German with the sausage-like name was supposed to have been Hitler's chief secret agent on these shores.

But a little later you may look for a senate investigation with excitement enough to make page one.

Word has reached leaders that if they will sponsor such an inquiry information will be placed in their hands tying up certain of our national figures (not now even suspected) with the business of introducing fascism into the United States through Nazi workers.

Samuel Untermyer would give his right arm to get the job as prosecuter for a senate hearing of this variety. It's not impossible he will get it.

In 1931 and 1932, Japan was at China's throat. Practical annexation of Manchuria was the result.

Today state department students privately are becoming more and more convinced an alliance between Japan and North China is in the not-too-distant future.

Already the opening move has been accomplished through the resignations of Foreign Minister Lo Wen-kan and Finance Minister T. V. Soong from the North China government. Both were unfriendly to the Japs. Their places have been so filled as to now make Nanking friendly.

A Far Eastern union including Japan, North China and Manchukuo wouldn't make the Soviet Russians any too happy and Japan at the moment seems intent on just that thing. It is foreshadowed in the oft-quoted Tanaka memorial.

Tokyo could win the North Chinese over in a minute by restoring the Emperor to his throne at Peiping. If the Nanking government would sign the dotted line of a treaty embodying political and economic unity the Japs would be sitting pretty with the restoration.

North China already has given Manchukuo de facto recognition by permitting revival of train, mail and customs service between the two.

The experts here explain it thus:

The North Chinaman is a physical giant steeped in the lore of his ancestors and handy with the sword.

He has no use for his short, pudgy brother to the south whence come all of the Chinese anarchists, communists and gunmen.

It's to be remembered that when the Japanese invaded Manchuria it was necessary to import armies from South China to fight them. The northerners were content to let them go their way unmolested.

SOCKED

Washington gets its largest report of plain and fancy chiseling under the blue eagle from Chicago.

Out there a firm adhered to a code and promptly boosted the wages of its typists to a $15 weekly minimum.

Then charged the girls $5 a week for the rent of their typewriters.

NOTES

NRA got a plenty fast comeback to its suggestion the proper charge for dry cleaning a suit was $1.50....This was to have been worked into the dry cleaners' code to break up racketeering....The squawks from the consumers' representatives quickly indicated the people would think the code was racketeering against them if such a price were set....Former President Hoover keeps up a steady correspondence with the former aides now located here and in New York....They ruefully admit the information all flows one way and Mr. Hoover carefully refrains from expressing any opinions on current affairs.

NEW YORK

RAW DEAL

Westchester county—New York's residential neighbor—is hot at Washington's treatment of its pet public works project.

Its plan for a toll express highway from the City to Connecticut to cost $12,000,000 has been ready since February. It would creat 4000 jobs for two years. Its sponsors state it is an A1 public works setup both for quick jobgiving and self-liquidation.

The original application was presented to the RFC on March 8 by Al Smith and Robert Moses. RFC engineers gave the plans full approval. When PWA came along it was transferred there and passed by PWA engineers also. But here it is November and still no action.

How come? Because the project has been three times vetoed by the president himself—not Ickes—on the ground that it isn't self-liquidating. This explanation doesn't jibe with reports by the government's own experts. There is rough talk about political favoritism.

Mr. Roosevelt is said to have shown obvious distate for Westchester while governor—perhaps because of the county's Republican background. Bills introduced from Westchester nearly always got squelched. And critics stress the speedy approval given an Oregon irrigation project applied for much later while Oregon farmers are being paid to curtail crops.

Westchesterites say they're getting a raw deal and are willing to tell the world.

CONDITIONS IN CUBA CITED BY PROF. TUPPER

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—"The fundamental situation in Cuba is no different from that in any other Spanish American nation. They all boil over at different times and it is Cuba's turn at present," Prof. Wilbur Tupper, associated with Whittier college, said last night in his talk on "Political and Social Conditions in the Central American Area" before the People's forum held in the old auditorium of Fullerton Union High school.

The instability of Spanish American nations is due to four reasons, according to Tupper. First, the countries were settled by adventurers; second, the citizens of the countries have not been trained for democratic governments but have been ground arbitrarily by viceroys and their other rulers, whereas the United States citizens had a long background for that government, he declared.

Third, only about 15 per cent, on an average, of the citizens of those countries are Caucasian while the majority of the rest are half-breeds, and last, the political service in the Spanish American countries is the highest paid service of all, the little republics pay enormous salaries to those holding offices which causes an unfair incentive to gain a political office, Tupper said.

When Cuba became independent, the United States made a treaty with her to help her keep peace and to keep her from going too deeply in debt, Professor Tupper continued.

"The Spanish American people are proud and sensitive and it irks them to feel that they need such protection as is given them through the Monroe doctrine but they would willingly agree to have an arrangement which would bind all western nations together to protect one of them," Tupper declared. "Never have the Spanish American people beheld power without oppression and therefore they wonder when the United States will gobble them."

After his lecture, Prof. Tupper showed colored slides of the Central American countries and of Cuba.

Dr. Herman Lissauer, conductor of the Modern forum in Los Angeles Philharmonic auditorium, will address the forum next Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock on "Hitlerism as It Affects the World." According to Charles Ruby, director of the forum, his address is to be one of the highlights of this year's series.

Hold Funeral Of Mrs. Marshall At Church Saturday

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Funeral services for Mrs. John L. Marshall are scheduled for the First Methodist church at 10 a. m. Saturday, instead of at the Flautt and Inman Funeral home as first announced.

Mrs. Marshall, who died the first of the week, was a member of the Methodist church, and was active in the Women's Aid society and the Missionary society, and belonged to the Truth Seekers Sunday school class. She was also a member of the Woman's club of Fullerton.

The Rev. E. Dow Hoffman will be assisted by the Rev. Francis E. Hawes and Dr. Graham C. Hunter. J. A. Brown, Will Daniels, L. B. Steward, S. W. McColloch, S. W. Windle and J. A. Parker will be pallbearers.

PLAY PRESENTED BY MISSIONARY GROUP

FULLERTON, Nov. 17. — The play, "Two Masters," given last night by members of the Presbyterian church as part of the annual thank offering program presented through the Woman's Missionary society, was a decided success. The setting was particularly beautiful and had been arranged by Mrs. Carl Sturdy and Mrs. Graham Hunter, while Will Switzler was responsible for the excellent lighting.

Mrs. H. B. Switzler managed the production, which was participated in by Mrs. J. B. Heck, Mrs. H. B. Switzler, Mrs. Carl Sturdy, Mary Jane Shannon, Barbara Koch, Virginia Allen, Audrey Hollingsworth, Jean MacMaster and eight members of the Presbyterian guild. Others participating in the program were Bentson Switzler, Mrs. Y. W. Ramsey, the Moll orchestra and Josephine and John LaRue.

The offering was most generous, it was reported, and many persons who witnessed the performance expressed the hope it might be given again.

YELLOWJACKETS AND CITRUS TO PLAY SATURDAY

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—While Al Clayes will play host to Arthur L. Nunn's Fullerton Yellowjackets in an eastern division junior college conference game at Citrus (Azusa) tomorrow afternoon, he will not guarantee the type of entertainment. Clayes' Owls have an eye on the conference pennant and will be out to down the Swarm.

Leason Pomeroy, quarterback, key of the Fullerton passing attack, checked out of school early this week. John (Monkey) Smith, Whittier, halfback, checked out earlier this quarter.

With the general scarcity of backfield material, Nunn will miss Pomeroy, a light, aggressive ball carrier. Elmer Pryor, Herb Payton, Carl English and Heba Player will be counted upon to carry most of the backfield burden against Citrus and Santa Ana.

CLUB FORMED BY SCHOOL TEACHERS

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—Under the supervision of Ralph Essert, principal of the Placentia schools, including the Valencia High School, a teachers' club has been organized with Miss Bessie Clarke as president, Mrs. Bessie Twombly as vice president, and Mrs. Gladys Kiolstad as secretary. The club will meet each Monday at 3:30 p. m. and problems relating to teaching and discussion of school administration and policy will occupy the time. Eventually, a teachers' library will be accumulated, it is planned.

Girl Reserves In La Habra Dinner

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Miss Ruthmarie Launer entertained members of the Feshman Girl Reserves cabinet of Fullerton High school, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. N. M. Launer, on Whittier boulevard this week. The girls enjoyed a pot luck supepr at a table appointed in blue and white, the organization colors.

A Chistmas play was planned for December 8 at which the parents of the members will be their guests. It is planned to hold the play at the Izaak Walton cabin in Fullerton.

Those attending were Ruthmarie Launer, president; Jean Little, social chairman; Lorraine Black, press chairman; Barbara Steelman, welfare chairman; Clara Jane Lemke, song leader; Elva Welch, treasurer; Frances Nelson, secretary; Rosemary Cramer, vice president; Mildred Gage, pianist; Miss Dorcas Turner, advisor; Miss Emma J. Kast, dean of freshman girls, and Miss Edna Munford, Y. W. C. A. secretary.

11,000 Volt Line Falls; Lights Out For Hour and Half

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—A 11,000 volt line fell across a transformer bank at Bradford avenue and Madison avenue intersection, north of here last night, at about 5:40 o'clock, and plunged sections of northern Orange county in darkness. The lights were off about one and a half hours.

A 4000-volt wire was burned of in the fall of the larger line.

BREA, Nov. 17.—More than 40 grade mothers attended the reading party held at the Laurel grammar school Wednesday afternoon when beginners under Miss Dorothy Boyce and Miss Margaret Davis exemplified their ability to read tiny clever stories, announcing their own numbers from a printed program.

DINNER, CARD PARTY HELD BY N. D. G. PARLOR

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—Using the Placentia Round Table clubhouse as the setting, Native Daughters of the Golden West last night entertained their families and friends at a potluck dinner. The dinner was served at tables decorated in the Thanksgiving theme, and by candle light, since the lights were all off because of an accident to wires serving the city.

Following talley of scores at the close of an evening of "500" and bridge, Mrs. Lena Wagner and Mrs. Kate Hill received first and second prizes, and Mrs. Erna Watts was consoled in "500" play, and Mrs. Christine McFarland and Mrs. Charles Lochrum received first and second and Mrs. May Lemke was consoled at bridge.

The dinner committee consisted of Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Lena Aspden. The cards committee consisted of Mrs. Lucanna McFadden, Mrs. McFarland and Miss Marie Jacobsen.

A short business session was presided over by Mrs. Watts. Mrs. Helen Anderson, chairman of the general committee on the dance November 10, reported excellent receipts, and her suggesttion for making an annual affair of the Thanksgiving dance was approved.

A vote of thanks was given all who had made the dance a success and also to all who had assisted in preparing the lovely car the Native Daughters entered in the parade at Orange Armistice day.

The regular session of the Sewing club was postponed from November 23, when the parlor will attend a meeting at Ontario.

Next meeting will be December 7, when seven new members are to be initiated.

LIGHTWEIGHTS BEAT BREA-OLINDA HIGH

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Fullerton's papoose eleven battled Jack Stewart's Brea-Olinda lightweights to a standstill here Wednesday in their final game of the season. Though the Wildcats made 10 first downs to Fullerton's three, it was the Braves' determined defense that resulted in a scoreless tie.

While the game was a battle between two elevens of determined youngsters, it also marked the debut of two embryo coaches—Jack Stewart, last year's Brea-Olinda quarterback, and Thomas MacMaster, fullback of last season's Fullerton High school eleven. Both are Fullerton Junior college students.

Billie Mayo, Brea-Olinda half, was the outstanding ball carrier. He broke away for several long runs. Ray Cox and Petite Perdue were outstanding in gaining a "moral victory" for the Wildcats.

HOLD READING PARTY

BREA, Nov. 17.—More than 40 grade mothers attended the reading party held at the Laurel grammar school Wednesday afternoon when beginners under Miss Dorothy Boyce and Miss Margaret Davis exemplified their ability to read tiny clever stories, announcing their own numbers from a printed program.

DINNER, CARD PARTY HELD BY N. D. G. PARLOR

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—Using the Placentia Round Table clubhouse as the setting, Native Daughters of the Golden West last night entertained their families and friends at a potluck dinner. The dinner was served at tables decorated in the Thanksgiving theme, and by candle light, since the lights were all off because of an accident to wires serving the city.

Following talley of scores at the close of an evening of "500" and bridge, Mrs. Lena Wagner and Mrs. Kate Hill received first and second prizes, and Mrs. Erna Watts was consoled in "500" play, and Mrs. Christine McFarland and Mrs. Charles Lochrum received first and second and Mrs. May Lemke was consoled at bridge.

The dinner committee consisted of Mrs. Wagner, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Lena Aspden. The cards committee consisted of Mrs. Lucanna McFadden, Mrs. McFarland and Miss Marie Jacobsen.

A short business session was presided over by Mrs. Watts. Mrs. Helen Anderson, chairman of the general committee on the dance November 10, reported excellent receipts, and her suggestion for making an annual affair of the Thanksgiving dance was approved.

A vote of thanks was given all who had made the dance a success and also to all who had assisted in preparing the lovely car the Native Daughters entered in the parade at Orange Armistice day.

The regular session of the Sewing club was postponed from November 23, when the parlor will attend a meeting at Ontario.

Next meeting will be December 7, when seven new members are to be initiated.

LIGHTWEIGHTS BEAT BREA-OLINDA HIGH

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Fullerton's papoose eleven battled Jack Stewart's Brea-Olinda lightweights to a standstill here Wednesday in their final game of the season. Though the Wildcats made 10 first downs to Fullerton's three, it was the Braves' determined defense that resulted in a scoreless tie.

While the game was a battle between two elevens of determined youngsters, it also marked the debut of two embryo coaches—Jack Stewart, last year's Brea-Olinda quarterback, and Thomas MacMaster, fullback of last season's Fullerton High school eleven. Both are Fullerton Junior college students.

Billie Mayo, Brea-Olinda half, was the outstanding ball carrier. He broke away for several long runs. Ray Cox and Petite Perdue were outstanding in gaining a "moral victory" for the Wildcats.

Reading Club In Session Monday

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Owen Richelieu will be hostess November 20 to the Monday Afternoon Reading club, Mrs. Earl Dysinger and Mrs. Charles Hart will review books as the program. Mrs. Adolph Koch will preside.

LODGE GROUP AT DINNER IN THAMER HOME

FULLERTON, Nov. 17.—Thirty-seven candles were used to light the dining room of the spacious J. Charles Thamer home last night, when Mr. and Mrs. Thamer entertained the Amaranth club at dinner. The candles became necessary when the power lines went out of commission. The result was most beautiful and called many compliments from the guests.

Mrs. Hazel Smalley presided at the business session following dinner, which was served at a long table, centered by a silver platter of fruit.

A Thanksgiving theme was used throughout and the guests enjoyed cards following the business session.

Attending were Mrs. Davis of Anaheim, Dr. and Mrs. F. D. Coltrin, Mr. and Mrs. H. Brooks, Miss Elizabeth Bailey, Mrs. Hazel Smalley and two daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Ely Biggs, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor Jacobsen, Miss Anna Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grafton, Mrs. Lou Messler, Mrs. Nettie Grieves, Mr. and Mrs. Thamer and Mrs. Mary Dent.

The Register welcomes news and Fullerton residents are urged to telephone or bring their items to the branch office, located on the north side of the California hotel building. The phone number is Fullerton 550.

School News

News Notes From Santa Ana Schools

Julia Lathrop

Armistice Day

Friday, November 10, Lathrop students met in the school rotunda where Armistice Day was observed with an interesting and fitting program. Oscar Area and son played the various army bugle calls and explained their meanings.

H. G. Nelson, principal, entertained the students with an appropriate reading, Tolstoy's "The Empty Drum."

Seventh Grade Team Wins

Boys of Miss Biggin's home room won over Miss Nicholson's 8th grade team in their first speed ball contest. The boys of the 7th grade class are scheduled to play with Miss Adam's low 8th section next week.

Those making the winning team were James McCain, captain; Lawrence Eyman, Arthur Wilson, Harold Coe, Vernon Ashby, Robert Krepps, Raymond Welchel, Donald Hamaker, Robert Shaw, Eugene Gutzmann, Roscoe Carlisle, Jack Adams and Ray Graham.

Arthur Wilson was considered the outstanding player on the winning team.

Boys' Service Club

Boys' Service Club members met recently at the luncheon hour and discussed plans for the term. Allen Patterson, president, presided over the meeting. Other officers of the club are vice president, Byron Quivey; secretary, Alexander Bancroft, and sergeant-at-arms, Mitsuo Nitta.

The members decided to take in new members which will be considered at the next meeting. A committee was appointed to decide upon a pin or emblem of some kind. Allen Ritter, Russel Heney and Byron Quivey were appointed on the committee.

Several musical selections were given by Harvey Looney, John Viera and Harold Martin.

Librarian at Convention

Miss Leona Calkins, librarian of the Lathrop Branch library, attended the one-day convention of the sixth district of California Library Associations held at La Jolla. There were approximately 350 librarians at the meeting and many interesting phases of the work were discussed. Miss Calkins took advantage of the round table discussion on children's and school libraries at which time many interesting phases of the work were discussed. She reported that a very interesting meeting was held where the advantages of radios and movies for cultural improvement were discussed.

Book Week Celebrated

Not only did the English classes observe the past week as Children's Book Week, but the Junior Literary club prepared a most interesting program which was given Friday afternoon for the benefit of the club members and a group of invited school friends and parents.

F. G. Jones, a Santa Ana author and critic, delivered an inspiring address on "My Personal Experience in Growing Up With Books." The members were delighted to have the opportunity of hearing one who has actually "grown up with books" and appreciates them so thoroughly.

A one-act comedy, "Bringing Up Nine" was another feature of the day's entertainment. Those taking part were Eloise Hiskey, Betty Jo Willits, Patsy Miller, Paul Bradfield, Allen Ritter, Walter Swanberger, Billie Wieland and Ruth King.

Three members of the club gave reviews of recent books. They were Lucille Griggs, Ruth Jane Mathews and Dorothy Dreblow.

Frances Willard

Book Week

Willard Junior High school is enjoying the Book Week celebration along with other schools and libraries. Several projects have been worked out in the library with the help of the students. One on travel and transportation, includes a very attractive map of the world drawn by one of the students, and a collection of articles typical of different countries. A ribbon attached to each country leads down to the articles corresponding to that country. Above the display, which occupies one end of the room, are varicolored jackets of new books.

Another attractive display is one occupying the space of one of the dormer windows at the side of the library. The setting is a picturesque jungle scene with its small pool of water, and in the background is the dense wild growth of trees and bushes from which emerge the various animals of the jungle. Above this scene, as in the other, are jackets of the new books pertaining to natural science and animal life.

Other book jackets are mounted on black paper and displayed throughout the library, while the narrow book strip at the center back of the book jacket has been cut out and these are being given as book marks for souvenirs to students during Book Week.

Play Day

On Friday, November 3, the low nine girls enjoyed a special play day. Squad leaders chose and led the games. Mary Middlebrook chose the game of Indian club relay; Viola Heffner, a relay where the girls would dribble a ball over to the fence and back; Audrey Barns, a pasing relay, and Cornelia Palmer, an Indian club tag game. The remaining squad leaders, Betty Neff and Nora Williams, chose tag games. The girls were planning to have some stunt games but the time was too limited.

Stamp Club

The Stamp club held its regular meeting Wednesday November 15, in room 215. After a short business meeting F. A. Baker, president of the Orange County Philatelic society, gave a very interesting talk on stamp collecting as a hobby. He also displayed his own private collection of commemorative United States stamps which was most interesting.

Class Excursion

The H9 art class visited the home of Mrs. Charles Spicer, 2343 North Park boulevard; Mrs. Ingleton Schenck, 2110 North Ross street, and Mrs. E. B. Sprague, 1920 Victoria Drive, the last period Tuesday, November 14.

This particular class is studying architecture and interior decorating as an art appreciation project. These homes were visited so that the class could study them for the subject. The home of Mrs. Spicer is Spanish Italian, Mrs. Schenck's is Cape Cod colonial, and Mrs. Sprague's is colonial. The class was served with cookies and buttered nuts at the home of Mrs. Sprague.

Tennis Club Members

A meeting of the Boys' Tennis club was held Monday, November 13. The new members, who in winning the membership tournament, will enter the club are: Ross Wilson, Yoshio Asari, Franklin Baldwin, Richard White, Hunter Adams, Charley Sawyer, Lawrence Dresser, Milton Smith, Billy Winterbourne, Robert Johnson, Sam Preble and Richard Mantor.

Anyone wishing to become a member of the Tennis club may challenge the last four on the list, according to Arnold Lund, advisor. At the last meeting it was decided that a new tournament will take place soon. This will be a boys' and girls' mixed doubles tournament. Those winning will each be awarded a silver cup.

but so far he hasn't been invited to explain.

Then there's the New York Central. It had a PWA application in for construction work but action was so slow it finally had to spend its own money.

A New Yorker just returned from the West says that around Cleveland they talk about public work allotments as "easy money." West of Chicago they call it "gift money" with the repayment angle laughed off in advance. Around here you hear references to the forgotten east.

CUBA

Local experts say that only a lift wing Machadista has any hope of uniting the warring Cuban factions, assuming his connection with Machado was not too intimate. Dr. Garcia Kohly fits into this category.

Among other things Cuba needs a new constitution. One of Cespede's brighter tricks was to abolish the one adopted in 1902 after deriving his authority from it. The next president can—and probably will—roll his own constitution.

Insiders will tell you that former President Menocal has more to do with current Cuban disturbances than appears on the surface. He has no ambition for himself but would like to see his sons get on in the world. His trouble-stirring isn't likely to get him anywhere because his following is restricted to a small group of disaffected conservatives.

PANAMA

The next Latin-American explosion is due in Panama. President Harmodio Arias is slated to resign within the next six months. Then there will be a free-for-all among four aspirants for his job. Intervention may become a more acute problem there than in Cuba because of the canal.

CATCALLS

Our delegation to the Pan-American conference may step right into a diplomatic incident the minute they debark. Montevideo is full of Communists and word has seeped through that they are planning a big anti-Yankee demonstration complete with catcalls.

LINK

Secretary Hull's remarks about a link-up between our federal reserve system and the Latin-American national banks bewilder local bankers. The Latin banks are not central banks in the usual sense and could do little towards promoting trade and credit relationships even if they were so disposed. New York fears that Hull will draw a horse-laugh for his pains if he introduces the subject for public discussion.

FLAG-BEARER

Pennsylvania is waving the flag as the first railroad to get a PWA loan for electrification and rehabilitation of equipment. The grapevine whispers that it was a drafted recruit—not a volunteer.

Pennsy never got on too well with the RFC. It promptly repaid its loan when the RFC evinced unseemly curiosity about salaries and such. It is understood here that PWA agreed in advance to be less curious as a condition of the banner-bearing.

CORD

Insiders report that E. L. Cord's most recent stunt was an attempt to corner the wheat market. He held 20,000,000 bushels on which he is said to have put up half a million dollars. When wheat tumbled five points brokers made him put up another half million. But prices kept on falling and in the end Mr. Cord was forced to sell out all his options at a loss of three-quarters of a million.

Wall street comments that perhaps now he will stick to his ambition to rival Ford as transport king.

REV. HARKER IS NEW PRESIDENT OF MINISTERS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Following closely upon his generalship of the Gypsy Smith campaign the Rev. Raymond C. Harker, minister of the White Temple Methodist Episcopal church, was elected president of the Ministerial Union yesterday. A luncheon meeting was held at the Lighted Palm cafe.

Rev. Harker succeeds the Rev. Virgil K. Ledbetter, who has held the office for the past two years. Other officers elected are the Rev. A. F. Ritchey, pastor of the Church of Christ, vice president and Conrad Jongewaard, Y. M. C. A. secretary, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made for the Union father and son banquet on Monday night at 6 p .m. in the First Presbyterian church. Gypsy Smith, in whose honor the dinner will be given, will be the speaker.

The Gypsy was a guest yesterday afternoon and in a brief talk told the ministers how they can help him in his campaign at the tabernacle.

RED CROSS DRIVE PASSES $300 MARK

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Approximately $300 has been realized thus far in the Red Cross drive, Charles Pearson, local chapter chairman, stated late yesterday afternoon. The quota is $1000.

Mrs. E. E. Smith, general chairman of the drive, stated that a close check is being made on organizations that were asked to contribute 100 per cent and that there is a general solicitation down town.

Residents are asked to go to the Red Cross tables at the Anaheim Public Library, post office, H. N. White Hardware store, and Anaheim Building and Loan association, and take out a dollar membership.

While it was hoped that the drive would close at the end of this week with the quota raised it was announced today that the drive will continue until the $1000 is raised.

NEWSBOY GIVES HIS BIT TO RED CROSS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—If treasures are stored up in heaven then 10-year-old Gerald Scott of 705 Paulina street, newspaper boy, has a red mark to his credit.

Yesterday afternoon he looked at a Red Cross table for a long time and finally timidly approached it. "How much are one of those things?" he asked, indicating the membership cards and buttons.

"Anything you want to give" he was told, so Gerald, with only a few pennies in his pocket gave to the Red Cross. He paid a penny, and wore the button away.

ANAHEIM PERSONALS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Earle Phillips returned to Anaheim Wednesday after a brief vacation.

Anaheim Business and Professional Women will conduct a food sale in front of what was formerly Ormsby's department store, on Saturday morning. Members contributing are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Vincenta Carleton, president.

F. S. Hineman and his son, Howard, are enjoying a motoring trip to Portland, Oregon. They will return the first of next week.

WAKE UP SINGING!

THE happy, healthy woman wakes up each morning with a song on her lips. If, instead, your day begins with nerves frayed, sour stomach, no appetite, you should take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Read what Mrs. B. E. Downey of Davenport, Calif., says: "I suffered a nervous breakdown, became so frail and nervous I would shake like a leaf. My appetite failed completely, I did not care for food and naturally lost much weight. After I started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery my nerves, appetite and general health were soon normal." All druggists.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON HELD BY AUXILIARY

BREA, Nov. 17.—More than 30 attended the bridge luncheon given at the home of Mrs. L. A. Stumbo in Fullerton yesterday and sponsored by members of the ways and means committee of the American Legion auxiliary of Brea. Mrs. Stumbo was assisted by Mrs. Ruth Doty, Mrs. Viva Holland, Mrs. Gertrude Kubin and Mrs. George Gesme, of Brea, and by her daughter, Mrs. Opal Vicks, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Bancroft.

Following the luncheon six tables of bridge were enjoyed throughout the afternoon ,Mrs. Gene Hurst scoring for first prize, the second prize falling to Mrs. Vicks.

The proceeds from the luncheon will go to the fund with which the auxiliary will prepare Christmas boxes for the veterans at San Fernando, and, in some cases, for their families.

ANAHEIM PLANS TO DECORATE STREETS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Plans were laid yesterday for decorating the streets at Christmas time and as they are something different from the Christmas trees used on each light post hitherto the design will not be revealed until submitted to the Merchants and Manufacturers next week, Secretary George Reid, stated today.

Anaheim will put on its Christmas dress December 1. Harry Macres reported on the design chosen and invited the members to his shop to see it.

Routine matters were discussed and a report was made on the Hallowe'en celebration. The water bill question coming up for election next month was discussed informally.

LA HABRA COUPLES WED IN RIVERSIDE

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Friends of two young La Habra couples were surprised this week when they announced their elopement to Riverside. Ina Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Harrison of West Florence avenue, La Habra, was married to Robert Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barber, of Ocean avenue, also in La Habra.

Miss Lois Smith, of Fillmore, who was a student at the Fullerton Junior College last year, was married to George Beoka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Beoka, of South Hiatt street, in a double ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Barber.

Both couples are living in the Markel courts in La Habra.

Book Reviewed In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 17. — Members of the Tuesday Afternoon club were entertained with a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Harry Meyer on West Chapman avenue this week. A two-course luncheon was served on individual trays covered with lace doilies. Autumn flowers in tones of yellow and brown decorated the home.

Mrs. J. W. Harpster presented the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. W. H. Bonney, of Anaheim, who gave an interesting review of the book entitled, "The Store," by Scribling. The Christmas party will be held at the home of Mrs. A. F. Mills, it was announced.

Those present were Mrs. W. H. Bonney, Mrs. J. W. Harpster, Mrs. R. M. Fay, Miss Ethel Archer, of Anaheim; Mrs. F. H. Cloyes, of Santa Ana Mrs. J. O. Arkley, Mrs. E. M. Dozier, Mrs. W. E. News Notes From Santa Ana Schools

Julia Lathrop

Armistice Day

Friday, November 10, Lathrop students met in the school rotunda where Armistice Day was observed with an interesting and fitting program. Oscar Area and son played the various army bugle calls and explained their meanings.

H. G. Nelson, principal, entertained the students with an appropriate reading, Tolstoy's "The Empty Drum."

Seventh Grade Team Wins

Boys of Miss Biggin's home room won over Miss Nicholson's 8th grade team in their first speed ball contest. The boys of the 7th grade class are scheduled to play with Miss Adam's low 8th section next week.

Those making the winning team were James McCain, captain; Lawrence Eyman, Arthur Wilson, Harold Coe, Vernon Ashby, Robert Krepps, Raymond Welchel, Donald Hamaker, Robert Shaw, Eugene Gutzmann, Roscoe Carlisle, Jack Adams and Ray Graham.

Arthur Wilson was considered the outstanding player on the winning team.

Boys' Service Club

Boys' Service Club members met recently at the luncheon hour and discussed plans for the term. Allen Patterson, president, presided over the meeting. Other officers of the club are vice president, Byron Quivey; secretary, Alexander Bancroft, and sergeant-at-arms, Mitsuo Nitta.

The members decided to take in new members which will be considered at the next meeting. A committee was appointed to decide upon a pin or emblem of some kind. Allen Ritter, Russel Heney and Byron Quivey were appointed on the committee.

Several musical selections were given by Harvey Looney, John Viera and Harold Martin.

Librarian at Convention

Miss Leona Calkins, librarian of the Lathrop Branch library, attended the one-day convention of the sixth district of California Library Associations held at La Jolla. There were approximately 350 librarians at the meeting and many interesting phases of the work were discussed. Miss Calkins took advantage of the round table discussion on children's and school libraries at which time many interesting phases of the work were discussed. She reported that a very interesting meeting was held where the advantages of radios and movies for cultural improvement were discussed.

Book Week Celebrated

Not only did the English classes observe the past week as Children's Book Week, but the Junior Literary club prepared a most interesting program which was given Friday afternoon for the benefit of the club members and a group of invited school friends and parents.

F. G. Jones, a Santa Ana author and critic, delivered an inspiring address on "My Personal Experience in Growing Up With Books." The members were delighted to have the opportunity of hearing one who has actually "grown up with books" and appreciates them so thoroughly.

A one-act comedy, "Bringing Up Nine" was another feature of the day's entertainment. Those taking part were Eloise Hiskey, Betty Jo Willits, Patsy Miller, Paul Bradfield, Allen Ritter, Walter Swanberger, Billie Wieland and Ruth King.

Three members of the club gave reviews of recent books. They were Lucille Griggs, Ruth Jane Mathews and Dorothy Dreblow.

Frances Willard

Book Week

Willard Junior High school is enjoying the Book Week celebration along with other schools and libraries. Several projects have been worked out in the library with the help of the students. One on travel and transportation, includes a very attractive map of the world drawn by one of the students, and a collection of articles typical of different countries. A ribbon attached to each country leads down to the articles corresponding to that country. Above the display, which occupies one end of the room, are varicolored jackets of new books.

Another attractive display is one occupying the space of one of the dormer windows at the side of the library. The setting is a picturesque jungle scene with its small pool of water, and in the background is the dense wild growth of trees and bushes from which emerge the various animals of the jungle. Above this scene, as in the other, are jackets of the new books pertaining to natural science and animal life.

Other book jackets are mounted on black paper and displayed throughout the library, while the narrow book strip at the center back of the book jacket has been cut out and these are being given as book marks for souvenirs to students during Book Week.

Play Day

On Friday, November 3, the low nine girls enjoyed a special play day. Squad leaders chose and led the games. Mary Middlebrook chose the game of Indian club relay; Viola Heffner, a relay where the girls would dribble a ball over to the fence and back; Audrey Barns, a pasing relay, and Cornelia Palmer, an Indian club tag game. The remaining squad leaders, Betty Neff and Nora Williams, chose tag games. The girls were planning to have some stunt games but the time was too limited.

Stamp Club

The Stamp club held its regular meeting Wednesday November 15, in room 215. After a short business meeting F. A. Baker, president of the Orange County Philatelic society, gave a very interesting talk on stamp collecting as a hobby. He also displayed his own private collection of commemorative United States stamps which was most interesting.

Class Excursion

The H9 art class visited the home of Mrs. Charles Spicer, 2343 North Park boulevard; Mrs. Ingleton Schenck, 2110 North Ross street, and Mrs. E. B. Sprague, 1920 Victoria Drive, the last period Tuesday, November 14.

This particular class is studying architecture and interior decorating as an art appreciation project. These homes were visited so that the class could study them for the subject. The home of Mrs. Spicer is Spanish Italian, Mrs. Schenck's is Cape Cod colonial, and Mrs. Sprague's is colonial. The class was served with cookies and buttered nuts at the home of Mrs. Sprague.

Tennis Club Members

A meeting of the Boys' Tennis club was held Monday, November 13. The new members, who in winning the membership tournament, will enter the club are: Ross Wilson, Yoshio Asari, Franklin Baldwin, Richard White, Hunter Adams, Charley Sawyer, Lawrence Dresser, Milton Smith, Billy Winterbourne, Robert Johnson, Sam Preble and Richard Mantor.

Anyone wishing to become a member of the Tennis club may challenge the last four on the list, according to Arnold Lund, advisor. At the last meeting it was decided that a new tournament will take place soon. This will be a boys' and girls' mixed doubles tournament. Those winning will each be awarded a silver cup.

News Behind the News

but so far he hasn't been invited to explain.

Then there's the New York Central. It had a PWA application in for construction work but action was so slow it finally had to spend its own money.

A New Yorker just returned from the West says that around Cleveland they talk about public work allotments as "easy money." West of Chicago they call it "gift money" with the repayment angle laughed off in advance. Around here you hear references to the forgotten east.

CUBA

Local experts say that only a lift wing Machadista has any hope of uniting the warring Cuban factions, assuming his connection with Machado was not too intimate. Dr. Garcia Kohly fits into this category.

Among other things Cuba needs a new constitution. One of Cespede's brighter tricks was to abolish the one adopted in 1902 after deriving his authority from it. The next president can—and probably will—roll his own constitution.

Insiders will tell you that former President Menocal has more to do with current Cuban disturbances than appears on the surface. He has no ambition for himself but would like to see his sons get on in the world. His trouble-stirring isn't likely to get him anywhere because his following is restricted to a small group of disaffected conservatives.

PANAMA

The next Latin-American explosion is due in Panama. President Harmodio Arias is slated to resign within the next six months. Then there will be a free-for-all among four aspirants for his job. Intervention may become a more acute problem there than in Cuba because of the canal.

CATCALLS

Our delegation to the Pan-American conference may step right into a diplomatic incident the minute they debark. Montevideo is full of Communists and word has seeped through that they are planning a big anti-Yankee demonstration complete with catcalls.

LINK

Secretary Hull's remarks about a link-up between our federal reserve system and the Latin-American national banks bewilder local bankers. The Latin banks are not central banks in the usual sense and could do little towards promoting trade and credit relationships even if they were so disposed. New York fears that Hull will draw a horse-laugh for his pains if he introduces the subject for public discussion.

FLAG-BEARER

Pennsylvania is waving the flag as the first railroad to get a PWA loan for electrification and rehabilitation of equipment. The grapevine whispers that it was a drafted recruit—not a volunteer.

Pennsy never got on too well with the RFC. It promptly repaid its loan when the RFC evinced unseemly curiosity about salaries and such. It is understood here that PWA agreed in advance to be less curious as a condition of the banner-bearing.

CORD

Insiders report that E. L. Cord's most recent stunt was an attempt to corner the wheat market. He held 20,000,000 bushels on which he is said to have put up half a million dollars. When wheat tumbled five points brokers made him put up another half million. But prices kept on falling and in the end Mr. Cord was forced to sell out all his options at a loss of three-quarters of a million.

Wall street comments that perhaps now he will stick to his ambition to rival Ford as transport king.

REV. HARKER IS NEW PRESIDENT OF MINISTERS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Following closely upon his generalship of the Gypsy Smith campaign the Rev. Raymond C. Harker, minister of the White Temple Methodist Episcopal church, was elected president of the Ministerial Union yesterday. A luncheon meeting was held at the Lighted Palm cafe.

Rev. Harker succeeds the Rev. Virgil K. Ledbetter, who has held the office for the past two years. Other officers elected are the Rev. A. F. Ritchey, pastor of the Church of Christ, vice president and Conrad Jongewaard, Y. M. C. A. secretary, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were made for the Union father and son banquet on Monday night at 6 p .m. in the First Presbyterian church. Gypsy Smith, in whose honor the dinner will be given, will be the speaker.

The Gypsy was a guest yesterday afternoon and in a brief talk told the ministers how they can help him in his campaign at the tabernacle.

RED CROSS DRIVE PASSES $300 MARK

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Approximately $300 has been realized thus far in the Red Cross drive, Charles Pearson, local chapter chairman, stated late yesterday afternoon. The quota is $1000.

Mrs. E. E. Smith, general chairman of the drive, stated that a close check is being made on organizations that were asked to contribute 100 per cent and that there is a general solicitation down town.

Residents are asked to go to the Red Cross tables at the Anaheim Public Library, post office, H. N. White Hardware store, and Anaheim Building and Loan association, and take out a dollar membership.

While it was hoped that the drive would close at the end of this week with the quota raised it was announced today that the drive will continue until the $1000 is raised.

NEWSBOY GIVES HIS BIT TO RED CROSS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—If treasures are stored up in hea en then 10-year-old Gerald Scott of 705 Paulina street, newspaper boy, has a red mark to his credit.

Yesterday afternoon he looked at a Red Cross table for a long time and finally timidly approached it. "How much are one of those things?" he asked, indicating the membership cards and buttons.

"Anything you want to give" he was told, so Gerald, with only a few pennies in his pocket gave to the Red Cross. He paid a penny, and wore the button away.

ANAHEIM PERSONALS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Mrs. Earle Phillips returned to Anaheim Wednesday after a brief vacation.

Anaheim Business and Professional Women will conduct a food sale in front of what was formerly Ormsby's department store, on Saturday morning. Members contributing are asked to get in touch with Mrs. Vincenta Carleton, president.

F. S. Hineman and his son, Howard, are enjoying a motoring trip to Portland, Oregon. They will return the first of next week.

ANAHEIM PLANS TO DECORATE STREETS

ANAHEIM, Nov. 17.—Plans were laid yesterday for decorating the streets at Christmas time and as they are something different from the Christmas trees used on each light post hitherto the design will not be revealed until submitted to the Merchants and Manufacturers next week, Secretary George Reid, stated today.

Anaheim will put on its Christmas dress December 1. Harry Macres reported on the design chosen and invited the members to his shop to see it.

Routine matters were discussed and a report was made on the Hallowe'en celebration. The water bill question coming up for election next month was discussed informally.

LA HABRA COUPLES WED IN RIVERSIDE

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Friends of two young La Habra couples were surprised this week when they announced their elopement to Riverside. Ina Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Harrison of West Florence avenue, La Habra, was married to Robert Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Barber, of Ocean avenue, also in La Habra.

Miss Lois Smith, of Fillmore, who was a student at the Fullerton Junior College last year, was married to George Beoka, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Beoka, of South Hiatt street, in a double ceremony with Mr. and Mrs. Barber.

Both couples are living in the Markel courts in La Habra.

Book Reviewed In Garden Grove

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 17. — Members of the Tuesday Afternoon club were entertained with a 12:30 o'clock luncheon at the home of Mrs. Harry Meyer on West Chapman avenue this week. A two-course luncheon was served on individual trays covered with lace doilies. Autumn flowers in tones of yellow and brown decorated the home.

Mrs. J. W. Harpster presented the speaker of the afternoon, Mrs. W. H. Bonney, of Anaheim, who gave an interesting review of the book entitled, "The Store," by Scribling. The Christmas party will be held at the home of Mrs. A. F. Mills, it was announced.

Those present were Mrs. W. H. Bonney, Mrs. J. W. Harpster, Mrs. R. M. Fay, Miss Ethel Archer, of Anaheim; Mrs. F. H. Cloyes, of Santa Ana Mrs. J. O. Arkley, Mrs. E. M. Dozier, Mrs. W. E. Wakeham, Mrs. J. A. Williams, Mrs. W. J. Newsom, Mrs. S. R. Fitz, Mrs. W. E. Hennion, Mrs. A. F. Mills, Mrs. L. W. Schauer, Mrs. J. L. Mitchell and Mrs. Harry Meyer.

TWO-ACT COMEDY GIVEN TONIGHT

TUSTIN, Nov. 16.—"Winning an Heiress," a two-act comedy, will be presented at 7:45 o'clock tonight in the social hall of the Presbyterian church, under the auspices of the Friendship Bible class.

Mrs. W. S. Leinberger, chairman of the music committee, has completed arrangements for the following selections to be presented preceding the play: Trumpet solo, Bruce Mayhugh; vocal solo, Horace Ritner; vocal trio, Mrs. Alma Stevenson, Miss Marjorie Rawlings and Mrs. Leinberger; vocal solo, Miss Clarice Turner. In between acts, there will be a brass duo led by Bruce Mayhugh.

Elmer Osterman is directing the play. Those taking part in the comedy are Hugh J. Plumb, James Blee, Gerald Weston, Dr. C. A. Day, Robert Korff, Arthur Smith, Grant Henderson and two young women whose identity has not been revealed.

BRIDGE LUNCHEON HELD BY AUXILIARY

BREA, Nov. 17.—More than 30 attended the bridge luncheon given at the home of Mrs. L. A. Stumbo in Fullerton yesterday and sponsored by members of the ways and means committee of the American Legion auxiliary of Brea. Mrs. Stumbo was assisted by Mrs. Ruth Doty, Mrs. Viva Holland, Mrs. Gertrude Kubin and Mrs. George Gesme, of Brea, and by her daughter, Mrs. Opal Vicks, and daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Bancroft.

Following the luncheon six tables of bridge were enjoyed throughout the afternoon ,Mrs. Gene Hurst scoring for first prize, the second prize falling to Mrs. Vicks.

The proceeds from the luncheon will go to the fund with which the auxiliary will prepare Christmas boxes for the veterans at San Fernando, and, in some cases, for their families.

WAKE UP SINGING!

THE happy, healthy woman wakes up each morning with a song on her lips. If, instead, your day begins with nerves frayed, sour stomach, no appetite, you should take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Read what Mrs. B. E. Downey of Davenport, Calif., says: "I suffered a nervous breakdown, became so frail and nervous I would shake like a leaf. My appetite failed completely, I did not care for food and naturally lost much weight. After I started taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery my nerves, appetite and general health were soon normal." All druggists.

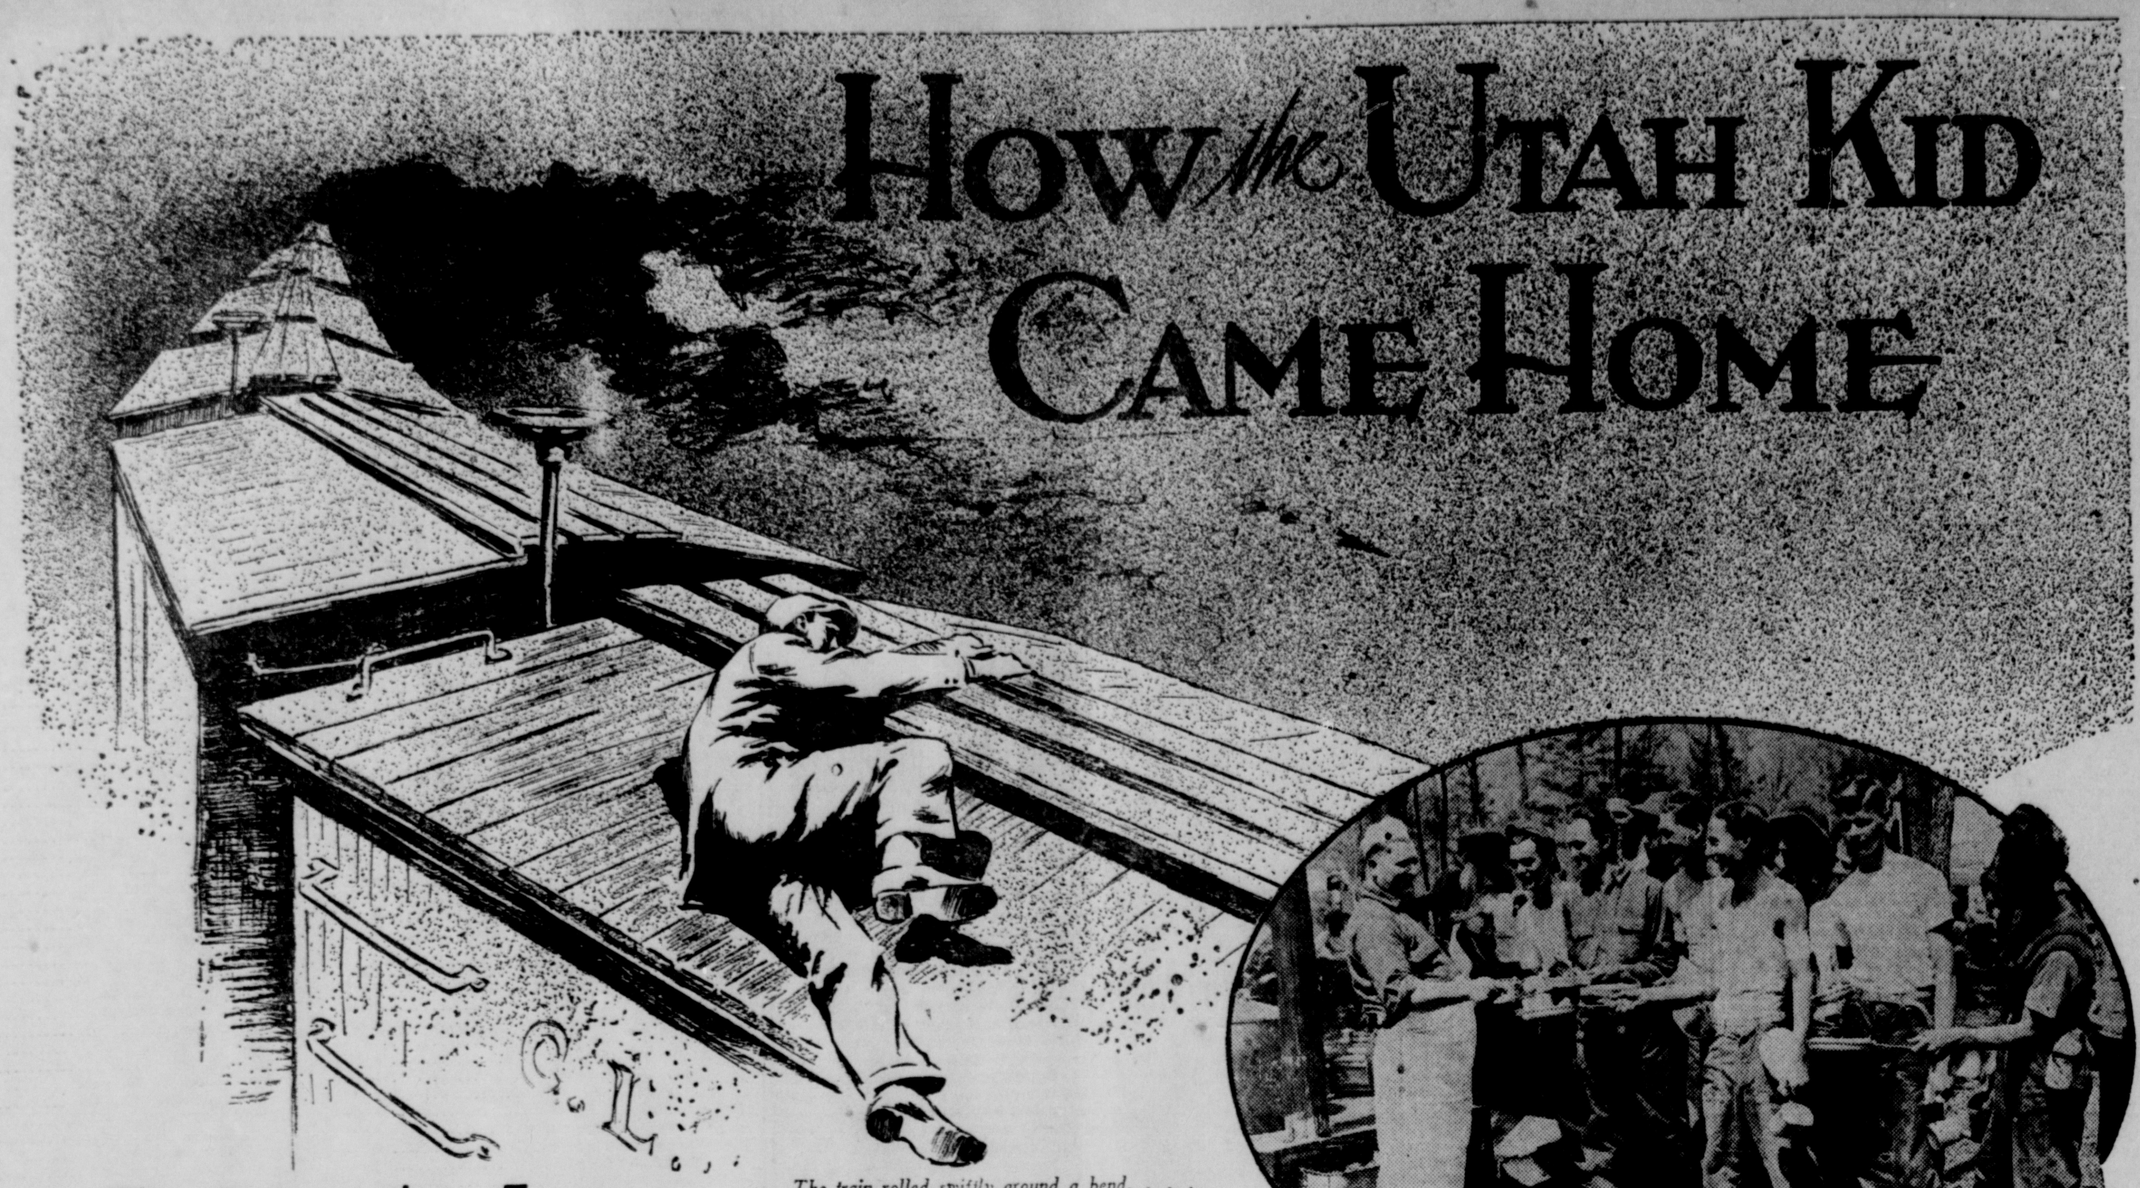
How the Utah Kid Came Home



The train rolled swiftly around a bend. . . . Utah caught with bleeding nails and finger-ends at the edge of the boards, as his body hurtled toward an abyss bordering the tracks.

The mess line at Forestry Camp No. 1, otherwise known as Camp Roosevelt, first of all the C. C. C. camps to open. . . . The camp which the Utah Kid left—and then returned to.

By Freeman C. Bishop

Donald C. Holley, the plucky "Utah Kid," who traveled 5000 miles in 14 days because his mother was sick.

"COME home at once stop mother very ill."

Utah stood crumpling a telegram in strong fingers. The paper crackled oddly. His eyes were puckered like a baby's. Captain Leo Donovan, commandant of C.C.C. Camp No. 1 in the mountains of Virginia, lighted a cigaret to play for time. He walked to an ash tray and tossed in the burned match stem. His movements were slow, deliberate.

"If you've got to go, I reckon we'll have to dismiss you."

Utah stammered just a little. His tongue seemed thickened.

"You see, Captain, my mother, she's over 70, and I guess I'd better go. I'd feel better about it, anyhow. If—if she did pass on, an' I wasn't there. Well, I just gotta go."

"It's your problem, boy," the captain replied. He walked to a window, stood staring across the pine-dotted hills. "There's a van leaving in a few minutes. You can ride in to Washington on that if you'd like."

"Thank you, sir," Utah said, flying through the door to his tent where he collected a raincoat, a blanket, and odds and ends which he stuffed helter-skelter into a duffle bag. Hoisting the bag to a shoulder, he ran for the van, tossed the bag over the gate and climbed in after it. Then he jumped out again, and came into the Headquarters building.

"I just wanted to say, Captain, that I'll be back for sure. You see, they need the money at home. Just hold my discharge for two weeks and I'll be here."

UTAH arrived in Washington, D. C., the night of July 12, the same day he had left the camp. He had a dollar. Near the Union Station he met a friend. They talked for a long time.

Utah slipped around to one side of the station and with the help of his friend managed an entrance to the yards where trains were taking on passengers for every point on the North American continent. Utah stood a long time studying the situation. He couldn't make a mistake now.

He was armed only with the telegram from his family and an indomitable courage that held him aloft like a flame. He just had to go through.

At last he sighted a train. It was the one he wanted. He could see people hurrying to cars where they would have warm beds, or to others where they would at least be able to sit down.

His face shone clean under the tan. His limbs were sturdy. He was healthy, almost fat. The westbound train was almost on the move.

He climbed twisting into a coach and walked to the front, farther, and still farther. At last he was in the "blinds"—the opening between the baggage car and the first passenger car.

Utah ducked back out of sight and held his breath in suspense. There was a jerk, a twitch, and the long cars rolled smoothly into the blackening night.

Utah swayed with the motion of the train. His legs were braced across the opening where the iron wheels clattered and roared in the dark. Utah shivered. Horrible death lay there, yawning.

SOOT and smoke billowed up about him, stinging his eyes, griming his clothes and body. He held on grimly. The train halted many times during that interminable night.

Utah was growing faint. His eyes were rimmed with red, and black streaked his face. He rubbed his eyes with the back of a soiled hand. His bag drooped from a loop around one shoulder. His head jerked and nodded.

The train stopped again. Utah stumbled out of his retreat. Harrisburg, Pa. He tottered to a lunch stand and ate a thin sandwich. There were homes nearby.

He sat down and rested, glorying in the freedom of movement. Half an hour later he knocked at a back door. They gave him a hot meal. He devoured it hurriedly. The kindly housewife stared at him compassionately. He looked clean and young—too young, the woman thought.

"Thank you, ma'am," Utah said, and darted back to the station. An hour later he was at his old post. This time it was another train, a faster one.

The cinders were thick, almost choking him at times. Tunnels were the worst; they seemed to bring with them a sense of lost time, lost motion, eternity. Utah gritted his teeth against the cinders.

It was growing daylight hours later. Utah was glad. He had narrowly escaped death half a dozen times that night, nodding almost asleep as the big train thundered through the night.

The day passed slowly. Utah crouched back from sight at each stop, and listened to the odd, muffled rumble of noises as people boarded and left the train. Odd times he could heard what people were shouting, could catch bits of conversation among the train employes.

He sat down when the train was stopped. His legs ached wearily. His arms and back were like leaden weights pressing him down.

The train started slowly, gathered speed, and shot into the gathering dusk. Something gnawed at Utah's vitals. He prayed for help.

His fists dangled at his sides helplessly after hours of being pressed tightly against each wall of the two coaches acting as a buffer for his body from the fierce twists and turns of the writhing giant he was riding.

It was St. Louis. Utah's cheeks were thin. His hair straggled from beneath his cap. His eyes blurred easily. He stumbled getting from the car. He breathed deeply, standing still.

"On your way, punk." It was the gruff railroad detective's greeting.

"Yes, sir," Utah said, shouldering his pack. He limped into the station and emerged cleansed as much as possible from the deeply ingrained grime of the road. A friendly dog barked, his mistress called to him, and Utah, grinning, asked for something to eat, "please, ma'am."

It was hot food, Utah's second meal in two days and nights. The woman's eyes were wistful as she watched him eat. She said she had no children. "Uh huh, tough," Utah mumbled between bites.

He thanked her with a long stare and she handed him a sandwich to take with him. His eyes didn't hurt so much, now. His step was lighter.

In the yards he boarded another train. This time he was caught red-handed. A rough arm jerked him from behind his screen. It was a burly railroad policeman.

"COME on, kid, beat it or I'll give you 30 days."

Tears were close to the surface of Utah's eyes. This had seemed too good to be true, a sure ride for many long miles lost, clear to Kansas City with luck. He grubbed with a dirty hand and brought to light a soiled and much creased telegram from his pockets.

"Honest, Mister, I just gotta go. Please let me ride. Here, see for yourself."

"Nuts, scram," the detective said as Utah hesitated. Then he glanced at the telegram.

"She's over 70," Utah said, eyes wide, voice a little choked. "An' I'd never feel right. Please, Mister."

"Aw nuts, sit down there." The detective strode out of the car, his shoulders were thrown back, way back.

"Hell," he muttered as he swung from the train step. "When am I gonna grow up?"

Utah settled back into place.

In Kansas City he decided to abandon his pack. "It was too much trouble," he said.

Kansas City to Cheyenne, Utah rode a fast freight, clinging to the top.

"They had all the box cars sealed now. An' so, I just rode her out," Utah explained.

The ride was through the cold, clear western night. Utah was chilly. He was starving slowly but surely. He was giddy when he arrived in Cheyenne. His legs buckled and almost precipitated him into the lap of a freight guard. He ran fast the other way, fear lending strength to numbed legs.

HE tried three homes. No luck. Utah was desperate. He spent the last of his capital for food. He couldn't wait until he found a kind-hearted woman to feed him.

It was no trick from there to his home. They were waiting for him. His mother was better but very weak. Utah cried as he came into his mother's room.

Utah stayed at home three days. He helped around the farm again. His duties were familiar as a shaving mirror. He went to see his "girl." She was "in training" at an Ogden City hospital. Three years, Utah said. Humph, that wasn't so long, was it?

Utah's mother was stronger. He had been restless. Last month the farm had shown a profit of $11. This month things didn't look so well. They had a girl now to care for his mother. Utah's $25 a month would pay for that, and more. He needed to get back to his job, 2500 miles away.

Utah grinned. He was waving from the milk truck. His mother waved back to him from the window. His brother drove in silence; he was always silent. Utah hopped out near the freight yards. He waved to his brother and hurried on.

Days of riding freight cars, pushed off at one end of the yards by an irate brakeman, and mounting the train as it sped by when the other end was reached.

UTAH almost died in his sleep one night. He was lying prone on the catwalk atop a freight car. The train rolled swiftly around a bend. Utah caught with bleeding nails and finger-ends at the edge of the boards, as his body hurtled towards an abyss bordering the tracks. He hauled himself back to safety, and wrestled with his eyelids to remain awake.

It was the night of July 27. Camp No. 1, in the Virginia mountains, was resting from the day's labors. Chow was due before long. A small figure appeared at the edge of the clearing, dismounting from a truck. It was Utah.

He stumbled a little as he entered the Headquarters. He was grinning just a bit lopsidedly. His clothes were rumpled, torn, dirty. One eye blinked continuously, the other was red-rimmed.

"Hello, everybody; I'm back."

Five thousand miles in 14 days on a dollar and 10 meals. Utah says his mother is the greatest woman in the world. One of the greatest, everyone agreed, to inspire devotion of a spirit as true as his.

Utah ate prodigiously, bathed and the dispensary attendants fished a peck of dirt from his eyes.

Utah is Donald C. Holley of Ogden, Utah, which is the wherefore of his name. He is an enrolled member of the first Forestry Camp in the United States, and clerk for the camp Quartermaster. Seal Beach Seeks Federal Funds For Projects

COUNCIL PLANS WATER SYSTEM AND NEW JETTY

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 17.—Following an appeal by City Attorney Brown for haste on the part of the city council in filing the applications for federal aid on municipal projects, the council last night voted to authorize the mayor, attorney and engineer to approve the applications under consideration and file them with the state advisory board at once.

The projects contemplated include a municipal water works system, the present supply; a jetty pendent of the Long Beach water system, the present suply; a jetty on the east side of the entrance to Anaheim bay; construction of a new outfall sewer, and repairs to the septic tank.

In response to a request of the council for an expression of the attitude of nearby property owners in respect to the opening of a new crossing at Twelfth street and the abandonment of the crossing at Fourteenth street, a petition signed by 101 residents agreeing to the proposition was presented to the council. The city attorney was instructed to report at the next meeting on the cost of proceedings to secure the crossing. The city engineer was ordered to prepare the necessary maps and to define the assessment district which would be included for assessment to pay the mosts of the new crossing.

In the discussion of the proposed admittance of Sunset Beach into the city's sewer system, the mayor announced that the representatives of Sunset Beach had agreed to meet with the city council at their convenience to discuss the proposition. A meeting is to be arranged for the early part of next week.

The street committee was authorized to secure a location to mix oil sand for repairing streets. The Union Oil company offered to the city 500 barrels of oil stored at their warehouse here.

R. C. Mize of the state park board appeared before the council to present a petition requesting that the delinquent taxes on property purchased by the state for park purposes be cancelled. Since the property now belongs to the state and therefore cannot be sold for delinquent taxes, the city attorney recommended that the council grant the request. The council then authorized the tax collector to cancel the taxes in question.

Two new requests for the operation of tango parlors were received; one from A. H. Sanders, who has taken a lease on the northern half of the building now occupied by Dr. E. F. Green. The other was made by O. B. Thomas, operator of the Bay Shore cafe at Anaheim Landing. As yet no action has been taken on the petitions already filed, but it is understood that the council plans an informal meeting to consider and act upon the applications the fore part of next week.

Mr. Paschall of Long Beach, one of the applicants, appeared before the council to explain the type of project contemplated. Paschall plans on the erection of a $25,000 building on the Coast highway at Fourteenth street and the operation of an exclusive night club at that location.

MESA TRUSTEES SEEK U.S. FUNDS AS WRECKING OF SCHOOL STARTS

COSTA MESA, Nov. 17.—Upon final recommendation from A. P. Hill of the State Department of Education, and Architects Mackie and Perrene, of Los Angeles, work of wrecking the administration building and the two front wings of the main building of the Costa Mesa grammar school is under way. With some minor repairs, the balance of the building can still be used for school purposes, it was stated by George Healey, chairman of the building committee of the school board of trustees.

The present plans are to move the auditorium and the remaining class rooms forward on the school property, making more room for playgrounds in the rear of the buildings. It is believed that the architects can work out plans whereby several additional rooms can be added to the building in the change. George Spencer, in charge of R. F. C. labor, is taking down the condemned sections.

Reconstruction work will begin early in the year if present plans materialize, according to the board of trustees. The Monte Vista and Lindbergh schools will need some minor repairs.

The board has made application for federal aid to raise the $70,000 required for the reconstruction job. Under the present arrangement, 30 per cent of the total amount required will be donated by the federal government, with the balance borrowed from the state for 20 years. Classes will continue to meet as now arranged for the remainder of this school year. The new rooms will be ready for the beginning of school next fall.

COMPROMISE IN OIL DRILLING CASE IS SEEN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 17.—The oil conference with Governor Rolph jr., Wednesday, is regarded by the representatives of the land owners and operators and city officials as having been productive of good results, according to those who attended from this city.

The conference was held in an attempt to settle the suit brought by the state against the Termo company, which is charged with "whipstocking" wells in order to tap the tidelands pool.

Mayor Elson G. Conrad of this city issued the following statement today:

"The meeting was harmonious and without bitterness being expressed. The state officials including Governor Rolph pledged their aid toward a compromise settlement of the lawsuit in the interest of enabling development of the oil field to continue, thus putting many hundred men back to work.

"This big objective of the meeting was thus accomplished. As a result of this conference both sides to the litigation are now pledged to bring about a compromise. It will be necessary to hold additional conferences to arrange all the details of the plan, as there is much involved and many points to be agreed upon. I have the highest hopes of an early settlement of the controversy.

"I regard the situation as being briefly this: A compromise settlement has been proposed and both sides have pledged themselves to work to that end. They have agreed to hold meetings between the state officials and the committee of seven representing the landowners and operators organized under the name of California Oil Properties association."

Bolsa Men Sign Arizona Contract

BOLSA, Nov. 17. — The Post brothers have taken a contract on extensive canal building work at Tucson, Ariz., and have shipped their equipment to the location. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Post, Elmer Post, E. L. Raney, Gerhart Jaehn and Vincent Bogetti have left for Arizona. They expect to remain two months.

SET DATE FOR YULE PROGRAM IN LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—December 22 has been set as the date for the annual Christmas program of the La Habra Methodist church. A white Christmas offering was planned by the Sunday school trustees at their meeting this week and Mrs. E. E. Proud is in charge of the committees to carry out the Christmas plans at the church.

Sunday, November 26, the Methodist brotherhood will have charge of the church services and will ask for donations of food for the Thanksgiving baskets to be filled and distributed by the various leagues of the church.

On Tuesday, November 28, the brotherhood will hold its regular meeting, which will be a Thanksgiving meeting, with an address on this subject. The church choir will sing at this meeting. It was decided to postpone the December meeting.

The executive board met at the E. E. Proud home this week at 6 o'clock, dinner being served by Mrs. Proud. Those who attended were the Rev. Mr. Simmons, M. A. Stearman, L. E. Proud, E. A. Schneider, C. E. Varney, A. J. Cookerly and E. E. Proud.

SENIOR CLASS GIVES PLAY ON VISITING DAY

TUSTIN, Nov. 17.—Parents' visiting day was observed Thursday at the high school, with a large number of P.-T. A. parents and friends visiting the different classes. At 11:20 a. m., the visitors enjoyed luncheon with the students in the high school cafeteria.

At 12 a. m., an assembly of the students was held in the high school auditorium, at which time the seniors presented a one-act comedy, "Sauce for the Gosling" under the direction of Miss May Rose Borum, dramatics instructor. Members of the cast were Elizabeth, the daughter, Eleanor Leihy; the mother, Audrey Peiper; the father, Norman Mennes; Bob, the son, Ed Pankey; Mrs. Lee, grandmother, Marjorie Newcomb; James, a friend and football hero, Bill Stearns.

After the regular schedule of afternon classes, the P.-T. A. held a business meeting in the cafeteria room, with the president, Mrs. L. R. Stearns, presiding. The flag salute was led by Mrs. B. B. McCulla, followed by community singing of the P.-T. A. song, with Mrs. Robert Korff at the piano. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. E. D. King and the treasurer's report by Mrs. B. J. McReynolds. Mrs. Frank H. Greenwood, membership chairman, announced that there were 56 members to date in the P.-T. A. Mrs. Fred L. Wilson gave high lights on the recent P.-T. A. district meeting held at Brea.

Plans for a 1 o'clock benefit luncheon and card party to be held December 6 at the home of Mrs. B. J. McReynolds, 1901 Fruit street, were announced by Mrs. J. H. Pankey. Prizes will be awarded for first and second high scores. There will be jig saw puzzles and other diversions for those who do not care for cards. All members and friends of the P.-T. A. are invited to attend the affair.

PAPER TREE SHOWS P.-T.A. MEMBERSHIP

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—A record of Parent-Teacher membership is being kept in a new way at the Placentia Union Grammar school this year. The students of the Valencia High school constructed a large tree of paper, each limb bearing the name of a room. As membership is added, a bird is placed on the limb representing a friend; a leaf is placed, designating a mother, and a rose is placed, designating a teacher, while when a father joins a tiny paper monkey is added.

At the Brafford school the nurses' headquarters have been moved from a basement room to a large room on the ground floor of the primary building, and this room is now being arranged with bright and cheerful decorations for the care of the sick. Mrs. Marie Beack, school nurse, and her assistant, Mrs. Cora Pickenpaugh, have desks there.

Mrs. Beck said yesterday the fruit of persistent labor on the part of the health department is showing results. The Placentia schools several years ago adopted a policy of uniting truant officer's work with the nurse and health department.

Play Presented At Club Meeting

LA HABRA, Nov. 17. — The Young Business Women's club of La Habra held a potluck supper and party Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Julia Middleton on East Florence avenue.

Following the dinner and a short business meeting, at which time scrap books were planned for the county hospital, a play was presented. Parts were taken as follows: Pa Potter, Julia Middleton; Ma Potter, Eugenia Arnold; Bill Potter, Naomi Granger and Mamie Potter, Margaret Thornton. Martha Iverson announced the program. The next meeting will be held November 28 at the home of Miss Edith McClure on West Erna street.

Attending were Marguerite Williams, Lenora Graham, Geraldine Lauger, Phyllis Foist, Eugenia Arnold, Martha Iverson, Margaret Thornton, Naomi Granger, Ruth Dickey and Edith McClure.

Outing Planned By Scout Troop

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Thirty-one boy scouts were present at the meeting held this week. One new member, Harold Hamilton, was present. Plans were made for the week-end trip to Limestone canyon. About 25 local Scouts are planning to attend.

Scoutmaster Joe Severns was assisted by E. R. Berry in conducting the meeting, which closed with an hour of outdoor games.

TALK ON FIRST AID GIVEN AT BEACH SESSION

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 17—Frank Crocker, chief of the Newport Beach Fire department, gave a first aid demonstration before members of the local American Legion auxiliary at this week's meeting at the Legion hut. The demonstration was the first of a series that Crocker will give at the unit meetings.

Mrs. Ferne Boomer, membership chairman, reported 45 members on the aerial pickup. The Newport Beach unit is planning to try for a special citation in membership work this year.

A total of $91.23 worth of hospitalization work has been done by the unit in the past quarter year, it was reported by Iris Brown, hospitalization chairman. She also reported six new Red Cross members within the past week.

Announcement was made that the Junior auxiliary will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Legion hut to make preliminary arrangements for the work for the year. The Americanization chairman, Floramae Rogers, will be in charge. Scrap books and Christmas stockings will be made by the juniors.

Mrs. Alberta Timm is president of the Senior auxiliary.

HILLSIDE VILLAGE PLANNED AT BEACH

LAGUNA BEACH, Nov. 17. — A typical Mediterranean village is being planned at Emerald bay to solve the problem of subdividing a steep section of the bluff. A program of improvements, totaling $15,000, now under way, includes a new road along the beach at the foot of this bluff. The new road will serve the lower tier and the upper tier will be reached by a road skirting the top of the bluff.

The new roadway extends for several hundred yards along the sand and comes to a dead end. It is 24 feet wide and has two turn arounds. It will be a private road, serving only the homes that face it and parking will not be allowed. Thousands of yards of dirt were hauled from the upper or view tract of Emerald bay to lay the base on the sand.

The road leading from the view tract to the beach through the newly completed underpass has been regraded and Arthur Dupuis, tract manager, says plans have been made to pave it within a few months. When the new highway work was done a year ago the Emerald Bay corporation made an agreement with the state highway department to enlarge the culvert planned to carry off rain waters from Niguel canyon and is was made into an underpass large enough for two cars to pass. The road leading to the beach through this underpass will permit residents of the upper section to reach the sand without crossing the highway.

Program Is Held By Tustin Group

TUSTIN, Nov. 17.—One hundred and fifty-four members and supporters of the Tustin Presbyterian church gathered in the lower auditorium Wednesday evening for a home coming and rally. The room and tables were decorated with gay bouquets of chrysanthemums. A pot luck dinner was served under the supervision of the Ladies' Aid.

Judge Kenneth Morrison, of Santa Ana, addressed the audience giving many suggestions to parents regarding their children in their relationship to the church, the home and the school.

Musical numbers on the program included two 'cello solos by Miss Anna Mae Archer, accompanied by Mrs. J. Stuart Hydanus, and a vocal solo by the Rev. Hydanus, with Mrs. Hydanus accompanying at the piano and Miss Archer on the 'cello.

The pastor divided the church members into 10 groups for the purpose of carrying on a spiritual campaign during the following weeks.

ELK HEADS EXHIBITED

SAN CLEMENTE, Nov. 17. — Two large elk heads, said to be the finest in Southern California, are being shown friends by P. W. Smith. The animals were killed by Smith and a friend near Rawlins, Wyo., in 1895. The local man claimed them while on a trip to Wyoming recently and had them remounted. The antlers of one measures 48 inches across and the other measures 44 inches.

THIRD WELL ON 6-LOT LEASE FLOWING 3500 BARRELS OF OIL

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 17. —The third well on the Lewis-Harris six-lot lease at the corner of Twenty-second and Walnut came in yesterday for 3500 barrels, the oil is clean and is better than 25 gravity. There are two other wells on the six-lot lease, the three wells having a potential of more than 10,000 barrels. The company plans to put down a fourth well.

The Beloil company well on Ocean avenue near Seventeenth street is in for better than 5000 barrels a day. The area between Sixteenth street and Twentieth street along Ocean avenue and back for the first two blocks is apparently as good oil territory as the area between Twentieth and Twenty-third street. The well at the corner of Fourteenth and Ocean, also a gusher with a potential of 2600 barrels a day, indicates that the entire ocean front area as far east as has been drilled is sure territory for big gusher wells, according to operators.

Hold Card Party In Heights Home

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—A dessert-bridge party was held in the patio of the Tressler home in La Habra Heights Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. William Tressler and Mrs. W. W. Cloyd were hostesses. Fall flowers were placed about the patio in large baskets.

Bridge prizes were awarded to Mrs. Norton R. Skinner, first; Mrs. Jesse D. Herman, second, and Mrs. Douglass McGill, low. Other guests present were Mrs. E. H. Little, Mrs. Grace Tressler, Mrs. Steve Smith, Mrs. Edmond Canfield, Mrs. T. W. LaMonte, Mrs. Orville Proud of Anaheim and Mrs. P. B. Clark.

Seal Beach Seeks Federal Funds For Projects

COUNCIL PLANS WATER SYSTEM AND NEW JETTY

SEAL BEACH, Nov. 17.—Following an appeal by City Attorney Brown for haste on the part of the city council in filing the applications for federal aid on municipal projects, the council last night voted to authorize the mayor, attorney and engineer to approve the applications under consideration and file them with the state advisory board at once.

The projects contemplated include a municipal water works system, the present supply; a jetty pendent of the Long Beach water system, the present suply; a jetty on the east side of the entrance to Anaheim bay; construction of a new outfall sewer, and repairs to the septic tank.

In response to a request of the council for an expression of the attitude of nearby property owners in respect to the opening of a new crossing at Twelfth street and the abandonment of the crossing at Fourteenth street, a petition signed by 101 residents agreeing to the proposition was presented to the council. The city attorney was instructed to report at the next meeting on the cost of proceedings to secure the crossing. The city engineer was ordered to prepare the necessary maps and to define the assessment district which would be included for assessment to pay the mosts of the new crossing.

In the discussion of the proposed admittance of Sunset Beach into the city's sewer system, the mayor announced that the representatives of Sunset Beach had agreed to meet with the city council at their convenience to discuss the proposition. A meeting is to be arranged for the early part of next week.

The street committee was authorized to secure a location to mix oil sand for repairing streets. The Union Oil company offered to the city 500 barrels of oil stored at their warehouse here.

R. C. Mize of the state park board appeared before the council to present a petition requesting that the delinquent taxes on property purchased by the state for park purposes be cancelled. Since the property now belongs to the state and therefore cannot be sold for delinquent taxes, the city attorney recommended that the council grant the request. The council then authorized the tax collector to cancel the taxes in question.

Two new requests for the operation of tango parlors were received; one from A. H. Sanders, who has taken a lease on the northern half of the building now occupied by Dr. E. F. Green. The other was made by O. B. Thomas, operator of the Bay Shore cafe at Anaheim Landing. As yet no action has been taken on the petitions already filed, but it is understood that the council plans an informal meeting to consider and act upon the applications the fore part of next week.

Mr. Paschall of Long Beach, one of the applicants, appeared before the council to explain the type of project contemplated. Paschall plans on the erection of a $25,000 building on the Coast highway at Fourteenth street and the operation of an exclusive night club at that location.

MESA TRUSTEES SEEK U.S. FUNDS AS WRECKING OF SCHOOL STARTS

COSTA MESA, Nov. 17.—Upon final recommendation from A. P. Hill of the State Department of Education, and Architects Mackie and Perrene, of Los Angeles, work of wrecking the administration building and the two front wings of the main building of the Costa Mesa grammar school is under way. With some minor repairs, the balance of the building can still be used for school purposes, it was stated by George Healey, chairman of the building committee of the school board of trustees.

The present plans are to move the auditorium and the remaining class rooms forward on the school property, making more room for playgrounds in the rear of the buildings. It is believed that the architects can work out plans whereby several additional rooms can be added to the building in the change. George Spencer, in charge of R. F. C. labor, is taking down the condemned sections.

Reconstruction work will begin early in the year if present plans materialize, according to the board of trustees. The Monte Vista and Lindbergh schools will need some minor repairs.

The board has made application for federal aid to raise the $70,000 required for the reconstruction job. Under the present arrangement, 30 per cent of the total amount required will be donated by the federal government, with the balance borrowed from the state for 20 years. Classes will continue to meet as now arranged for the remainder of this school year. The new rooms will be ready for the beginning of school next fall.

COMPROMISE IN OIL DRILLING CASE IS SEEN

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Nov. 17.—The oil conference with Governor Rolph jr., Wednesday, is regarded by the representatives of the land owners and operators and city officials as having been productive of good results, according to those who attended from this city.

The conference was held in an attempt to settle the suit brought by the state against the Termo company, which is charged with "whipstocking" wells in order to tap the tidelands pool.

Mayor Elson G. Conrad of this city issued the following statement today:

"The meeting was harmonious and without bitterness being expressed. The state officials including Governor Rolph pledged their aid toward a compromise settlement of the lawsuit in the interest of enabling development of the oil field to continue, thus putting many hundred men back to work.

"This big objective of the meeting was thus accomplished. As a result of this conference both sides to the litigation are now pledged to bring about a compromise. It will be necessary to hold additional conferences to arrange all the details of the plan, as there is much involved and many points to be agreed upon. I have the highest hopes of an early settlement of the controversy.

"I regard the situation as being briefly this: A compromise settlement has been proposed and both sides have pledged themselves to work to that end. They have agreed to hold meetings between the state officials and the committee of seven representing the landowners and operators organized under the name of California Oil Properties association."

Bolsa Men Sign Arizona Contract

BOLSA, Nov. 17. — The Post brothers have taken a contract on extensive canal building work at Tucson, Ariz., and have shipped their equipment to the location. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Post, Elmer Post, E. L. Raney, Gerhart Jaehn and Vincent Bogetti have left for Arizona. They expect to remain two months.

SET DATE FOR YULE PROGRAM IN LA HABRA

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—December 22 has been set as the date for the annual Christmas program of the La Habra Methodist church. A white Christmas offering was planned by the Sunday school trustees at their meeting this week and Mrs. E. E. Proud is in charge of the committees to carry out the Christmas plans at the church.

Sunday, November 26, the Methodist brotherhood will have charge of the church services and will ask for donations of food for the Thanksgiving baskets to be filled and distributed by the various leagues of the church.

On Tuesday, November 28, the brotherhood will hold its regular meeting, which will be a Thanksgiving meeting, with an address on this subject. The church choir will sing at this meeting. It was decided to postpone the December meeting.

The executive board met at the E. E. Proud home this week at 6 o'clock, dinner being served by Mrs. Proud. Those who attended were the Rev. Mr. Simmons, M. A. Stearman, L. E. Proud, E. A. Schneider, C. E. Varney, A. J. Cookerly and E. E. Proud.

SENIOR CLASS GIVES PLAY ON VISITING DAY

TUSTIN, Nov. 17.—Parents' visiting day was observed Thursday at the high school, with a large number of P.-T. A. parents and friends visiting the different classes. At 11:20 a. m., the visitors enjoyed luncheon with the students in the high school cafeteria.

At 12 a. m., an assembly of the students was held in the high school auditorium, at which time the seniors presented a one-act comedy, "Sauce for the Gosling" under the direction of Miss May Rose Borum, dramatics instructor. Members of the cast were Elizabeth, the daughter, Eleanor Leihy; the mother, Audrey Peiper; the father, Norman Mennes; Bob, the son, Ed Pankey; Mrs. Lee, grandmother, Marjorie Newcomb; James, a friend and football hero, Bill Stearns.

After the regular schedule of afternon classes, the P.-T. A. held a business meeting in the cafeteria room, with the president, Mrs. L. R. Stearns, presiding. The flag salute was led by Mrs. B. B. McCulla, followed by community singing of the P.-T. A. song, with Mrs. Robert Korff at the piano. The secretary's report was read by Mrs. E. D. King and the treasurer's report by Mrs. B. J. McReynolds. Mrs. Frank H. Greenwood, membership chairman, announced that there were 56 members to date in the P.-T. A. Mrs. Fred L. Wilson gave high lights on the recent P.-T. A. district meeting held at Brea.

Plans for a 1 o'clock benefit luncheon and card party to be held December 6 at the home of Mrs. B. J. McReynolds, 1901 Fruit street, were announced by Mrs. J. H. Pankey. Prizes will be awarded for first and second high scores. There will be jig saw puzzles and other diversions for those who do not care for cards. All members and friends of the P.-T. A. are invited to attend the affair.

PAPER TREE SHOWS P.-T.A. MEMBERSHIP

PLACENTIA, Nov. 17.—A record of Parent-Teacher membership is being kept in a new way at the Placentia Union Grammar school this year. The students of the Valencia High school constructed a large tree of paper, each limb bearing the name of a room. As membership is added, a bird is placed on the limb representing a friend; a leaf is placed, designating a mother, and a rose is placed, designating a teacher, while when a father joins a tiny paper monkey is added.

At the Brafford school the nurses' headquarters have been moved from a basement room to a large room on the ground floor of the primary building, and this room is now being arranged with bright and cheerful decorations for the care of the sick. Mrs. Marie Beack, school nurse, and her assistant, Mrs. Cora Pickenpaugh, have desks there.

Mrs. Beck said yesterday the fruit of persistent labor on the part of the health department is showing results. The Placentia schools several years ago adopted a policy of uniting truant officer's work with the nurse and health department.

Play Presented At Club Meeting

LA HABRA, Nov. 17. — The Young Business Women's club of La Habra held a potluck supper and party Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Julia Middleton on East Florence avenue.

Following the dinner and a short business meeting, at which time scrap books were planned for the county hospital, a play was presented. Parts were taken as follows: Pa Potter, Julia Middleton; Ma Potter, Eugenia Arnold; Bill Potter, Naomi Granger and Mamie Potter, Margaret Thornton. Martha Iverson announced the program. The next meeting will be held November 28 at the home of Miss Edith McClure on West Erna street.

Attending were Marguerite Williams, Lenora Graham, Geraldine Lauger, Phyllis Foist, Eugenia Arnold, Martha Iverson, Margaret Thornton, Naomi Granger, Ruth Dickey and Edith McClure.

Outing Planned By Scout Troop

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Thirty-one boy scouts were present at the meeting held this week. One new member, Harold Hamilton, was present. Plans were made for the week-end trip to Limestone canyon. About 25 local Scouts are planning to attend.

Scoutmaster Joe Severns was assisted by E. R. Berry in conducting the meeting, which closed with an hour of outdoor games.

TALK ON FIRST AID GIVEN AT BEACH SESSION

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 17—Frank Crocker, chief of the Newport Beach Fire department, gave a first aid demonstration before members of the local American Legion auxiliary at this week's meeting at the Legion hut. The demonstration was the first of a series that Crocker will give at the unit meetings.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

New York, Boston and Toronto usually are the scenes of the largest of the annual horse shows.... Boston did not have the money for a show this year . . . But Chicago went ahead . . . and New York followed with a scheduled show starting November 8 . . . the big shot of the Chicago show, if possible to pick among so many gifted equines, was Sweetheart on Parade, an old gray mare owned by Mrs. William Roth of San Francisco . . . and valued at $37,000, no less . . . after having been beaten by Mrs. Locke Brown's Belle Lee Rose at Louisville last September (in the five-gaited saddle class) old Sweetheart won sweet revenge at the Chicago show, beating Belle Lee Rose and a few other assorted five-gaiters . . . and established in the minds of many her claim that she just had an off day in Louisville.

HOW COME, HUNK?

At this writing "Hunk" Anderson still is coaching at Notre Dame . . . maybe the man hasn't been reading the papers . . . Elmer Layden loses 10 of his 11 first stringers at Duquesne next spring, so he is trying to schedule an opening game for 1934 with the University of Chicago.

Andy Kerr was signed to coach at Colgate for three more years . . . the signing taking place a few days after his Red Raiders had been halted by Tulane . . . the boys in the press box didn't have much time to fire Andy . . . but they did manage to unearth the rumor that he would be the next Yale coach . . . Another juicy rumor is that Wesley Fesler, the former Ohio State All-America end who has been assistant coach at Harvard this year, will step into Eddie Casey's shoes as head coach next year . . . a rumor which may lead Ohio State to invite his return to the Buckeye school as mentor-in-chief.

INEFFICIENT JOURNALIST

Speaking of Ohio State, one of the young journalists on the Lantern, who sent out pieces for the papers concerning dissatisfaction among the gridders, was dismissed from the publicity staff on grounds of "inefficiency" . . . the lad's name is Jack Levine. . . . Marshall Oliphant, player quoted as critical of Coach Sam Willaman's methods, avers Levine did not misquote him.

Joe Jacobs is willing to put up the family jewels, says he, that his man Schmeling can knock the ears off one Primo Carnera . . . and he'll have to put up the jewels (of several families, at that) before he entices the Ambling Alp into the arena.

PROS PEP IT UP

Careful research discloses that the professionals, who moved the goal posts up to the goal line this year, have booted more than three times as many field goals as were kicked last year . . . and that the average points scored in a pro game this year is around 40 . . . the rule allowing forward passes to be thrown from any point behind the line of scrimmage being a healthy contributing factor in the tallying . . . In this connection it might be noted that Yale scored only 41 points last year.

A check of 125 leading schools reveals that 34 are coached by graduates of Notre Dame . . . and on Saturday, November 4, 21 were victorious and 11 were licked, six out of the 11 losers being defeated by teams coached by other Notre Dame athletes.

COOKLESS DONS FAVORED OVER INLAND INDIANS

Realizing that an unexpected defeat or tie, will cost them the Eastern conference football title Santa Ana's Dons invade San Bernardino tonight for an important tussle with Art Schaefer's lowly Braves at 7:30 o'clock. The athletic field at the junior college is located on South Mt. Vernon avenue.

Coach Bill Cook, who has been in a low physical condition ever since an appendicitis attack at Ontario last Saturday, will not attempt to make the trip to the inland city. Ed Adams, assistant coach, will have official charge of the Dons, with Coaches Clyde Patton of Santa Ana, Bill Cole of Tustin and John Ward of Garden Grove voluntarily accompanying the squad.

It has been six weeks since Santa Ana has engaged an opponent at night. Five afternoon contests have followed a 7-7 deadlock with the U. C. L. A. Freshmen in an after-dinner tilt at the Bowl in early October, and many believe the sudden change to night football may have a drastic effect on the Dons, despite their experience with the nocturnal sport.

Records Favor Santa Ana

Comparative records indicate an easy victory for the Dons, but the fact that San Bernardino has not won a league game will have the defensively-strong Indians fired with determination, and an upset will not be a total surprise. They lost to the dangerous Riverside and Citrus teams by only two touchdowns.

Santa Ana was at full strength as the Cookmen went through their final drill at Poly field yesterday. Guarding against rain at San Bernardino, the Dons employed wet footballs, and at the end of their practice session had learned to handle the slippery pigskin with surprising skill.

The Don lineup that edged out Chaffey, 7-6, last week will be thrown against San Bernardino.

Harold Welty, triple-threat quarterback; Harry McInteer, left half; "Porky" Bell, right half; and Wilburn Anderson, fullback, will be assigned backfield duty, with Quarterback Ray Hapes, Halfbacks Clair Preininger and Bob Phipps, and Fullback Bob Mitchell due for an early call.

Regulars To Start

Ben Slavin and Paul Perinich, ends; Miles Norton and Walt Devine, tackles; Sammy Tucker and Loren Lukens, guards; and Bruce Handy, center, comprise Santa Ana's regular line.

Reserves will enter the game in somewhat the following order: Ends—Horace Ritner, Walt Gunther, Frank Kroener and Byron Stoddard. Tackles—Bob Bell, "Bud" Boyle and Ed Sparks. Guards—Zeno Shelley, Roy Waer, Ray Nowotny, Bob Hafer and Bruce Martin. Center—Ray Hoar, Harold Youel and Crawford Johnson.

San Bernardino began the '33 season with five returning lettermen, four of whom will be in its starting lineup against Santa Ana. They are Captain Marion Becker, center; Bill Edelman, guard; Ted Schelzer, halfback; James Spittler, fullback; and Gordon Jones, tackle. Spittler will be replaced at full by Krum, an impressive heavyweight from Redlands. Others in the opening lineup are Davis and McClellan, ends; Smith, tackle; Clark, guard; Crawford, quarterback; and Hansen, left half.

Expect New Rush At Coliseum Kid Gates This Week

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Popularity of the University of Southern California's "kid gate" has grown so great that approximately 20,000 youngsters passed through it to see the Stanford-Trojan football game last Saturday, according to General Manager Arnold Eddy of S. C., and consequently increased facilities will be provided to take care of juvenile fans this week-end when the Trojans meet Oregon at the Coliseum.

Price for admission through the "kid gate" is 40 cents or what-have-you, the what-have-you being for small youngsters who can get in for almost anything but a "chisel." High school and grammar school students may use the gate by presenting some means of identification such as a student body card. Extra ticket booths will be provided this week to take care of the anticipated young rush.

Tickets for adults for the Trojan-Oregon championship affair are $1.65 and $1.10, including tax. More than 40 ticket booths will be open before the game.

COOK ILL, SO RIVAL COACH WILL LEAVE HIS SQUAD TOO

Learning that Coach Bill Cook would not be physically able to accompany his Dons to San Bernardino, Schaeffer telephoned here today and volunteered to remain off the field also while his Indians battle the title-bound Santa Ana eleven tonight.

Cook, who was stricken by an attack of appendicitis a week ago, is showing improvement, but has been advised by his physician not to make the trip to the inland city.

Official charge of both junior college teams will be given the assistant coaches. Ed Adams will direct the Dons, although three Orange county mentors—Clyde Patton of Santa Ana, Bill Cole of Tustin and John Ward of Garden Grove—will unofficially accompany the squad.

MAX BAER IN LOVE ONCE AGAIN

'You Ought to See Her Penthouse,' Exclaims Boxer

HE SPOILS SALLY'S FAN DANCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17. —(UP)—A new love emerged today in the busy life of Max Baer, heavyweight title contender and lately a film lover, as he told friends here that he contemplated matrimony with Edna Dunham, who lives in a penthouse in New York city.

Max's announcement came as the huge Livermore fighter attended a private showing of Sally Rand's fan dance, prior to the blonde dancer's performance in a San Francisco theater.

Baer started waving a telegram, which created almost as much disturbance as Sally's fan waving. He said he had just received the message in answer to $58 worth of long distance telephone conversation with Miss Dunham.

"She will be out here next Thursday," said Max. She is a swell girl. She thinks I'm sweet and I think she's sweet. And money won't figure in this. She has plenty of her own. You ought to see her penthouse."

Max said he met Miss Dunham, a divorcee, when he was in New York last time.

"She was running around with Phil Plant, Constance Bennett's former husband, but now everything is hotsy cotcha with us," he added.

As Sally Rand swirled about in her fan dance, Max was talking in low tones about Hollywood in general and his recent picture with Myrna Loy, in particular. The talk included marriage of Johnny Weissmuller and Lupe Velez.

"Who cares about that?" asked Max. "Nobody," he supplied his own answer. "Did it rate the front page? But in a couple of months you'll see somebody make the front page and that certain party isn't so far away. Guess who?"

Some one guessed it might be Max, who then produced his telegram. It was signed "with all my love, Edna."

Max eventually excused himself from Sally's fan dance, saying he had a date to call on Estelle Taylor, former wife of Jack Dempsey, who was playing in a state production in a nearby theater. This seemed to arouse the ire of Sally who addressed the remainder of the audience with several pointed comments anent the Baer manners.

A few minutes later the telephone rang.

"This is Max," said the fighter-actor. "Tell Sally I was standing right outside the door and heard everything she said. Tell her I'm still a pretty poor parlor man, anyway."

MISS DUNHAM DENIES SHE'S ENGAGED TO BAER

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Miss Edna Dunham told the United Press today that an announcement from Max Baer, heavyweight boxer, and lately a movie actor, that he contemplated matrimony with her was "absolutely ridiculous and absurd."

Baer's announcement came from San Francisco yesterday. He said he had received a message from Miss Dunham in answer to long distance telephone conversations.

"I met Baer on his last trip to New York," Miss Dunham said. "I don't live in a penthouse, I have seen little of Baer, and the announcement has embarrassed me considerably."

REDS TRADE LUCAS FOR PIET, SEND GRANTHAM TO NEW YORK

GALVESTON, Nov. 17.—The Cincinnati Reds early today announced the trade of "Red" Lucas, veteran pitcher, and Walter Roettger, outfielder, to Pittsburgh for Tony Piet, second baseman, and Adam Comorosky, veteran outfielder. Larry McPhail, who is soon expected to be named president of the Cincinnati club, declined to say whether any money was involved.

Toronto of the International league traded Erwin Brame, former Pittsburgh pitcher, to the San Francisco Missions for Bert Cole, pitcher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Giants had made their second deal in two days today. The New York club is shipping Glenn Spencer, right hand pitcher, to Cincinnati in an even trade for George Grantham, veteran infielder. The Giants intend to use the hard-hitting Grantham as a relief for Critz and Terry as he can play either first or second base.

Sellout For Bear-Indian Battle Sure

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Ticket sales for the Stanford-California "big game" next week pointed to a complete sell out today.

The Stanford students' rooting section was completely sold out, officials reported, and not very many sections are left.

The annual "Big Game" rally on the Stanford campus has been set for Wednesday night. Students and alumni will gather for a spirited "beat Cal" rally.

HUSKIES READY FOR INVASION OF BRUINS

SEATTLE, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Washington's Huskies go into battle against University of California at Los Angeles tomorrow with one of the lightest weeks of training ever held before a major game here.

After California gave his charges a complete trimming at Berkeley last Saturday, Coach Jimmy Phelan feared the squad was going stale. Only a taste of scrimmage has been given the Huskies this week and virtually no attempt has been made to lay detailed defense plans against the U. C. L. A. attack. A light workout with no scrimmage is on tap today.

The U. C. L. A. squad was scheduled to arrive here late today. It will lodge at the Olympic hotel, leaving Seattle immediately after the game.

TWO PRAYING TEAMS

LOS ANGELES WINS CONFERENCE CROWN

Los Angeles junior college prepares for its final Western conference football game with Compton Saturday so solidly entrenched in first position that not even a defeat at the hands of the Tartars plus a victory for the second place Glendale Buccaneers will prevent the Cubs from retaining their hold on first place and the championship.

They clinched it last week although idle, when Santa Monica showed surprising strength in thumping the favored Ventura Pirates 20-0. Ventura was in second place and had a mathematical chance at the title until defeated for the second straight week.

Glendale flattened Compton, 12-0, to move up two notches, but the best Glendale can do by defeating Ventura this week is a tie with Los Angeles, also tied once, which would mean little since the Cubs whpiped Glendale earlier in the schedule.

Long Beach, beaten in its first three starts, walloped Pasadena 19-7 in the schools' traditional game, thereby rising from seventh to fifth place in the standings. Pasadena winner of the conference and association titles, has finished the season in last place with but a single triumph. Santa Monica plays Long Beach in the other finale Saturday.

The Western Conference champ will be forced to wait nearly three weeks to meet the Eastern conference winner, since the schedule in this district does not end until Nov. 30.

The standings:

WESTERN CONFERENCE

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Los Angeles	4	0	1	.900
Glendale	3	1	1	.700
Ventura	2	2	1	.500

UNBEATEN TRIO DUE FOR FIRST DEFEAT--WALSH

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
(I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—That exclusive but rapidly dwindling group of undefeated teams is to be gravely menaced tomorrow when college football goes into the quarter-final or semi-serious round of the season's development.

It is so gravely menaced that nine of the big unbeaten ten could be eliminated at one and the same time. As it is, this might happen to as many as five; it probably will happen to at least three, and, in one case, a denouement just can't miss. This will come when Michigan and Minnesota meet at Ann Arbor in the game that probably will pay the tab on the Big Ten championship. I may be shot for a heritic but I think Minnesota, because of its superior condition, will either tie or beat Michigan.

Before the day is over, in fact, we'll know a great deal more not only about that race but those in the East, the South and the Southwest and, in the case of the West coast, we'll know all.

Rose Bowl For L. A. Victor

Here, the undefeated team of Oregon will be asked to take its last, desperate fling at the conference title, with Southern California ready to make its peace with a rabidly partisan Los Angeles crowd. The coast championship definitely goes with this one. So does the Rose Bowl bid.

Speaking of that, sectional bellwethers with idstinct ambitions are to go into action on other fronts, the list including Duke, Georgia and Louisiana State from the South; perhaps Purdue and Michigan from the Big Ten and maybe Nebraska from the Big Six. The east, having signified no wish to be a party to this transaction, naturally doesn't figure here.

Anyhow, the following is the schedule that will bring all the national contenders into the arena tomorrow:

Southern California vs. Oregon at Los Angeles; Michigan vs. Minnesota at Ann Arbor; Pittsburgh vs. Nebraska at Pittsburgh; Princeton vs. Navy at Princeton; Alabama Poly vs. Georgia at Birmingham; Duke vs. North Carolina at Durham; Purdue vs. Iowa at Lafayette, Ind.; Louisiana State vs. Mississippi at Baton Rouge.

Not claiming any particular importance for whatever ideas which, by a magnificent effort, I may be able to muster on the subject, I nevertheless am calling the following shots with sangfroid and abandon:

To remain undefeated—Princeton, Georgia, Duke, Purdue, Louisiana State.

To lose for the first time: Oregon (to U. S. C.); Nabraska (to Pittsburgh); Michigan (to Minnesota).

Army Draws Set-up

There has been, of course, no mention made of the fact that the undefeated Army team is to engage in a gripping encounter with Pennsylvania Military college and it may be added that I plan to avoid the subject, except to say there ought to be a law.

Anyhow, the Army will remain undefeated and Princeton ought to. It has to omuch manpower and the Navy too little. As for Michigan, it figures to have its toughest day against a tight Minnesota defense. On its record, U. S. C. may not figure against Oregon but the former seems to have something on anybody who comes into Los Angeles and, besides, U. S. C. is too potentially good to be so aactually bad all year.

Purdue would seem to have just enough to outlast a fighting Iowa team and the fact that Georgia has not been scored on in its last three games makes it look better than Alabama Poly, which has had one of those years.

Nebraska? It has the better record. But Pitt is liable to have the better team for purposes of this ball game.

Moreover, you can't justifiably rate North Carolina in the same league with Duke and, after what happened to Mississippi last week, I hardly think it can hope to rebound in time to stop Louisiana State.

YELLOWSTONE ELK 'RUSTLING' CHARGED

BOZEMAN, Mont., Nov. 17.—(INS)—Game wardens today investigated "rustling of elk in Yellowstone National park by Montana hunters.

Deputy State Game Warden Frank Marshall said that a park ranger routed 30 or 40 elk hunters attempting to drive a herd of elk out of the park in order to kill them in Montana before the season closed last night.

Bears Get Beer To Break Grid Monotony

BERKELEY, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Leo Calland's Idaho Vandals arrive here today for the conference contest with the University of California tomorrow in Memorial stadium. The Bears are picked to win by two touchdowns.

In preparing for tomorrow's tilt, Bill Ingham, California coach, gave his players rest, 3.2 beer and fundamentals during the week.

The Bears did not take to the practice field until Wednesday afternoon. In an experiment harking back to the era of pre-prohibition, Ingram took his players to a brewery Tuesday and had them break the monotony of rigid training by drinking the amber fluid.

"Chuck" Cotton, Pasadena boy who played a brilliant halfback role for California against Washington State, will see action against Idaho, Ingram said.

Cotton will fill in for Floyd Blower, who is nursing injuries received last week. Cotton, Boeller, Thorell and Verducci will open in the Bear backfield.

OREGON SQUAD ARRIVES; COACH LIKES WEATHER

Tomorrow's football broadcasts: Northwestern - Notre Dame, KHJ, 10:45 a.m; Oregon-U. S. C., KFI, 2:15 p.m.; Washington - U. C. L. A., KHJ, 2:15 p.m.; California-Idaho, KGER, 2:15 p.m.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The Oregon football team, 30 strong, arrived in Los Angeles today for its all-important game here tomorrow with the Southern California Trojans.

Coach Prince Callison said his team was in fairly good shape and ready to give the Trojans a battle. The Webfeet will work out in Memorial Coliseum this afternoon.

"This kind of weather is just to our liking and we hope it stays this way for tomorrow," Callison said.

By "this kind of weather," he referred to a heavy fog which virtually amounted to a mist and caused topcoats to be comfortable.

Homer Griffith, U. S. C. quarterback, was counted out of the Oregon game today.

Demoted to the third squad when Coach Howard Jones sought to infuse new life into the team, Griffith developed leg injuries that athletic authorities believed would restrain him from active service tomorrow. In that event quarterback duties will be shared by "Cotton" Warburton and Bill Howard.

THERMOMETER AT 22 FOR RAMS, BEAVERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP)—With the thermometer hovering around 22, Oregon State and Fordham were slated for short, brisk workouts today at the Polo Grounds where they meet tomorrow in an intersectional clash.

Coach Lon Stiner was not certain he would permit his lads to carry the outdoor drill. The squad braved icy blasts and the frozen field yesterday, and Stiner was not enthusiastic about another freezing session.

Mrs. Crenshaw and Mrs. Robinson Tie

Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw, 98-20-78, and Mrs. L. H. Robinson, 87-9-78, tied for first place in Class A women's medal play at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday Other winners: Class B—Mrs Kistinger, 104-23-81; Mrs. C. K. Dodds, 108-25-83; Mrs. Paul Hall, 104-21-83. Class C—Mrs. M. N. Thompson, 118-35-83; Mrs. Nat Neff, 128-38-90.

POLY FIELD JOUST TOMORROW LAST HOME GAME FOR FOOTE'S TEAM; S. A. PLANS AIR ATTACK

Santa Ana high school winds up its home football season at Poly field tomorrow, opposing the Moors of Alhambra in a Coast Preparatory league game that begins at 2:30. Class B teams meet in a preliminary contest at 12:30.

While neither side has much at stake, being out of championship consideration for the first time in several years, the dopesheet suggests one of the warmest engagements of the entire campaign. The schools apparently are evenly matched. A chance at third place may spur the Saints to their best showing of the season.

Alhambra tied San Diego, 6-6, a team to which Santa Ana lost, 7-6. Alhambra was defeated by Pasadena by two touchdowns, Santa Ana by one. They both scored twice on Glendale. Earlier in the year, Alhambra lost to Santa Barbara by one point, Santa Ana by two points. Failure to add the extra point had cost both clubs two games.

The starting lineup of Coach Bill Foote, announced today, noted only one change from the Saint "batting order" that opened against Glendale two weeks ago. Fred Southworth was listed at left end, although Foote indicated he might change to Dick Crowl before gametime. Bill Hawkins, who started against Glendale, is definitely out with a cracked rib.

Foote's decision to start Southworth probably means the Santa Anans will rely on their strong passing attack, because Southworth is a six-foot pass-catcher of more than ordinary ability.

Santa Ana's backfield will be Leroy Levens, 137-pound quarterback; Fred Erdhaus, left half; Art Stranske, right half, and Byron Nott, fullback. Walt Hendrie is a possible replacement for Erdhaus, passing hero of the Glendale victory. Myron Newton will be at right end, Charles Roemer and Roland Williams at the tackle positions, Captain Ford Underwood and Dick DeSmet at guard, and probably Ray Hamilton at center. Hamilton's rapid improvement has enabled Foote to move Dave Webb, second string center, into his backfield to strengthen the fullback position.

With Waldo Smith, one of the best Saint quarterbacks probably lost through illness, Foote will depend on little Bill Greene or his first string fullback, Nott, to call signals after Levens. Carl Schultz, towering tackle, is another regular who may be out because of ailments.

Major Anderson, Warren Mann and Dick White are reserve backs likely to see service, in addition to Hendrie. Substitute ends include Erwin Youel and Roger McCune, both sophomores. Reserve tackles are Bain Alexander, Elmer Vardy and Schultz. Four deep behind Underwood and DeSmet are Guards Don Evans, Leonard Ash, "Bud" Hood and Russell Abbey, Al Halderman and Webb understudy Hamilton at center.

Like Santa Ana, the Moors of Alhambra have substantially a brand new team this term. Losing most of his veterans, Coach George Hobbs, onetime (1919-21) Nevada end, and later leader of Anaheim's eleven, built from the ground up. Only two of his regulars started against Santa Ana last year when the teams battled for the Coast league championship at Alhambra. They are Captain Vard Stockton, touted by Alhambrans as the best guard in the conference, and Myron Becker, a tackle who was used at guard in '32. R. E. Thompson, who starts at end; and Jay Nix and "Bud" Winterbottom, backs, appeared in last year's contest as substitutes.

Alhambra's leading ball-packer is Quarterback Lynn Jackson, a fast and shifty 170-pounder, who gave both Long Beach and San Diego a busy afternoon. He also is considered a capable passer. Winterbottom is a plunging back, while McDaniels and Nix are frequently employed on reverse plays which figure strongly in Alhambra's running attack. Hobbs features a modified Warner system, with a sprinkling of Jones and Rockne plays. The Saints, of course, use the Rockne shift.

While the last high school game here this year, Santa Ana will not complete its schedule until November 25 at Long Beach.

SAINTS OR MOORS? THEY'RE EVEN!

Hooks and Slides

by Bill Braucher

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

New York, Boston and Toronto usually are the scenes of the largest of the annual horse shows.... Boston did not have the money for a show this year . . . But Chicago went ahead . . . and New York followed with a scheduled show starting November 8 . . . the big shot of the Chicago show, if possible to pick among so many gifted equines, was Sweetheart on Parade, an old gray mare owned by Mrs. William Roth of San Francisco . . . and valued at $87,000, no less . . . after having been beaten by Mrs. Locke Brown's Belle Lee Rose at Louisville last September (in the five-gaited saddle class) old Sweetheart won sweet revenge at the Chicago show, beating Belle Lee Rose and a few other assorted five-gaiters . . . and established in the minds of many her claim that she just had an off day in Louisville.

HOW COME, HUNK?

At this writing "Hunk" Anderson still is coaching at Notre Dame . . . maybe the man hasn't been reading the papers . . . Elmer Layden loses 10 of his 11 first stringers at Duquesne next spring, so he is trying to schedule an opening game for 1934 with the University of Chicago.

Andy Kerr was signed to coach at Colgate for three more years . . . the signing taking place a few days after his Red Raiders had been halted by Tulane . . . the boys in the press box didn't have much time to fire Andy . . . but they did manage to unearth the rumor that he would be the next Yale coach . . . Another juicy rumor is that Wesley Fesler, the former Ohio State All-America end who has been assistant coach at Harvard this year, will step into Eddie Casey's shoes as head coach next year . . . a rumor which may lead Ohio State to invite his return to the Buckeye school as mentor-in-chief.

INEFFICIENT JOURNALIST

Speaking of Ohio State, one of the young journalists on the Lantern, who sent out pieces for the papers concerning dissatisfaction among the gridders, was dismissed from the publicity staff on grounds of "inefficiency" . . . the lad's name is Jack Levine. . . . Marshall Oliphant, player quoted as critical of Coach Sam Willaman's methods, avers Levine did not misquote him.

Joe Jacobs is willing to put up the family jewels, says he, that his man Schmeling can knock the ears off one Primo Carnera . . . and he'll have to put up the jewels (of several families, at that) before he entices the Ambling Alp into the arena.

PROS PEP IT UP

Careful research discloses that the professionals, who moved the goal posts up to the goal line this year, have booted more than three times as many field goals as were kicked last year . . . and that the average points scored in a pro game this year is around 40 . . . the rule allowing forward passes to be thrown from any point behind the line of scrimmage being a healthy contributing factor in the tallying . . . In this connection it might be noted that Yale scored only 41 points last year.

A check of 125 leading schools reveals that 34 are coached by graduates of Notre Dame . . . and on Saturday, November 4, 21 were victorious and 11 were licked, six out of the 11 losers being defeated by teams coached by other Notre Dame athletes.

COOKLESS DONS FAVORED OVER INLAND INDIANS

Realizing that an unexpected defeat or tie, will cost them the Eastern conference football title Santa Ana's Dons invade San Bernardino tonight for an important tussle with Art Schaefer's lowly Braves at 7:30 o'clock. The athletic field at the junior college is located on South Mt. Vernon avenue.

Coach Bill Cook, who has been in a low physical condition ever since an appendicitis attack at Ontario last Saturday, will not attempt to make the trip to the inland city. Ed Adams, assistant coach, will have official charge of the Dons, with Coaches Clyde Patton of Santa Ana, Bill Cole of Tustin and John Ward of Garden Grove voluntarily accompanying the squad.

It has been six weeks since Santa Ana has engaged an opponent at night. Five afternoon contests have followed a 7-7 deadlock with the U. C. L. A. Freshmen in an after-dinner tilt at the Bowl in early October, and many believe the sudden change to night football may have a drastic effect on the Dons, despite their experience with the nocturnal sport.

Records Favor Santa Ana

Comparative records indicate an easy victory for the Dons, but the fact that San Bernardino has not won a league game will have the defensively-strong Indians fired with determination, and an upset will not be a total surprise. They lost to the dangerous Riverside and Citrus teams by only two touchdowns.

Santa Ana was at full strength as the Cookmen went through their final drill at Poly field yesterday. Guarding against rain at San Bernardino, the Dons employed wet footballs, and at the end of their practice session had learned to handle the slippery pigskin with surprising skill.

The Don lineup that edged out Chaffey, 7-6, last week will be thrown against San Bernardino.

Harold Welty, triple-threat quarterback; Harry McInteer, left half; "Porky" Bell, right half; and Wilburn Anderson, fullback, will be assigned backfield duty, with Quarterback Ray Hapes, Halfbacks Clair Preininger and Bob Phipps, and Fullback Bob Mitchell due for an early call.

Regulars To Start

Ben Slavin and Paul Perinich, ends; Miles Norton and Walt Devine, tackles; Sammy Tucker and Loren Lukens, guards; and Bruce Handy, center, comprise Santa Ana's regular line.

Reserves will enter the game in somewhat the following order: Ends—Horace Ritner, Walt Gunther, Frank Kroener and Byron Stoddard. Tackles—Bob Bell, "Bud" Boyle and Ed Sparks. Guards—Zeno Shelley, Roy Waer, Ray Nowotny, Bob Hafer and Bruce Martin. Center—Ray Hoar, Harold Youel and Crawford Johnson.

San Bernardino began the '33 season with five returning lettermen, four of whom will be in its starting lineup against Santa Ana. They are Captain Marion Becker, center; Bill Edelman, guard; Ted Schelzer, halfback; James Spittler, fullback; and Gordon Jones, tackle. Spittler will be replaced at full by Krum, an impressive heavyweight from Redlands. Others in the opening lineup are Davis and McClellan, ends; Smith, tackle; Clark, guard; Crawford, quarterback; and Hansen, left half.

Expect New Rush At Coliseum Kid Gates This Week

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—Popularity of the University of Southern California's "kid gate" has grown so great that approximately 20,000 youngsters passed through it to see the Stanford-Trojan football game last Saturday, according to General Manager Arnold Eddy of S. C., and consequently increased facilities will be provided to take care of juvenile fans this week-end when the Trojans meet Oregon at the Coliseum.

Price for admission through the "kid gate" is 40 cents or what-have-you, the what-have-you being for small youngsters who can get in for almost anything but a "chisel." High school and grammar school students may use the gate by presenting some means of identification such as a student body card. Extra ticket booths will be provided this week to take care of the anticipated young rush.

Tickets for adults for the Trojan-Oregon championship affair are $1.65 and $1.10, including tax. More than 40 ticket booths will be open before the game.

COOK ILL, SO RIVAL COACH WILL LEAVE HIS SQUAD TOO

Learning that Coach Bill Cook would not be physically able to accompany his Dons to San Bernardino, Schaeffer telephoned here today and volunteered to remain off the field also while his Indians battle the title-bound Santa Ana eleven tonight.

Cook, who was stricken by an attack of appendicitis a week ago, is showing improvement, but has been advised by his physician not to make the trip to the inland city.

Official charge of both junior college teams will be given the assistant coaches. Ed Adams will direct the Dons, although three Orange county mentors—Clyde Patton of Santa Ana, Bill Cole of Tustin and John Ward of Garden Grove—will unofficially accompany the squad.

MAX BAER IN LOVE ONCE AGAIN

HE SPOILS SALLY'S FAN DANCE

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 17. —(UP)—A new love emerged today in the busy life of Max Baer, heavyweight title contender and lately a film lover, as he told friends here that he contemplated matrimony with Edna Dunham, who lives in a penthouse in New York city.

Max's announcement came as the huge Livermore fighter attended a private showing of Sally Rand's fan dance, prior to the blonde dancer's performance in a San Francisco theater.

Baer started waving a telegram, which created almost as much disturbance as Sally's fan waving. He said he had just received the message in answer to $58 worth of long distance telephone conversation with Miss Dunham.

"She will be out here next Thursday," said Max. She is a swell girl. She thinks I'm sweet and I think she's sweet. And money won't figure in this. She has plenty of her own. You ought to see her penthouse."

Max said he met Miss Dunham, a divorcee, when he was in New York last time.

"She was running around with Phil Plant, Constance Bennett's former husband, but now everything is hotsy cotcha with us," he added.

As Sally Rand swirled about in her fan dance, Max was talking in low tones about Hollywood in general and his recent picture with Myrna Loy, in particular. The talk included marriage of Johnny Weissmuller and Lupe Velez.

"Who cares about that?" asked Max. "Nobody," he supplied his own answer. "Did it rate the front page? But in a couple of months you'll see somebody make the front page and that certain party isn't so far away. Guess who?"

Some one guessed it might be Max, who then produced his telegram. It was signed "with all my love, Edna."

Max eventually excused himself from Sally's fan dance, saying he had a date to call on Estelle Taylor, former wife of Jack Dempsey, who was playing in a state production in a nearby theater. This seemed to arouse the ire of Sally who addressed the remainder of the audience with several pointed comments anent the Baer manners.

A few minutes later the telephone rang.

"This is Max," said the fighter-actor. "Tell Sally I was standing right outside the door and heard everything she said. Tell her I'm still a pretty poor parlor man, anyway."

MISS DUNHAM DENIES SHE'S ENGAGED TO BAER

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Miss Edna Dunham told the United Press today that an announcement from Max Baer, heavyweight boxer, and lately a movie actor, that he contemplated matrimony with her was "absolutely ridiculous and absurd."

Baer's announcement came from San Francisco yesterday. He said he had received a message from Miss Dunham in answer to long distance telephone conversations.

"I met Baer on his last trip to New York," Miss Dunham said. "I don't live in a penthouse, I have seen little of Baer, and the announcement has embarrassed me considerably."

REDS TRADE LUCAS FOR PIET, SEND GRANTHAM TO NEW YORK

GALVESTON, Nov. 17.—The Cincinnati Reds early today announced the trade of "Red" Lucas, veteran pitcher, and Walter Roettger, outfielder, to Pittsburgh for Tony Piet, second baseman, and Adam Comorosky, veteran outfielder. Larry McPhail, who is soon expected to be named president of the Cincinnati club, declined to say whether any money was involved.

Toronto of the International league traded Erwin Brame, former Pittsburgh pitcher, to the San Francisco Missions for Bert Cole, pitcher.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Giants had made their second deal in two days today. The New York club is shipping Glenn Spencer, right hand pitcher, to Cincinnati in an even trade for George Grantham, veteran infielder. The Giants intend to use the hard-hitting Grantham as a relief for Critz and Terry as he can play either first or second base.

Sellout For Bear-Indian Battle Sure

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Ticket sales for the Stanford-California "big game" next week pointed to a complete sell out today.

The Stanford students' rooting section was completely sold out, officials reported, and not very many sections are left.

The annual "Big Game" rally on the Stanford campus has been set for Wednesday night. Students and alumni will gather for a spirited "beat Cal" rally.

HUSKIES READY FOR INVASION OF BRUINS

SEATTLE, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Washington's Huskies go into battle against University of California at Los Angeles tomorrow with one of the lightest weeks of training ever held before a major game here.

After California gave his charges a complete trimming at Berkeley last Saturday, Coach Jimmy Phelan feared the squad was going stale. Only a taste of scrimmage has been given the Huskies this week and virtually no attempt has been made to lay detailed defense plans against the U. C. L. A. attack. A light workout with no scrimmage is on tap today.

The U. C. L. A. squad was scheduled to arrive here late today. It will lodge at the Olympic hotel, leaving Seattle immediately after the game.

TWO PRAYING TEAMS

LOS ANGELES WINS CONFERENCE CROWN

Los Angeles junior college prepares for its final Western conference football game with Compton Saturday so solidly entrenched in first position that not even a defeat at the hands of the Tartars plus a victory for the second place Glendale Buccaneers will prevent the Cubs from retaining their hold on first place and the championship.

They clinched it last week although idle, when Santa Monica showed surprising strength in thumping the favored Ventura Pirates 20-0. Ventura was in second place and had a mathematical chance at the title until defeated for the second straight week.

Glendale flattened Compton, 12-0, to move up two notches, but the best Glendale can do by defeating Ventura this week is a tie with Los Angeles, also tied once, which would mean little since the Cubs whpiped Glendale earlier in the schedule.

Long Beach, beaten in its first three starts, walloped Pasadena 19-7 in the schools' traditional game, thereby rising from seventh to fifth place in the standings. Pasadena winner of the conference and association titles, has finished the season in last place with but a single triumph. Santa Monica plays Long Beach in the other finale Saturday.

The Western Conference champ will be forced to wait nearly three weeks to meet the Eastern conference winner, since the schedule in this district does not end until Nov. 30.

The standings:

WESTERN CONFERENCE

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Los Angeles	4	0	1	.900
Glendale	3	1	1	.700
Ventura	2	2	1	.500
Compton	2	2	1	.500
Long Beach	2	3	0	.400
Santa Monica	1	2	2	.400

UNBEATEN TRIO DUE FOR FIRST DEFEAT--WALSH

BY DAVIS J. WALSH
((I. N. S. Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—That exclusive but rapidly dwindling group of undefeated teams is to be gravely menaced tomorrow when college football goes into the quarter-final or semi-serious round of the season's development.

It is so gravely menaced that nine of the big unbeaten ten could be eliminated at one and the same time. As it is, this might happen to as many as five; it probably will happen to at least three, and, in one case, a denouement just can't miss. This will come when Michigan and Minnesota meet at Ann Arbor in the game that probably will pay the tab on the Big Ten championship. I may be shot for a heritic but I think Minnesota, because of its superior condition, will either tie or beat Michigan.

Before the day is over, in fact, we'll know a great deal more not only about that race but those in the East, the South and the Southwest and, in the case of the West coast, we'll know all.

Rose Bowl For L. A. Victor

Here, the undefeated team of Oregon will be asked to take its last, desperate fling at the conference title, with Southern California ready to make its peace with a rabidly partisan Los Angeles crowd. The coast championship definitely goes with this one. So does the Rose Bowl bid.

Speaking of that, sectional bellwethers with idstinct ambitions are to go into action on other fronts, the list including Duke, Georgia and Louisiana State from the South; perhaps Purdue and Michigan from the Big Ten and maybe Nebraska from the Big Six. The east, having signified no wish to be a party to this transaction, naturally doesn't figure here.

Anyhow, the following is the schedule that will bring all the national contenders into the arena tomorrow:

Southern California vs. Oregon at Los Angeles; Michigan vs. Minnesota at Ann Arbor; Pittsburgh vs. Nebraska at Pittsburgh; Princeton vs. Navy at Princeton; Alabama Poly vs. Georgia at Birmingham; Duke vs. North Carolina at Durham; Purdue vs. Iowa at Lafayette, Ind.; Louisiana State vs. Mississippi at Baton Rouuge.

Not claiming any particular importance for whatever ideas which, by a magnificent effort, I may be able to muster on the subject, I nevertheless am calling the following shots with sangfroid and abandon:

To remain undefeated—Princeton, Georgia, Duke, Purdue, Louisiana State.

To lose for the first time: Oregon (to U. S. C.); Nabraska (to Pittsburgh); Michigan (to Minnesota).

Army Draws Set-up

There has been, of course, no mention made of the fact that the undefeated Army team is to engage in a gripping encounter with Pennsylvania Military college and it may be added that I plan to avoid the subject, except to say there ought to be a law.

Anyhow, the Army will remain undefeated and Princeton ought to. It has to omuch manpower and the Navy too little. As for Michigan, it figures to have its toughest day against a tight Minnesota defense. On its record, U. S. C. may not figure against Oregon but the former seems to have something on anybody who comes into Los Angeles and, besides, U. S. C. is too potentially good to be so aactually bad all year.

Purdue would seem to have just enough to outlast a fighting Iowa team and the fact that Georgia has not been scored on in its last three games makes it look better than Alabama Poly, which has had one of those years.

Nebraska? It has the better record. But Pitt is liable to have the better team for purposes of this ball game.

Moreover, you can't justifiably rate North Carolina in the same league with Duke and, after what happened to Mississippi last week, I hardly think it can hope to rebound in time to stop Louisiana State.

YELLOWSTONE ELK 'RUSTLING' CHARGED

BOZEMAN, Mont., Nov. 17.—(INS)—Game wardens today investigated "rustling of elk in Yellowstone National park by Montana hunters.

Deputy State Game Warden Frank Marshall said that a park ranger routed 30 or 40 elk hunters attempting to drive a herd of elk out of the park in order to kill them in Montana before the season closed last night.

Bears Get Beer To Break Grid Monotony

BERKELEY, Nov. 17.—(INS)—Leo Calland's Idaho Vandals arrive here today for the conference contest with the University of California tomorrow in Memorial stadium. The Bears are picked to win by two touchdowns.

In preparing for tomorrow's tilt, Bill Ingham, California coach, gave his players rest, 3.2 beer and fundamentals during the week.

The Bears did not take to the practice field until Wednesday afternoon. In an experiment harking back to the era of pre-prohibition, Ingram took his players to a brewery Tuesday and had them break the monotony of rigid training by drinking the amber fluid.

"Chuck" Cotton, Pasadena boy who played a brilliant halfback role for California against Washington State, will see action against Idaho, Ingram said.

Cotton will fill in for Floyd Blower, who is nursing injuries received last week. Cotton, Boeller, Thorell and Verducci will open in the Bear backfield.

OREGON SQUAD ARRIVES; COACH LIKES WEATHER

Tomorrow's football broadcasts: Northwestern-Notre Dame, KHJ, 10:45 a.m; Oregon-U.S.C., KFI, 2:15 p.m.; Washington-U.C.L.A., KHJ, 2:15 p.m.; California-Idaho, KGER, 2:15 p.m.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 17.—(UP)—The Oregon football team, 30 strong, arrived in Los Angeles today for its all-important game here tomorrow with the Southern California Trojans.

Coach Prince Callison said his team was in fairly good shape and ready to give the Trojans a battle. The Webfeet will work out in Memorial Coliseum this afternoon.

"This kind of weather is just to our liking and we hope it stays this way for tomorrow," Callison said.

By "this kind of weather," he referred to a heavy fog which virtually amounted to a mist and caused topcoats to be comfortable.

Homer Griffith, U. S. C. quarterback, was counted out of the Oregon game today.

Demoted to the third squad when Coach Howard Jones sought to infuse new life into the team, Griffith developed leg injuries that athletic authorities believed would restrain him from active service tomorrow. In that event quarterback duties will be shared by "Cotton" Warburton and Bill Howard.

THERMOMETER AT 22 FOR RAMS, BEAVERS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP)—With the thermometer hovering around 22, Oregon State and Fordham were slated for short, brisk workouts today at the Polo Grounds where they meet tomorrow in an intersectional clash.

Coach Lon Stiner was not certain he would permit his lads to carry the outdoor drill. The squad braved icy blasts and the frozen field yesterday, and Stiner was not enthusiastic about another freezing session.

Mrs. Crenshaw and Mrs. Robinson Tie

Mrs. R. D. Crenshaw, 98-20-78, and Mrs. L. H. Robinson, 87-9-78, tied for first place in Class A women's medal play at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday Other winners: Class B—Mrs Kistinger, 104-23-81; Mrs. C. K. Dodds, 108-25-83; Mrs. Paul Hall, 104-21-83. Class C—Mrs. M. N. Thompson, 118-35-83; Mrs. Nat Neff, 128-38-90.

POLY FIELD JOUST TOMORROW LAST HOME GAME FOR FOOTE'S TEAM; S. A. PLANS AIR ATTACK

Santa Ana high school winds up its home football season at Poly field tomorrow, opposing the Moors of Alhambra in a Coast Preparatory league game that begins at 2:30. Class B teams meet in a preliminary contest at 12:30.

While neither side has much at stake, being out of championship consideration for the first time in several years, the dopesheet suggests one of the warmest engagements of the entire campaign. The schools apparently are evenly matched. A chance at third place may spur the Saints to their best showing of the season.

Alhambra tied San Diego, 6-6, a team to which Santa Ana lost, 7-6. Alhambra was defeated by Pasadena by two touchdowns, Santa Ana by one. They both scored twice on Glendale. Earlier in the year, Alhambra lost to Santa Barbara by one point, Santa Ana by two points. Failure to add the extra point had cost both clubs two games.

The starting lineup of Coach Bill Foote, announced today, noted only one change from the Saint "batting order" that opened against Glendale two weeks ago. Fred Southworth was listed at left end, although Foote indicated he might change to Dick Crowl before gametime. Bill Hawkins, who started against Glendale, is definitely out with a cracked rib.

Foote's decision to start Southworth probably means the Santa Anans will rely on their strong passing attack, because Southworth is a six-foot pass-catcher of more than ordinary ability.

Santa Ana's backfield will be Leroy Levens, 137-pound quarterback; Fred Erdhaus, left half; Art Stranske, right half, and Byron Nott, fullback. Walt Hendrie is a possible replacement for Erdhaus, passing hero of the Glendale victory. Myron Newton will be at right end, Charles Roemer and Roland Williams at the tackle positions, Captain Ford Underwood and Dick DeSmet at guard, and probably Ray Hamilton at center. Hamilton's rapid improvement has enabled Foote to move Dave Webb, second string center, into his backfield to strengthen the fullback position.

With Waldo Smith, one of the best Saint quarterbacks probably lost through illness, Foote will depend on little Bill Greene or his first string fullback, Nott, to call signals after Levens. Carl Schultz, towering tackle, is another regular who may be out because of ailments.

Major Anderson, Warren Mann and Dick White are reserve backs likely to see service, in addition to Hendrie. Substitute ends include Erwin Youel and Roger McCune, both sophomores. Reserve tackles are Bain Alexander, Elmer Vardy and Schultz. Four deep behind Underwood and DeSmet are Guards Don Evans, Leonard Ash, 'Bud" Hood and Russell Abbey. Al Halderman and Webb understudy Hamilton at center.

Like Santa Ana, the Moors of Alhambra have substantially a brand new team this term. Losing most of his veterans, Coach George Hobbs, onetime (1919-21) Nevada end, and later leader of Anaheim's eleven, built from the ground up. Only two of his regulars started against Santa Ana last year when the teams battled for the Coast league championship at Alhambra. They are Captain Vard Stockton, touted by Alhambrans as the best guard in the conference, and Myron Becker, a tackle who was used at guard in '32. R. E. Thompson, who starts at end; and Jay Nix and "Bud" Winterbottom, backs, appeared in last year's contest as substitutes.

Alhambra's leading ball-packer is Quarterback Lynn Jackson, a fast and shifty 170-pounder, who gave both Long Beach and San Diego a busy afternoon. He also is considered a capable passer. Winterbottom is a plunging back, while McDaniels and Nix are frequently employed on reverse plays which figure strongly in Alhambra's running attack. Hobbs features a modified Warner system, with a sprinkling of Jones and Rockne plays. The Saints, of course, use the Rockne shift.

While the last high school game here this year, Santa Ana will not complete its schedule until November 25 at Long Beach.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

"I win again," said Ol' Man Blow. "Gee, how I made old Thunder go! He always disappears from sight whene'er the sun comes out.

"It is his job to stir up rain. When Sol is out, his work's in vain. Now that he's in his drum, he'll sleep for hours and hours, no doubt."

"Well, gee, I think 'twas fine of you to help the sun come shining through," said Scouty. "All the kids on earth can run right out and play.

"They won't get soaked by rain, you see, and they'll be happy as can be. No one can have a bit of fun, when it's a rainy day."

Just then the bright sun shouted "Say, now that the clouds are blown away, I want to thank you, Mister Blow, for clearing up the sky.

"I'm going to shine for all I'm worth and spread cheer all around the earth. I'll do it now, because the clouds will drift back by and by."

Soon Dotty exclaimed, "Mercy me! I'm just as hot as I can be. I think we're too close to the sun. How can we get away?

"If I was positive just where I'd land, I'd jump into the air. It won't be long until I'll melt, if on this cloud I stay."

"Now, wait," exclaimed ol' Blow. "I guess I'll help you all out of this mess. Star Island is not far from here, and it is cool down there.

"If you'll agree, I'll blow some more and through the air you all will soar. I think you'll find it lots of fun to sail right through the air."

"We're game, but you're not strong enough," said Scouty. "Why youd pant and puff." Then Blow replied, "I'll use my bellows. They will do the trick."

He found his bellows, right nearby. The Tinies soon were in the sky, and as they sailed along, wee Goldy shouted, "This is slick!"

THE rules state that a lineman may make use of his arms, if he keeps his hands together; if he does this he may legally use the projecting parts of his arms on offense.

This rule gives the linemen a great many opportunities for poor sportsmanship. The accompanying sketch shows why.

Here the offensive lineman at left is attempting to throw his opponent backward. His hands are joined together, which is intended to mislead the referee, but his arms are NOT close to his body. He has thrown them out and up, catching his opponent under the chin and delivering a blow that can break the defensive lineman's neck.

Officials cannot be too strict on this type of player. The penalty of half the distance to the goal line is hardly stiff enough.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

"I win again," said Ol' Man Blow. "Gee, how I made old Thunder go! He always disappears from sight whene'er the sun comes out.

"It is his job to stir up rain. When Sol is out, his work's in vain. Now that he's in his drum, he'll sleep for hours and hours, no doubt."

"Well, gee, I think 'twas fine of you to help the sun come shining through," said Scouty. "All the kids on earth can run right out and play.

"They won't get soaked by rain, you see, and they'll be happy as can be. No one can have a bit of fun, when it's a rainy day."

Just then the bright sun shouted "Say, now that the clouds are blown away, I want to thank you, Mister Blow, for clearing up the sky.

"I'm going to shine for all I'm worth and spread cheer all around the earth. I'll do it now, because the clouds will drift back by and by."

Soon Dotty exclaimed, "Mercy me! I'm just as hot as I can be. I think we're too close to the sun. How can we get away?

"If I was positive just where I'd land, I'd jump into the air. It won't be long until I'll melt, if on this cloud I stay."

"Now, wait," exclaimed ol' Blow. "I guess I'll help you all out of this mess. Star Island is not far from here, and it is cool down there.

"If you'll agree, I'll blow some more and through the air you all will soar. I think you'll find it lots of fun to sail right through the air."

"We're game, but you're not strong enough," said Scouty. "Why youd pant and puff." Then Blow replied, "I'll use my bellows. They will do the trick."

He found his bellows, right nearby. The Tinies soon were in the sky, and as they sailed along, wee Goldy shouted, "This is slick!"

NICHOLS STORE IN MIDST OF BUSINESS DRIVE

Nichols Dollar store in Santa Ana today was in the midst of the "New and Greater Nichols Drive for Business," it was announced by store officials.

J. C. Nichols, president of the company, announced that stores of Hollywood, Huntington Park, Long Beach and Santa Ana have launched the second division of the drive, the first division having commenced October 15.

The major gun of the second half of Nichols expansion program will be fired today and tomorrow, the last days of a great three-day dollar day sale. The event was said to be the most dramatic undertaking in the history of the fast-growing group of dollar stores.

Discussing the results of the new drive, Nichols said: "Under the program we have surpassed every objective and in my opinion the second part of the program of expansion will be equally as successful. The response of the public has been wonderful and the enthusiasm of the organization the highest."

Last night Mrs. W. L. Cairns, Santa Ana, winner of last week's letter-writing contest on "Why I Like to Shop in a Dollar Store," spoke over a Long Beach radio station, telling how she won the prize.

GEORGE O'BRIEN IN ROMANCE AT STATE

George O'Brien comes to Walker's State screen today in "Life in the Raw," a new romance. It is a Zane Grey story.

"Life in the Raw" depicts the arrival of an inexperienced Eastern girl into the midst of frontier hazards and intrigues. And it reveals the true emotions of a group of people who, impressed by the wide-openness of western territory, feel that they need no longer hide their true feelings.

The film has a number of hair-raising features, not the least of which are the riding and the fighting of O'Brien himself.

Gas Company Will Permit Employes Group Bargaining

Cooperating with the NRA program, the Southern Counties Gas company is permitting the representation of employes of the company for collective bargaining and for redress on grievances, Guy Wadesworth, in charge of the personnel department of the Los Angeles company office, told members of the Men's club of the company Wednesday night at a meeting in their clubrooms.

Wadsworth, introduced by President James Marigold who presided at the meeting, explained that the organization of the Southern Counties Employes association was in accordance with the principles set forth by the recovery act to permit employes collective bargaining and for registering and action on complaints.

Nomination of officers to serve for the ensuing fiscal year featured the meeting. Colby McKinney, Paul King, John Bingle and Darcy Crosby were nominated for president; J. R. Bell and Bill Roth for secretary; Fred Miller for treasurer. These officers will be elected at the December meeting.

Entertainment portion of the meeting was furnished by Fred Champion of the Los Angeles office, secretary to the president, who showed moving pictures of the recent air races in Los Angeles and of the Chicago World's fair.

Why Liquid Laxatives are Back in Favor

The public is fast returning to the use of liquid laxatives. People have learned that the properly prepared liquid laxative will bring a perfect movement without any discomfort at the time, or after.

The dose of a liquid laxative can be varied to suit the needs of the individual. The action can thus be regulated. A child is easily given the right dose. And mild liquid laxatives do not irritate the kidneys.

Doctors are generally agreed that senna is the best laxative for everybody. Senna is a natural laxative. It does not drain the system like the cathartics that leave you so thirsty. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a liquid laxative which relies on senna for its laxative action. It has the average person's bowels as regular as clockwork in a few weeks' time.

You can always get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at any drugstore, ready for use. Member N. R. A.

YOUNG MARRIED PEOPLE MEET HERE SUNDAY

George Gleason, of the Los Angeles Y. M. C. A., who has taken special work in young married people's problems, will conduct the second conference of Young Married People's classes in Orange county on Sunday at 3 p. m. in the Santa Ana First Methodist church, it was announced today. The meting will be in the social hall.

Gleason is devoting his entire time to the work of organization of young married people's classes or stimulating the growth and accomplishments of those already organized.

His subjects at the conference here Sunday will be "Organizing a New Class," "Practical Application of Christianity to Everyday Living," and "Home Building."

He is bringing with him Dr. Papline Harris of the Tower class, First M. E. church, Los Angeles, who will talk on "Teaching Sex to Children," and two members of his own class at Wilshire Boulevard Christian church, Mrs. Dorothy Hart, social chairman, who will lead a discussion on "Social Work:" and Mrs. Dixie Sturgis, song leader, will speak briefly on "The Place of Singing in the Worship Program."

There will be a reliable nurse in charge of the nursery so parents may feel free to bring their children, leaders said.

STUDENTS IN DEBATE

Featured by arguments between student leaders of the two factions, an open forum on militarism, versus pacifism was sponsored yesterday afternoon by Phi Rho Pi, debate society at the Santa Ana junior college. Nearly 100 students attended most of whom merely listened. The meeting was in charge of Robert Tannenbaum. Speakers included Le Roy Haley and Walter Kring for the pacifists and Art Casey for the militarists.

When the Republic of Panama took a census in 1930, the Indians in that country were not counted.

ANSWERS to today's THREE GUESSES

PUT ON GRILL

How $38,000,000 of "water" crept into stock of the General Theaters, was related by Harley Clarke, below, when he appeared before the senate probers yesterday.

'WILD NOTIONS' SUBJECT FOR TEACHER MEET

The Rev. Roy L. Smith, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Los Angeles, was the principal speaker last night at the meeting of the Orange County Teachers' association held in the Orange Union High school with approximately 300 present. The Rev. Mr. Smith chose as his subject "Some Wild Notions I Have Known," taking many of the well known proverbs commonly employed in modern conversation and showing how they contradict themselves.

During his talk, Dr. Smith stated that "It's the emergencies and handicaps in life that make it interesting, and that it takes a people with a great hope to make our present world successful."

John Stout, young violinist, played several violin numbers. He was accompanied by Miss Olive Eleanor Sweitzer, young pianist of Santa Ana, who later played several piano solos. Both of the young artists are 11 years old.

Previous to the program which was presented in the high school auditorium, a dinner was served in the school cafeteria, under the direction of Mrs. Vernon Shippee.

BAPTIST MEET CLOSES TODAY AT FULLERTON

With the session scheduled for tonight, the forty-first meeting of the Santa Ana Valley Baptist association will conclude a two-day conference which is being held in Fullerton. After meetings today, the session tonight will feature an address by the Rev. Whitcomb Brougher jr., of Glendale, arranged by young people.

There were 101 delegates and 314 guests present at the opening sessions yesterday at the Fullerton Baptist church. Twelve churches were represented in the conference and outstanding speakers were featured throughout the day, while laymen organizations reorganized during the dinner hour with H. D. Adams, of Garden Grove, as president and J. F. Boese, of Santa Ana, as secretary.

A. M. Robinson, of Tustin, was moderator and presided at the sessions. During the morning hours reports and committee appointments were made, after Dr. A. M. Petty of the Los Angeles office had given an inspirational talk. The Rev. Francis E. Hawes, pastor of the host church, welcomed delegates and guests. Mrs. Linsley of the Whittier church brought the report on education, and La Mar Coward, association president of the young people brought the report of their work. The Rev. Zamora of the Garden Grove Mexican church was ordained, and the Rev. McAlister, the Rev. A. Hall, of Bellflower and Miss Beulah Simpson, mission worker at La Habra, were introduced.

In the absence of A. J. Copasa of Rivera, the Rev. T. C. Jordan of the La Habra church brought the address of the morning, talking on "The Christ of the Ages." Short conferences were held at 11:30, under Mrs. C. A. Cuff, Placentia, in elementary work; Oliver DeWitt Cummings, Los Angeles, Young People's work; Mrs. Minnie Holmes, Santa Ana, Women's work, and Dr. Walter E. Woodbury, Los Angeles, men's work.

Judge Kenneth Morrison of Santa Ana talked at 2 p. m. on "Crime and Youth," and Mrs. J. P. Ranney of Huntington Beach brought special musical numbers. Miss Mildred Cummings and Dr. Walter E. Woodbury talked on missionary work.

The women gathered at the Methodist church for dinner, where members of the host church brought special music, and where 50 questions and answers were read. Mrs. Warren Brakeman, of Santa Ana, presided. Election is held in May among their group.

New officers were elected for the Men's Fellowship when they met at dinner in the Baptist church, with Albert H. Sitton acting as toastmaster and J. Milton Johnson, president of the Baptist men of Southern California, addressing them.

The church was filled for the evening session, where the Rev. Mr. McAlister, Anaheim Mexican church pastor, led the devotional service, and the balance of the evening was spent at study of the home missionary field. Mrs. M. Stoyer talked on the Mexican work; Keyoko Saiki and Frank Mezuoaku of Garden Grove talked on the work among the Japanese; the Rev. Mr. Carter of Los Angeles talked on the work among the Negro races while the Rev. E. R. Brown, head of the Northern Baptist conference, discussed the problem in general, calling attention to the need of workers in the home field.

CARRIER RACE FOR CHRISTMAS CASH GETS HOT

By reason of their progress during the second week of the hot battle to win a $50 purse, more than half of the carriers in both city and suburban divisions did better than double their votes during the second week and definitely announced themselves active candidates in the Register Carriers' "Cash for Christmas" contest, it was announced by R. M. Conklin, circulation manager. A check today revealed that 629,000 votes were earned by both groups during the last week.

A timely prize list of over $300 in cash prizes and commissions is to be distributed to carriers just before Christmas in the race. It is anticipated by those in charge that even speedier advances will be made from week to week as the possibility of winning one of the 18 group prizes becomes nearer realization.

The 18 prizes in each group are: first $50, second, $25, third, $15, fourth, $10. There are 6 prizes of $5, 4 of $3, and 4 of $2, each.

With an advance of 25,000 votes during the last week, J. D. Cobb takes the lead in the city division. Roy Potter still retains second place with a total of 24,000 votes. Robert Elzig retains third place but is tied by Lemoine Strickland both having 17,000 votes. Harold Heinly is fifth with 15,500 votes.

In the suburban division the lead is still held by Laverne Rees and Carl Davis of Orange with 18,000 and 16,000 votes respectively. Fred Brinkman, Costa Mesa carrier, is in third place with 14,000 votes while Charles Schmidt of Midway City holds fourth place with a total of 13,000 votes.

Standings of all contestants appear on page 9 of today's issue.

Honor Students To Attend Dinner

Members of the Santa Ana High school Honor society are planning to attend the Orange County Scholarship society dinner-meeting at Garden Grove, Thursday, November 23.

The society is meeting in two sections this year with southern county schools gathering at Huntington Beach, and schools of the northern part meeting at Garden Grove.

ISSUE RULING ON TUSTIN BUS CONTROVERSY

A decision that both complainant and defendant have been operating in violation of the law has been handed down by the state railroad commission, H. G. Mathewson, secretary, announced today in the complaint of Richard C. Winchell, certificated carrier of Santa Ana, against Mrs. W. A. Obarr, also of Santa Ana, and charged with operating an auto passenger service between Santa Ana and a Tustin cannery without a certificate of public convenience and necessity.

The decision declares that Winchell's certificate limits him to operations between Santa Ana and Tustin, and that he is without authority to extend his operations to the cannery in question.

As to Mrs. Obarr, who is an employee at the cannery and transports herself and four or five employees with her to work, the decision declares that these operations "border on a technical violation of the Public Utilities act governing passenger operations. It does not appear, however, that under circumstances of this character and on the complaint made, the defendant shouold be ordered to cease and desist. We feel rather that admonishment to her that the service she is rendering is perilously near a violation of law and should be discontinued before it unquestionably becomes a violation is proper. We also feel complainant should be admonished to cease going beyond the limits of his certificate until proper authority has been obtained."

Members Of Club Meet In Tustin

TUSTIN, Nov. 17.—Members of the Neighborhood club met Wednesday for their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Roy Runnels, on Bryan street. The afternoon hours were devoted to sewing and discussing holiday plans. Refreshments of apple pie, ice cream, coffee and iced tea were served at a prettily appointed table in the dining room.

Club members present, other than the hostess, were Mesdames E. A. Watson, Arthur Trickey, Hollis Lindsey, Frank H. Greenwood, F. C. Matthews, Earl Sharpless and Owen A. Murray.

WELLINGTON TO GIVE AWARDS AT COURT OF HONOR

M. B. Wellington, council member and one of the "old timers" in the county Boy Scout organization, will give the featured address and will present awards at the big county council Camporal and court of honor tomorrow and Sunday at Limestone canyon camp, it was announced today by Harrison E. White, executive.

Arrangements also have been made to hold a morning church service at 9 o'clock Sunday. The Rev. Albert E. Kelly, minister of the Santa Ana United Presbyterian church, will deliver the sermon, White announced.

To develop Scouting technique and compete against a standard in outdoor proficiency, the patrol camping project, the Camporal, will be staged. Practically every troop in Orange county will be represented with several hundred boys competing. The Camporal will start tomorrow at 10 a. m. and continue until 2 p. m. Sunday.

On Saturday afternoon each patrol must enter the field events.

This activity will be run in the form of a pow-wow, and the following events will be run: knot-tying relay, signaling, fire-by-friction, antelope race, dressing race, tent pitching, wood chopping, string burning, fireman's carry relay, skin the snake, stretcher race, flap-jack cooking.

Each patrol is expected to conduct a demonstration of some craft from 11 to 12 on Sunday such as construction of reflector ovens, tincan craft, rope making, leather work, camp cookery, bridge building, signal towers, clay ovens, camp kitchens.

LAW ENFORCEMENT HEADS WILL MEET

Law enforcement heads of Southern California cities will hold a meeting on November 28 in Glendale to discuss liquor law violations following the change in the prohibition laws taking effect early in December, it was learned today from City Attorney Clyde Downing.

The meeting was originally scheduled for today but Downing was notified yesterday that it had been postponed. Since all local regulations will be void after December 6, there is considerable confusion existing as to the jurisdiction of local police departments and the powers of city attorneys, Downing pointed out.

SCHOOLS TO HOLD MUSIC FESTIVAL

Plans for the annual Orange county high school music festival were started Wednesday night in Green Cat cafe at the Orange County Principal's association. The festival will be staged next May with Santa Ana high school as host.

The program will center around a combined orchestra of more than 200 pieces from all the high schools in the county. Other instrumental features are planned also as well as vocal music, both group and solo.

Agreement was also reached to recognize an annual music-day under the same arrangement as the already established athletic playdays.

SOME BEETS!

TOASTMASTERS FAVOR SOVIET RECOGNITION

That Russia should be recognized was the opinion expressed by members of El Camino Toastmasters club when the table topic offered by Max Hauschild was that subject. Most gave material advantages as their reason for favoring such action by the United States. Only one member was in direct opposition, though some expressed doubt or indecision.

Carlyle Dennis reported on the trip made by more than a dozen to the charter presentation of Huntington Beach chapter Wednesday. Nine signified their intention of accompanying Ernest Layton, president of the club, H. Erwin Whipple and Lewis Williams when this trio go as speakers to the Pasadena club soon.

The local club will receive its charter from Toastmasters International next Thursday. Speakers on that occasion will come from Pasadena and Smedley Chapter No. 1, with the new club having Guy Penn and Roy Coleman on the program. The charter presentation meeting is open to ladies and friends of members on invitation and reservation.

Those appearing on the program Thursday evening, with Ralph Smedley as toastmaster, were Don Rice on "A Treecherous Friend;" E. B. Weidler on "First Aid;" A. C. Honer on "Lumbering in the Adirondacks;" C. B. Whitney on "Telephone Exchange;" Carlyle Dennis on "Football; A. H. Allen on "The Future of the Citrus Industry." L. H. Williams gave the talk he will give as exchange speaker at Pasadena. Critics were W. P. Read, W. L. Jolivette, H. E. Whipple, Frank Lamar, Gilbert Brown, G. G. Lawrence, and Ernest S. Wooster.

COORDINATOR IN LICENSE BUREAU TO SPEAK HERE

Mano Zan, who has been acting for the past few months as NRA and CRA coordinator in the state contractor's license bureau, will discuss state and national codes of fair competition as the featured speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Orange County Builder's Exchange Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock in James' cafe, Santa Ana, it was announced today by Frederic W. Sanford, secretary.

Latest developments of state and national codes which affect various crafts and groups of the Builder's Exchange will be told by the speaker. The meeting, regularly scheduled for last Tuesday, was postponed because Zan could not be here at that time.

A report will be made by the nominating committee at the meeting, placing in nomination names of 14 members to act as directors for the ensuing fiscal year. Additional nominations will be received from the floor.

Other important business matters will be taken up at the meeting. Surprise features and entertainment has been provided for by the general contractors, who are in charge of the session this month.

OFFERS RIGHT ARM TO INJURED FRIEND

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Doctors at Highland hospital today were "very sorry" when they explained there was nothing they could do to accept Jack Brandon's offer to give one of his arms to replace the arm lost by his friend, Harry Weimars, in an automobile accident. Both men were residents of Klamath Falls, Ore.

Brandon wrote: "I am writing to ask you if it would be humanly possible to take another person's arm and give it to Harry so that he might have a right arm. We are about the same size. If it would be possible, I will give my arm."

Dr. Sumner Everingham, of the hospital staff, said that surgeons had not learned to graft the human arm.

TOASTMASTERS FAVOR SOVIET RECOGNITION

That Russia should be recognized was the opinion expressed by members of El Camino Toastmasters club when the table topic offered by Max Hauschild was that subject. Most gave material advantages as their reason for favoring such action by the United States. Only one member was in direct opposition, though some expressed doubt or indecision.

Carlyle Dennis reported on the trip made by more than a dozen to the charter presentation of Huntington Beach chapter Wednesday. Nine signified their intention of accompanying Ernest Layton, president of the club, H. Erwin Whipple and Lewis Williams when this trio go as speakers to the Pasadena club soon.

The local club will receive its charter from Toastmasters International next Thursday. Speakers on that occasion will come from Pasadena and Smedley Chapter No. 1, with the new club having Guy Penn and Roy Coleman on the program. The charter presentation meeting is open to ladies and friends of members on invitation and reservation.

Those appearing on the program Thursday evening, with Ralph Smedley as toastmaster, were Don Rice on "A Treccherous Friend;" E. B. Weidler on "First Aid;" A. C. Honer on "Lumbering in the Adirondacks;" C. B. Whitney on "Telephone Exchange;" Carlyle Dennis on "Football; A. H. Allen on "The Future of the Citrus Industry." L. H. Williams gave the talk he will give as exchange speaker at Pasadena. Critics were W. P. Read, W. L. Jolivette, H. E. Whipple, Frank Lamar, Gilbert Brown, G. G. Lawrence, and Ernest S. Wooster.

COORDINATOR IN LICENSE BUREAU TO SPEAK HERE

Mano Zan, who has been acting for the past few months as NRA and CRA coordinator in the state contractor's license bureau, will discuss state and national codes of fair competition as the featured speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the Orange County Builder's Exchange Tuesday night at 6:30 o'clock in James' cafe, Santa Ana, it was announced today by Frederic W. Sanford, secretary.

Latest developments of state and national codes which affect various crafts and groups of the Builder's Exchange will be told by the speaker. The meeting, regularly scheduled for last Tuesday, was postponed because Zan could not be here at that time.

A report will be made by the nominating committee at the meeting, placing in nomination names of 14 members to act as directors for the ensuing fiscal year. Additional nominations will be received from the floor.

Other important business matters will be taken up at the meeting. Surprise features and entertainment has been provided for by the general contractors, who are in charge of the session this month.

OFFERS RIGHT ARM TO INJURED FRIEND

OAKLAND, Cal., Nov. 17.—(UP)—Doctors at Highland hospital today were "very sorry" when they explained there was nothing they could do to accept Jack Brandon's offer to give one of his arms to replace the arm lost by his friend, Harry Weimars, in an automobile accident. Both men were residents of Klamath Falls, Ore.

Brandon wrote: "I am writing to ask you if it would be humanly possible to take another person's arm and give it to Harry so that he might have a right arm. We are about the same size. If it would be possible, I will give my arm."

Dr. Sumner Everingham, of the hospital staff, said that surgeons had not learned to graft the human arm.

Junior Ebell Section Hears Talk on Italy

Giving a delightful talk on Italy as a land of art and beauty, Mrs. Robert C. Northcross was speaker at the meeting of Junior Ebell Travel section held this week with Mrs. Ralph Livenspire, 1319 North Bristol street. Miss Frances Egge was co-hostess.

Mrs. Northcross discussed Italy's artists and artisans of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, centering much of her talk on Florence and its splendors as a city-republic of the Italian Renaissance. Men of letters, painters, sculptors, architects, all left a priceless heritage she explained. She also spoke of the great Pitti and Uffizi palaces and their present status as art galleries, and referred to Italy as a picturesque land haunted by ghosts of old romances which inspire many of the present works of art.

With Miss Nan Mead as section leader, the group furthered plans for a bridge party to be held December 9 in the S. H. Finley home under the auspices of the section.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

Those present were Mesdames Kenneth Coulson, E. M. Sundquist, Wendell Finley, James Walker, Gail Jordan and the Misses Mary Safley, Dorothy Forgy, Wilma Plavan, Louise Young, Lillian Dickson and the hostesses, Mrs. Livinspire and Miss Egge, with the guest speaker, Mrs. Northcross.

Plans Are Completed For Junior Ebell Harvest Ball

Weeks of planning and actual work on the part of Junior Ebell society members under the presidency of Miss Mary Safley and the general chairmanship of Mrs. Frederick C. Elliott, are now approaching a conclusion, and promise to result in a memorable evening of dancing tomorrow night when the annual Harvest ball will be given in Ebell clubhouse.

This formal has come to be anticipated as one of the most colorful and delightful events ushering in the winter holiday season. And tomorrow night's function bids fair to excel its predecessors in point of charm and interest.

Mrs. Elliott has her various committees functioning smoothly, and indications are that there will be an unusually large crowd to enjoy dancing to the melodious strains of Lindebaum's orchestra. This musical group achieved popularity as the orchestra of Breakers Hotel Cocoanut Grove in Long Beach.

Receiving guests with the Junior Ebell officers will be a little group of patrons and patronesses representing the parent organization, Ebell society of Santa Ana Valley. This group will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Emrys D. White, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tessmann. Mrs. Davis is president of society; Mrs. White was so successful in her organization of Junior Ebell and Girls' Ebell societies that she has been made district chairman of juniors, and both Mrs. Rowland and Mrs. Tessmann have been prominent in furthering all interests of the junior organization, and with Mrs. White, form the advisory board for Junior Ebell.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock. A number of dinner parties have been planned by various hostess groups to precede the ball. Guests will find the clubhouse converted into a scene of rich beauty, suggesting the largesse and color of the harvest season with its golden store of fruits and its deep hued flowers. Mrs. George Walker heads the decorating committee.

Arrangements have been made so that dancers who have not yet obtained their tickets may secure them at the door, and it is a pleasant fact to recall that the ballroom of the clubhouse accommodates an unusually large crowd.

Ebell Member Speaks On Convention Program

Represented on the convention program when southern district, California Federation of Women's clubs met this week in La Jolla, Ebell society of Santa Ana valley also was represented by three of its official delegates, Mrs. Charles V. Davis, president, Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Mrs. Emrys D. White.

Mrs. White, district chairman of juniors, was one of the speakers on the Wednesday morning session held in La Jolla Women's clubhouse. Her talk was on her work with junior organizations especially on the successful formation of the two Santa Ana groups, Junior Ebell and Girls' Ebell societies. She and Mrs. Rowland are members of the advisory board of Santa Ana Junior Ebell.

The three were guests at Casa de Manana during their stay in La Jolla, and returned last evening to their several homes here.

Santa Anans Attend Reception Honoring Edwin Markham

An interesting experience was shared Wednesday afternoon by Miss Beulah May and Mrs. Burr Shafer, when they were among the guests bidden to the Los Angeles home of Ruth La Prade and privileged there to meet Edwin Markham, the great American poet whose fame was established by "The Man With the Hoe."

While informality was the rule of the afternoon, Miss La Prade had planned a short program as introduction to the chief event, the planting of a group of trees in her famous "Garden of Friendship." The guest of honor planted two of these trees, a "Madonna tree" which he dedicated to all mothers, and the "Edwin Markham" tree. Others planted during the interesting ceremonial included one dedicated to Rupert Brooke.

A pretty touch was given by the children of the neighborhood who danced around the Edwin Markham tree, singing the poet's quatrain regarding the world drawing a circle to shut him out, when "Love drew a circle and drew him in." As a climax, the poet consented to give "The Man With a Hoe."

Miss May made several sketches of him during the afternoon, and plans to work up a portrait study that will exemplify his remarkable personality, his friendliness and simplicity that gives him a perennial youth that belies his 82 years.

You and Your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McCausland, of 1111 North Olive street, are leaving today for San Francisco, where they expect to make their future home. They have resided here for the past 14 years during which time Mr. McCausland was connected with the insurance business.

Announcements

Santa Ana chapter, Order of De Molay, of which Garth Olsen is master councilor, will entertain tonight at the second of its series of semi-monthly Friday night dances in the main ballroom of Masonic temple. Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock to music by Walt Carruthers and his sound equipment. Santa Ana chapter 241 F. and A. M. members and their wives will be honor guests and some 300 high school and junior college students are expected to be present.

Ebell Book Review section will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mrs. Oliver Halsell, Mrs. W. D. Kring and Mrs. Frank Henderson, entertaining in the Sprague home, 1920 Riverside drive. The program will include "Twenty Years A-Training" by Sullivan, reviewed by Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, and Nathan's "One More Spring," reviewed by Miss Beulah May. Section members unable to be present may telephone any one of the four hostesses.

Senior J. O. C. class of First Baptist Sunday School is planning a reunion of all former Philathea and J. O. C. class members, Sunday beginning with Sunday school. Church services will be followed by a dinner in the dining room.

The fifth of a series of six P.-T. A. publicity conferences will be held Monday at 2 p. m. in the home of the district chairman, Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, West Sycamore street, Orange.

A public barbecue for the benefit of St. Ann's Church is to be held Sunday at the Charles Borchard ranch at Fairview beginning at 12:30 p. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening. Entertainment will include music by a local orchestra.

Santa Ana Pyramid of Sciots has announced a public card party for next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in Modern Woodmen hall. Ora Jennings, toparch, is general chairman for the event, which is to raise funds for a Christmas party for all the children in Santa Ana, especially those from homes of needy. Everything for the Wednesday night affair from refreshments to prizes, has been donated, so that every cent of the proceeds will be spent in bringing holiday cheer to little children.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Miss Mildred Staples, 819 North Van Ness avenue.

McKinley P.-T. A. has arranged to hold a cooked food sale all day tomorrow, with a variety of home prepared dishes available at 412 West Fourth street.

Business and Professional Women's club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. John Tessmann, 309 East Seventeenth street. Mrs. Tessmann will review "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen.

Ebell Second Travel section will meet Monday for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon in the clubhouse, with Mrs. John Harrison, Mrs. C. F. Crose and Mrs. P. L. Tople as hostesses. At 2 o'clock the section leader, Mrs. Theo. A. Winbigler, will introduce Samuel W. Nau who will talk on the Philippine Islands. Section members unable to be present are to telephone Mrs. Harrison at 4436-J.

State D. A. R. Regent Pays Official Visit To Local Chapter

Changing their customary meeting date in order to coincide with plans of their state regent, Mrs. F. C. Gundrum of Sacramento, members of Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, to the number of half a hundred or more met Wednesday in the Y. W. clubrooms to express cordial welcome to Mrs. Gundrum, here on her official visit.

Luncheon served at mid-day stressed a friendly social note, and was made especially inviting by the many flowers used on the small tables drawn in friendly proximity to the guest table arranged for local officers and the honor guest, Mrs. Gundrum. A feature of the dessert course was a birthday cake honoring the anniversary of the president general, Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Holyoke, Mass., and of the founding of Constitution Hall in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Henry W. Guthrie, regent of Santa Ana chapter, introduced Mrs. Gundrum, whose address was the chief feature of the afternoon program. She took "Good Citizenship" as her theme, and gave a very inspiring talk.

In the business session special attention was called to the D.A.R. luncheon and council to be held next Tuesday at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, and at which Santa Ana chapter will be represented. The next meeting of the chapter will be December 2, when the annual donation to Angel Island will be due, also that to the American Indians, one of the chief objectives of this year.

High School Groups Join in Dinner Party

Joining Tuesday night in an enjoyable dinner party held at Reid's, members of the board of control and of the self government committee of Santa Ana high school held a successful affair.

Miss Roberta Tuthill of the board of control, planned details of the evening. Tables were decorated very simply, the tomato salads served being the chief source of color. Current school problems provided the chief subject of discussion, while social life of the two groups was suggested by the plans for a joint theater party to be held in the near future.

Present were the guests of honor, D. K. Hammond, principal, and Lynn Crawford, faculty advisor, accompanied by Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Crawford, the Misses Roberta Tuthill, Jean McAuley, Frances Was, Mary Wallace, Mary Lou McFarland, Ruth Warner, Messrs. Donald Lentz, Fred Weiner, Walt Hendrie, Bill Hawkins, Asa Hoffman jr., Lloyd Gibbs and Al Holderman.

Church Societies

M. E. Missionary

Mrs. George Warmer opened the meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of First M. E. church Wednesday afternoon in the social hall by singing "Grateful, O Lord, Am I" and "Jesus My Shepard." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. B. Snow.

For the business session Mrs. Laura Matthews presided. A reading circle course and a clipping bureau were established. Mrs. D. Z. Robinson then presented a program which included a candle lighting ceremony by Mrs. E. R. Carhart. Mrs. Laura Leonard led devotionals with "Light" as her subject. Personal experiences of her childhood in the south on her grandfather's plantation were related by Mrs. John Estes who concluded her talk by reading one of Paul Lawrence Dunbar's poems, "Little Brown Baby."

Standard Bearers

For their November meeting Standard Bearers of First M. E. church were privileged to stage a covered dish dinner this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Townsend, 440 South Sycamore street.

The merry dinner with its succession of home-prepared dishes was followed by a short business meeting conducted by Miss Jessie Faires, president.

Standard Bearers present were the Misses Jessie Faires, LaVeta Ruth Townsend, Evelyn Witt, Phyllis Beck, Marion Bradley, Barbara Tillotson, Joy Townsley, with Mr. and Mrs. George Townsend and Milton Townsend of the home, Mrs. W. D. Finn and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Matthews to complete the group.

Bible Class

A social hour followed the meeting of Upward and Onward Bible class held Tuesday evening in Orange Avenue Christian church. Prizes in contests arranged by Mrs. Charles Hoff were won by Mrs. C. F. Martin, Mrs. Frank Cannon and Clifford Bartholomew.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mesdames Hoff, Joe Grimshaw, William Willsey.

Those present were the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Martin and Messrs. and Mesdames Frank Cannon, J. B. Smith, Charles Hoff, Joe Grimshaw, L. A. Jocobs, J. J. Kelly, W. Department Officers Make Official Visits

Official visits of Mrs. Frankie Pence, department president, and of Mrs. Clara Mosher, department inspector, both of Los Angeles, occasioned the luncheon with which Sarah A. Rounds' tent, Daughters of Union Veterans preceded a business interval Tuesday afternoon in Knights of Pythias hall.

Mesdames Edith Moore, Luella Hill and Jessie Overton comprised the dining room committee. Headed by Mrs. Meta Caldwell as chairman, members of Sedgwick W. R. C. officiated in the kitchen, preparing a delicious dinner. Decorations were autumn leaves, flowers and baskets of colorful fruits.

Mrs. Rowena Grout, president, was in charge of the business meeting, during which Mrs. Mosher made inspection of ritualistic work. All officers were in their places. Mrs. Blanche Quiggle was initiated as a new member. Applications for membership were read from Mrs. Dora Morrow and Mrs. Marjorie E. Letto.

It was reported that 75 calls had been made; $45 expended for relief work; 47 bouquets distributed.

Plans were made for the joint covered-dish dinner which Sons and Daughters of Union Veterans are to have November 24 at 6:30 p. m. in Pythias hall.

College Clubs Discuss Various Activities

Press Club

That members of Junior college Press club would visit a Los Angeles newspaper plant the first of December was decided at Wednesday evening's meeting of the club in Bill Kistinger's home, 2014 North Broadway. A discussion followed concerning various aspects of newspaper work.

Cards and dancing were enjoyed during the latter part of the evening with the serving of refreshments to conclude the meeting. Members of the club present were George Farquhar, James Torrens, Francis Gilbert, Bill Kistinger, Miss Valerie Almond, Miss Philomene Maiden, Miss Ruth Woods, Tom Kistinger and Mr. and Mrs. John McCoy.

Beta Gamma

Adoption of a new constitution in consideration of the large number of students now attending Junior college was the result of Wednesday evening's meeting of Beta Gamma, jaysee honor society, in the home of Mrs. John Tessman, 309 Seventeenth stret.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tessmann to the Misses Betty Hawk, Jean Rockwell, Ruth Crowl, Ruth Jenkins, Ernestine Wakeham and Bill McDaniel.

Dr. Baxter Gives Talk At La Habra Church Gathering

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Dr. Bruce Baxter, dean of religion at the University of Southern California, was the speaker at the $5 banquet given Wednesday night by the La Habra Methodist church.

Dr. Baxter chose as his topic "The Man in the Crowd," bringing out the fact that too many people were just like the man in the crowd and had little or no individuality, especially in things pertaining to church and religion. He urged that people stand up for what they believe is right, that more action and less criticism was needed in the present day.

The Rev. George Warmer, of the Methodist church in Santa Ana, was toastmaster and introductions were made by the Rev. H. O. Simmons of the local church.

The musical program consisted of many numbers by the Swiss ensemble. B. C. Beech, choir director of the La Habra church, sang two solos, being accompanied by Mrs. Earl Clevenger at the piano and Miss Marcelina Arroues on the violin. Miss Arroues also favored with a violin solo.

DRIVE REPORTS GIVEN AT BREA LIONS LUNCH

BREA, Nov. 17.—Judge Charles C. Kinsler, program chairman, presented Howard Irwin, realtor of Fullerton, as the speaker for the Lions club luncheon yesterday. Irwin spoke of advertising and the need of communities renewing their faith in the future. G. R. Wells, Santa Ana, was a guest. President R. E. Barnes presided.

John Daugherty, representing the Lions club in the Boy Scout drive for annual funds, reported that the drive is going over well. Brea's quota has been placed at $210. Archie Raitt, reporting for the Y. M. C. A. of Northern Orange county, announced that Brea has gone over the top in raising its quota of $250. More than 100 Brea boys are enrolled in "Y" activities, he said.

Edward Ward, secretary of the reconstruction committee appointed last week by President Barnes, reported that the first meeting of the group had been held Monday night in the office of the Shaffer Tool works, with W. D. Shaffer had been named chairman.

The Brea club members will forego their Thanksgiving meeting and will make up by attending in a body the county council meeting at Costa Mesa Monday night.

Tea And Bazaar Held By Guild

BREA, Nov. 17.—Women of the Congregational church guild succeeded in adding considerably to their treasury Wednesday, when they sponsored a silver tea and bazaar in the afternoon and a chicken pie dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Mrs. W. W. Hay and Mrs. J. D. Neuls had charge of the tea, while the bazaar was managed by Mrs. George Gesme. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. G. C. Folckemer, who was assisted by Mrs. A. D. Yost, Mrs. Leland Gordon, Mrs. Henry Streed and Mrs. H. W. Hardy. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. L. A. Sayles, Mrs. W. D. Shaffer, Mrs. H. R. Williams, Mrs. J. H. Greist, Mrs Easton.

Junior Ebell Section Hears Talk on Italy

Giving a delightful talk on Italy as a land of art and beauty, Mrs. Robert C. Northcross was speaker at the meeting of Junior Ebell Travel section held this week with Mrs. Ralph Livenspire, 1319 North Bristol street. Miss Frances Egge was co-hostess.

Mrs. Northcross discussed Italy's artists and artisans of the twelfth and thirteenth centuries, centering much of her talk on Florence and its splendors as a city-republic of the Italian Renaissance. Men of letters, painters, sculptors, architects, all left a priceless heritage she explained. She also spoke of the great Pitti and Uffizi palaces and their present status as art galleries, and referred to Italy as a picturesque land haunted by ghosts of old romances which inspire many of the present works of art.

With Miss Nan Mead as section leader, the group furthered plans for a bridge party to be held December 9 in the S. H. Finley home under the auspices of the section.

Tea was served at the close of the meeting.

Those present were Mesdames Kenneth Coulson, E. M. Sundquist, Wendell Finley, James Walker, Gail Jordan and the Misses Mary Safley, Dorothy Forgy, Wilma Plavan, Louise Young, Lillian Dickson and the hostesses, Mrs. Livinspire and Miss Egge, with the guest speaker, Mrs. Northcross.

Plans Are Completed For Junior Ebell Harvest Ball

Weeks of planning and actual work on the part of Junior Ebell society members under the presidency of Miss Mary Safley and the general chairmanship of Mrs. Frederick C. Elliott, are now approaching a conclusion, and promise to result in a memorable evening of dancing tomorrow night when the annual Harvest ball will be given in Ebell clubhouse.

This formal has come to be anticipated as one of the most colorful and delightful events ushering in the winter holiday season. And tomorrow night's function bids fair to excel its predecessors in point of charm and interest.

Mrs. Elliott has her various committees functioning smoothly, and indications are that there will be an unusually large crowd to enjoy dancing to the melodious strains of Lindebaum's orchestra. This musical group achieved popularity as the orchestra of Breakers Hotel Cocoanut Grove in Long Beach.

Receiving guests with the Junior Ebell officers will be a little group of patrons and patronesses representing the parent organization, Ebell society of Santa Ana Valley. This group will include Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Emrys D. White, Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Rowland and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Tessmann. Mrs. Davis is president of society; Mrs. White was so successful in her organization of Junior Ebell and Girls' Ebell societies that she has been made district chairman of juniors, and both Mrs. Rowland and Mrs. Tessmann have been prominent in furthering all interests of the junior organization, and with Mrs. White, form the advisory board for Junior Ebell.

Dancing will begin at 9 o'clock. A number of dinner parties have been planned by various hostess groups to precede the ball. Guests will find the clubhouse converted into a scene of rich beauty, suggesting the largesse and color of the harvest season with its golden store of fruits and its deep hued flowers. Mrs. George Walker heads the decorating committee.

Arrangements have been made so that dancers who have not yet obtained their tickets may secure them at the door, and it is a pleasant fact to recall that the ballroom of the clubhouse accommodates an unusually large crowd.

Santa Anans Attend Reception Honoring Edwin Markham

An interesting experience was shared Wednesday afternoon by Miss Beulah May and Mrs. Burr Shafer, when they were among the guests bidden to the Los Angeles home of Ruth La Prade and privileged there to meet Edwin Markham, the great American poet whose fame was established by "The Man With the Hoe."

While informality was the rule of the afternoon, Miss La Prade had planned a short program as introduction to the chief event, the planting of a group of trees in her famous "Garden of Friendship." The guest of honor planted two of these trees, a "Madonna tree" which he dedicated to all mothers, and the "Edwin Markham" tree. Others planted during the interesting ceremonial included one dedicated to Rupert Brooke.

A pretty touch was given by the children of the neighborhood who danced around the Edwin Markham tree, singing the poet's quatrain regarding the world drawing a circle to shut him out, when "Love drew a circle and drew him in." As a climax, the poet consented to give "The Man With a Hoe."

Miss May made several sketches of him during the afternoon, and plans to work up a portrait study that will exemplify his remarkable personality, his friendliness and simplicity that gives him a perennial youth that belies his 82 years.

You and Your Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. McCausland, of 1111 North Olive street, are leaving today for San Francisco, where they expect to make their future home. They have resided here for the past 14 years during which time Mr. McCausland was connected with the insurance business.

Announcements

Santa Ana chapter, Order of De Molay, of which Garth Olsen is master councilor, will entertain tonight at the second of its series of semi-monthly Friday night dances in the main ballroom of Masonic temple. Dancing will begin at 8:30 o'clock to music by Walt Carruthers and his sound equipment. Santa Ana chapter 241 F. and A. M. members and their wives will be honor guests and some 300 high school and junior college students are expected to be present.

Ebell Book Review section will meet Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with Mrs. E. B. Sprague, Mrs. Oliver Halsell, Mrs. W. D. Kring and Mrs. Frank Henderson, entertaining in the Sprague home, 1920 Riverside drive. The program will include "Twenty Years A-Training" by Sullivan, reviewed by Mrs. T. E. Stephenson, and Nathan's "One More Spring," reviewed by Miss Beulah May. Section members unable to be present may telephone any one of the four hostesses.

Senior J. O. C. class of First Baptist Sunday School is planning a reunion of all former Philathea and J. O. C. class members, Sunday beginning with Sunday school. Church services will be followed by a dinner in the dining room.

The fifth of a series of six P.-T. A. publicity conferences will be held Monday at 2 p. m. in the home of the district chairman, Mrs. Oliver Wickersheim, West Sycamore street, Orange.

A public barbecue for the benefit of St. Ann's Church is to be held Sunday at the Charles Borchard ranch at Fairview beginning at 12:30 p. m. and continuing throughout the afternoon and evening. Entertainment will include music by a local orchestra.

Santa Ana Pyramid of Sciots has announced a public card party for next Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in Modern Woodmen hall. Ora Jennings, toparch, is general chairman for the event, which is to raise funds for a Christmas party for all the children in Santa Ana, especially those from homes of needy. Everything for the Wednesday night affair from refreshments to prizes, has been donated, so that every cent of the proceeds will be spent in bringing holiday cheer to little children.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Miss Mildred Staples, 819 North Van Ness avenue.

McKinley P.-T. A. has arranged to hold a cooked food sale all day tomorrow, with a variety of home prepared dishes available at 412 West Fourth street.

Business and Professional Women's club will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock with Mrs. John Tessmann, 309 East Seventeenth street. Mrs. Tessmann will review "Anthony Adverse" by Hervey Allen.

Ebell Second Travel section will meet Monday for a 12:30 o'clock luncheon in the clubhouse, with Mrs. John Harrison, Mrs. C. F. Crose and Mrs. P. L. Tople as hostesses. At 2 o'clock the section leader, Mrs. Theo. A. Winbigler, will introduce Samuel W. Nau who will talk on the Philippine Islands. Section members unable to be present are to telephone Mrs. Harrison at 4436-J.

State D. A. R. Regent Pays Official Visit To Local Chapter

Changing their customary meeting date in order to coincide with plans of their state regent, Mrs. F. C. Gundrum of Sacramento, members of Santa Ana chapter, Daughters of American Revolution, to the number of half a hundred or more met Wednesday in the Y. W. clubrooms to express cordial welcome to Mrs. Gundrum, here on her official visit.

Luncheon served at mid-day stressed a friendly social note, and was made especially inviting by the many flowers used on the small tables drawn in friendly proximity to the guest table arranged for local officers and the honor guest, Mrs. Gundrum. A feature of the dessert course was a birthday cake honoring the anniversary of the president general, Mrs. Russell William Magna, of Holyoke, Mass., and of the founding of Constitution Hall in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Henry W. Guthrie, regent of Santa Ana chapter, introduced Mrs. Gundrum, whose address was the chief feature of the afternoon program. She took "Good Citizenship" as her theme, and gave a very inspiring talk.

In the business session special attention was called to the D.A.R. luncheon and council to be held next Tuesday at the Ambassador, Los Angeles, and at which Santa Ana chapter will be represented. The next meeting of the chapter will be December 2, when the annual donation to Angel Island will be due, also that to the American Indians, one of the chief objectives of this year.

High School Groups Join in Dinner Party

Joining Tuesday night in an enjoyable dinner party held at Reid's, members of the board of control and of the self government committee of Santa Ana high school held a successful affair.

Miss Roberta Tuthill of the board of control, planned details of the evening. Tables were decorated very simply, the tomato salads served being the chief source of color. Current school problems provided the chief subject of discussion, while social life of the two groups was suggested by the plans for a joint theater party to be held in the near future.

Present were the guests of honor, D. K. Hammond, principal, and Lynn Crawford, faculty advisor, accompanied by Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. Crawford, the Misses Roberta Tuthill, Jean McAuley, Frances Was, Mary Wallace, Mary Lou McFarland, Ruth Warner, Messrs. Donald Lentz, Fred Weiner, Walt Hendrie, Bill Hawkins, Asa Hoffman jr., Lloyd Gibbs and Al Holderman.

Church Societies

M. E. Missionary

Mrs. George Warmer opened the meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of First M. E. church Wednesday afternoon in the social hall by singing "Grateful, O Lord, Am I" and "Jesus My Shepard." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. W. B. Snow.

For the business session Mrs. Laura Matthews presided. A reading circle course and a clipping bureau were established. Mrs. D. Z. Robinson then presented a program which included a candle lighting ceremony by Mrs. E. R. Carhart. Mrs. Laura Leonard led devotionals with "Light" as her subject. Personal experiences of her childhood in the south on her grandfather's plantation were related by Mrs. John Estes who concluded her talk by reading one of Paul Lawrence Dunbar's poems, "Little Brown Baby."

Standard Bearers

For their November meeting Standard Bearers of First M. E. church were privileged to stage a covered dish dinner this week in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Townsend, 440 South Sycamore street.

The merry dinner with its succession of home-prepared dishes was followed by a short business meeting conducted by Miss Jessie Faires, president.

Standard Bearers present were the Misses Jessie Faires, LaVeta Ruth Townsend, Evelyn Witt, Phyllis Beck, Marion Bradley, Barbara Tillotson, Joy Townsley, with Mr. and Mrs. George Townsend and Milton Townsend of the home, Mrs. W. D. Finn and Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Matthews to complete the group.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Tessmann to the Misses Betty Hawk, Jean Rockwell, Ruth Crowl, Ruth Jenkins, Ernestine Wakeham and Bill McDaniel.

Dr. Baxter Gives Talk At La Habra Church Gathering

LA HABRA, Nov. 17.—Dr. Bruce Baxter, dean of religion at the University of Southern California, was the speaker at the $5 banquet given Wednesday night by the La Habra Methodist church.

Dr. Baxter chose as his topic "The Man in the Crowd," bringing out the fact that too many people were just like the man in the crowd and had little or no individuality, especially in things pertaining to church and religion. He urged that people stand up for what they believe is right, that more action and less criticism was needed in the present day.

The Rev. George Warmer, of the Methodist church in Santa Ana, was toastmaster and introductions were made by the Rev. H. O. Simmons of the local church.

The musical program consisted of many numbers by the Swiss ensemble. B. C. Beech, choir director of the La Habra church, sang two solos, being accompanied by Mrs. Earl Clevenger at the piano and Miss Marcelina Arroues on the violin. Miss Arroues also favored with a violin solo.

DRIVE REPORTS GIVEN AT BREA LIONS LUNCH

BREA, Nov. 17.—Judge Charles C. Kinsler, program chairman, presented Howard Irwin, realtor of Fullerton, as the speaker for the Lions club luncheon yesterday. Irwin spoke of advertising and the need of communities renewing their faith in the future. G. R. Wells, Santa Ana, was a guest. President R. E. Barnes presided.

John Daugherty, representing the Lions club in the Boy Scout drive for annual funds, reported that the drive is going over well. Brea's quota has been placed at $210. Archie Raitt, reporting for the Y. M. C. A. of Northern Orange county, announced that Brea has gone over the top in raising its quota of $250. More than 100 Brea boys are enrolled in "Y" activities, he said.

Edward Ward, secretary of the reconstruction committee appointed last week by President Barnes, reported that the first meeting of the group had been held Monday night in the office of the Shaffer Tool works, with W. D. Shaffer had been named chairman.

The Brea club members will forego their Thanksgiving meeting and will make up by attending in a body the county council meeting at Costa Mesa Monday night.

Tea And Bazaar Held By Guild

BREA, Nov. 17.—Women of the Congregational church guild succeeded in adding considerably to their treasury Wednesday, when they sponsored a silver tea and bazaar in the afternoon and a chicken pie dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Mrs. W. W. Hay and Mrs. J. D. Neuls had charge of the tea, while the bazaar was managed by Mrs. George Gesme. The dinner was in charge of Mrs. G. C. Folckemer, who was assisted by Mrs. A. D. Yost, Mrs. Leland Gordon, Mrs. Henry Streed and Mrs. H. W. Hardy. Assisting in the dining room were Mrs. L. A. Sayles, Mrs. W. D. Shaffer, Mrs. H. R. Williams, Mrs. J. H. Greist, Mrs Easton.

Shower Held In Costa Mesa Home

COSTA MESA, Nov. 17. — Mrs. Bird Mellott was hostess to a party of friends of Mrs. Agnes Wright Churchman at a miscellaneous shower in the Mellott home on Tuesday. Mrs. Wright was recently married to Herbert B. Churchman. Mr. and Mrs. Churchman are living on Avocado street.

Those in attendance were Mrs. N. O. Mellott, Mrs. Bert Ellis, Mrs. Robert Bomboy, Mrs. Leroy Anderson, Mrs. Vernon Coyner, Mrs. H. L. Baird, Mrs. William Stearns, Mrs. Bulah Jones of Brea; Mrs. George Merrick, Mrs. Jess Steele, Mrs. Olive Kinley, Mrs. Charles Kesel, Mrs. Churchman, Mrs. L. J. Boling, of Santa Ana, and the hostess.

Native Daughters

After the new ritual of the Native Daughters of the Golden West had been explained Monday night by Mrs. Violet Henshilwood, district deputy, members of Santa Ana parlor exemplified the work under her supervision.

The meeting was held in Pythian hall with Mrs. W. A. West, presiding. An application for membership was received from Gladys Edwards. Announcement was made that the parlor's card club will meet November 21 with Mrs. Marguerite Dickinson, 519 South Birch street.

News of two recent marriages proved of special interest to the group. Mrs. Lynn B. Wallace, a member of the parlor, is the former Henrietta Smith, and Mrs. Claude Bolton will be remembered as Betty Pilch. She is the daughter of Mrs. Ina Cope, former treasurer of Santa Ana Native Daughters.

The group learned that Mrs. Margaret Divinney, a member of the parlor, is improving from a recent illness.

It was reported that Santa Ana parlor had entered two decorated cars in the Armistice day parade in Orange. In the car driven by Raymond Crum were Mrs. West, president, Mrs. Crum, past president, little Miss Lillian Smith and Mrs. Matilda Lemon. In the second car were Mrs. Naomi Shoenrock, Mrs. Myrtle Ellis, Mrs. Bailey and Billy Shoenrock.

The business interval was preceded by a program under the chairmanship of Mrs. Marion Crum. Girl Scout Troop No. 2 put on a play, "The Writing of the Girl Scout Laws" under the direction of Mrs. R. C. Harris. Frances Was, a member of the cast, represented Troop No. 1.

The evening was concluded with a social time during which refreshments were served at long tables brightened with red apples and sprays of cotoneaster. Other appointments were in green.

Attending the meeting with Mrs. Henshilwood was a delegation from Long Beach. Mrs. Mattie Edwards, a member of Grace parlor, who is deputy to Hollywood parlor, was present.

Royal Neighbors

Orange, Laguna Beach and Huntington Beach Royal Neighbors helped swell the crowd at Monday night's business session of Santa Ana camp in M. W. A. hall. Mrs. Charlotte Bacon, vice oracle, presided over the meeting and announced that the oracle, Mrs. Pearl Laub, remains seriously ill at her home.

Plans were made for the district meeting to be held in Orange November 22. Magnolia Circle will meet November 23 with Mrs. Flora Dolbee, 706 South Van Ness avenue. Mrs. Bacon also announced a public card party to follow the short lodge session of November 27.

Mr. Elva Crawford, a past oracle, conducted initiation for two new members, Warren Kimball of Garden Grove and Harold Talb of Santa Ana. Mrs. Clara Blackwell filled the past oracle's post during the rites. An "Ever Ready" degree staff for Orange county was organized with Mrs. Elva Crawford as captain. The staff is to be subject to call at any time from any county camp.

The remainder of the meeting was a social one with ice cream, cookies and coffee served in the dining hall.

New Tavern Tatlers Read Manuscripts

Miss Susanna Alexander welcomed members of the Junior College Tavern Tatlers Tuesday evening in her home at 1414½ North Main street for a social and business meeting.

Original stories read by new members were subjected to criticism, and this led to a discussion of favorite authors and modern literature, raising the question of what part of today's literature would endure.

It was decided that the club would publish an edition of Tavern Post the latter part of the present semester with December 15 set as the deadline for copy.

Refreshments were served by Miss Alexander to Thomas H. Glenn, advisor, Ray Archer, Gene Thompson, Edgar Ewing, Stewart Fletcher, Miss Pauline Flint, Blythe McCausland, Miss Lillian Piatt, Austin Joy, Miss Ruth Wood, Miss Dorothy Ensign, Mrs. Ruth McNeil, Miss Eleanor Walter, Maurice Gilmore and Miss Philomene Maiden.

Church Societies

Faholo Class

Mrs. Oral Richards hospitably opened her home at 721 South Birch street Monday evening for Members of the Faholo class of First Baptist church when Edna Ingham, Ruth Jones, Mary Lee Holman and Nellie Garnett joined with her in hostess duties. A Thanksgiving theme was carried out in decorative details and in the refreshment course served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Election of officers was held with the result that Mrs. Oa Swanke will serve as president; Mrs. Altha Johnson, vice president; Mrs. Gladys Brown, secretary and Miss Vera Coad, treasurer. Arrangements were begun for the Yule program which the class will present Christmas day with Mrs. Dorothy Dennis in charge.

Members attending were Irene Catland, Irene Cravath, Mildred Marchant, Elsie Junkermeier, Deena Raymond, Vera Coad, Ruth Sanford, Ruth Coad, Mrs. Will Atkinson, teacher, Oa Swanke, Ada Cave, Eleanor Newcomer, Gladys Brown, Leah Elliott, Cora Moore, Lenore Talley, Dorothy Dennis, Orpha Wade, Jill Holbrook, Viola Watkins, Mary Steffensen, Edna Ingham, Carmie Coffman, Gertrude Winchester, Ruby Toles, Eddie Standifer, Altha Johnson, Nellie Garnett, Ruth Jones, Mary Lee Holman and Oral Richards.

The heaviest rainfall in Los Angeles was in 1884, when more than 38 inches of rain fell.

Auxiliary Makes Plans For Christmas Party

When members of the Women's Auxiliary to Santa Ana Typographical Union met this week as guests in the home of Mrs. J. H. Patison, 1705 West Washington avenue, they devoted much of the evening to making plans for a Christmas party.

The affair is to be held Saturday evening, December 16. The social committee, with Mrs. V. C. Shidler as chairman, is furthering arrangements.

During the business meeting conducted by the president, Mrs. J. E. Swanger, Mrs. Norman Daschner was voted in as a new member. She is to be initiated at the next meeting, scheduled for December 11 at 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Shidler, 1129 South Garnsey street.

With the assistance of Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. Patison served refreshments at the close of the evening, using quantities of flowers in decorating.

Those present were Mesdames Warren Brakeman, W. H. Fields, Carl Fisher, William Lawrence, C. M. Marvin, Mabel Sherwood, V. C. Shidler, J. H. Smith, F. E. Stillwell, J. E. Swanger, J. W. Parkinson and the hostess, Mrs. Patison.

Eastern Star

Beginning the evening with a covered-dish dinner followed by chapter session and election of officers, Santa Ana chapter, O.E.S. met Monday night in Masonic temple.

Officers elected were Mrs. Lloyd Folger, worthy matron; Harvey Dimmitt, worthy patron; Mrs. Dimmitt, associate matron; T. S. Hunter, associate patron; Mrs. John Bruns, conductress; Mrs. Max Gowdy, associate conductress; Mrs. H. G. Lycan, secretary; Mrs. W. H. Wyckoff, treasurer.

The business interval was opened by Mrs. George Shipe and Ray Spaugh, worthy matron and patron. Presiding as substitute officers were Mrs. Walter Wright and W. J. Dean. Tellers appointed were Mrs. Shipe, Elmer Smith and Mrs. Elizabeth Jernigan.

Ten past patrons and eight past matrons were escorted east.

Mrs. Elon Roehm was chairman of the dinner which preceded the meeting. Her committee members were Mr. Roehm, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sylvester, Miss Elizabeth Roehm, Mrs. Lory Roehm, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Snyder, Mrs. Jane Morse.

DESIGNED FOR SIZES 36 TO 50

PATTERN 1570

By ANNE ADAMS

Again and again we hear the cry—"If only I were slender." If you will select your wardrobe with an eye to slimming lines, you'll be many steps nearer your desire. For winter keep to dark colors—you'll like today's frock in black, brown, the new blackberry or green in crinkly crepe, faille or satin. Its details have been planned to give perfect proportion to the larger figure— note the flattering revers, snug hip yoke and pointed skirt seaming, new sleeves with a bit of fullness—but not too much, and the deep V becoming touch of lace.

Pattern 1570 is available in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50. Size 36 takes 4¼ yards 39-inch fabric and ⅜ yard 18-inch lace. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE.

Woodrow Wilson

The necessity of becoming adapted to changing conditions, of learning to live socially, not individually, was discussed Tuesday afternoon by Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, at the meeting of Woodrow Wilson P.-T. A.

The program included songs by the Santa Ana High School Girls' Sextet, with Helen Holmes as accompanist, and a piano solo, "Polonaise in A Major" (Chopin) by Ray Baker.

Mrs. Newell Moore, City Council P.-T. A. membership chairman, reminded mothers of preschool children that a discussion class in pre-school problems is soon to start.

Reports were given by Mrs. H. I. Thornburgh, magazine chairman; Mrs. H. R. Hendrie, visiting chairman; Mrs. C. W. Eggleston, who told of the fourth district meeting held at Brea; Mrs. L. J. Nesbitt, membership, reporting a total of 83 members; Mrs. Warren McCarthy, safety chairman. Mrs. H. C. Drown, president, reported on the presidents' conference held recently in Anaheim, stating that Woodrow Wilson P.-T. A. had won a gold star in both memberships and magazines and headed the honor roll for planned programs.

Spurgeon

With "Child Character and Conduct" as his topic, Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of First Methodist church, was speaker Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of Spurgeon P.-T. A. He stressed the difference between character and conduct.

P.-T. A. Mothersingers sang "Trees" and "Nightfall in Granada" with Dodley Paige Harper, director, accompanying at the piano.

The association voted to be sponsor of a Boy Scout troop. Three fathers and five mothers are to work with the boys in accordance with a plan outlined by Harrison E. White, Boy Scout executive, at a recent meeting of Spurgeon P.-T. A. executive board.

Refreshments were dispensed from a table appointed in Thanksgiving colors.

Announcement was made that a party is being given November 23 at 2:30 p. m. in the school auditorium for all mothers of Spurgeon school. There will be cards, games and sewing, with prizes and refreshments. There will be no admission charge.

Lowell

Harrison White, Boy Scout executive, gave a talk on "Social Hygiene" Tuesday afternon at the meeting of Lowell P.-T. A. held in the school kindergarten room.

Mrs. George Ames, president, was in charge of the business meeting, after which fifth grade pupils gave a play, "The First Thanksgiving." The study circle was in the form of a question box led by the chairman, Mrs. Fred May.

Fifth grade mothers served refreshments.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Walling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Eve Bayless, pretty assistant to Earle Barnes, advertising manager of Bixby's department store, marries Dick Rader, a construction superintendent temporarily working in Lake City. Dick wants Eve to give up working but she refuses.

Arlene Smith, stenographer in the advertising office, fancies herself in love with George Bliss, but he is vamped by Mona Allen, trouble-making copy writer.

Eve receives a letter from Irene Prentiss, former schoolmate who is playing the stock market. Eve decides to do the same thing. Without Dick's knowledge she borrows money from her mother and with it buys stock.

Eve goes to a party given by Freda Carter, buyer at Bixby's. There she sees Theron Reece whom she met in New York. Reece takes her home when Dick fails to come for her. Eve dislikes him. Mona slyly plots with Reece, taking Eve to lunch at a restaurant where he joins them. Eve sees Dick there, lunching with a group of men. She hears that the stock she bought has dropped and hurries to the bank. She is told that the stock did drop but has gone up again.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXI

Eve ignored Mona Allen for the rest of that day. She was so annoyed by the other girl's trickery that she felt she could not trust herself to speak to Mona. Fortunately Eve had no work to discuss with her.

Mona entered Barnes' office the middle of the afternoon and did not reappear for almost an hour. Arlene, glancing up from her typewriter during Mona's absence, said. "I wonder what Lorelei's game is. She certainly makes occasions to be alone with his highness!"

Eve said, "Don't be foiish, Arlene."

Arlene answered flippantly, "Don't be so gullible, Eve! That girl is no saint."

Marya, from her corner by the window, merely loked up at them and smiled. What Marya thought, no one knew.

When Mona returned to her desk she did not glance at either of the other girls. Her features were without expression as she folded a few sheets of fresh copy paper, picked up a pencil and left the office.

"She's probably gone to see George Bliss on the pretense of asking what's new in the rug department," commented Arlene. "Well, I've got plenty of work to do myself and I must say I can do it a lot better when Mona is far, far away." Arlene began to type rapidly.

Eve was tempted to tell Dick about the luncheon with Theron Reece and explain how it had come about but she decided that to do so would be to attach importance to the incident. It did not occur to her to discuss her venture on the stock market with Dick. In that matter she wished to play a lone hand until she had achieved results.

Hence she encouraged him to talk about his work.

"I'll take you out to see the theater Sunday morning," he told her. "It's going to be ready for the public in two weeks. Just now the auditorium is being decorated and equipment installed. There will be quite a staff working Sunday because of the time limit for the opening."

On Sunday morning, as he had promised, Dick tucked Eve into the roadster and drove the short distance to the new building. The white brick and terra cotta structure loomed up 17 stories high. They entered the lobby where workmen were laying rich, heavy carpeting over thick padding. Here the walls were paneled in gold satin brocade and a gold chandelier with hundreds of intricately cut crystals lighted the scene.

They passed through the auditorium where the seats were being installed. The silver screen was already in place. Dick took Eve up in the dressing room elevator and she saw modern conveniences in almost luxurious form for the comfort of the actors and actresses. She was particularly impressed with the laundry and drying room and the nursery for the children of the stage-folk. Eve looked down at the stage from the fly-loft and became slightly dizzy.

"Now I'll show you the 'green room'," Dick told her as they stepped into the elevator again. They descended to a room opposite the wings, beautifully decorated in white and gold. In the center was a billiard table, and great, soft easy chairs were grouped about. "No matter what its color scheme may be this room is called the green room," Dick explained. "It is the actors' sitting room. Later on you will see it in use."

An organ had been installed and was being tested. Snatches of melodies filled the air. Dick glanced about and saw no one observing them. He gathered Eve close in the shadow of the wings, for a brief instant.

"The first kiss on the new stage," he murmured.

Eve was always to remember that Sunday. It gave her her first insight into the romance of building. Dick's employers, she knew, specialized in the construction of theaters but it was not until that morning that she appreciated the extreme skill required for this branch of work. The owners had spared no expense to create beauty as well as utility and the result was breath-taking in effect.

The day meant more than that to Eve. The uneasy feeling she had known for the past week seemed to slip away from her. Dick was all kindness and consideration and Eve was ashamed of the fact that she had doubted him, even for a moment. She resolved to make this up to him in the future. Dick's love was suddenly the most important things in the world for her and she wanted him to know it.

She curled up in a lounge chair that afternoon with a new book. She made it a point to bring home a book from the circulating library each week-end. After she finished reading the book Eve always entered its title and the name of its author in a tiny notebook she carried in her purse. She had begun this system when she was in high school and had followed it faithfully ever since.

Monday morning Eve returned to her work as though inspired. She thought of the actresses soon to come to Lake City for the opening of the theater and decided to make an especial bid for their patronage in the store advertising she wrote. Barnes commended her for her foresight.

That noon Eve accompanied Marya to a Scottish tearoom where a twinkling-eyed Highland lassie told their fortunes by reading the leaves in their teacups. Eve attached no significance to the prophecies made for her but Marya was apparently overjoyed because the seeress predicted she would soon be married. Eve smiled to herself. It would not take a fortune teller to predict marriage for a girl so sweet and lovely as Marya.

When the home edition of the evening newspaper was delivered to the office Eve turned to the financial pages. Strange, she thought, how light-hearted she had been but an hour before and now her world was plunged into gloom. Pure Soap, Inc., had gone down a point.

It wasc hard for her to concentrate on her work for the next hour. As soon as the stock edition was due she sent Charles down to the corner to purchase a copy for her. Her hopes returned as she noted that Pure Soap, Inc., had regained its loss and closed at the same figure it had been maintaining for a week.

The next day, however, there was much trading in Pure Soap, Inc., and it gained three points. Eve's hopes soared. She walked about the office as though entranced and then worked as one possessed with inspiration.

"Why the effervescence?" asked Arlene.

Eve merely smiled and did not answer.

Dick was glad to find her so cheerful that evening. He wondered at her joyousness but inasmuch as she had nothing in particular to relate he attributed the mood to good health and youthful spirits.

The next day Pure Soap, Inc., gained two points. It seemed to Eve that this was too good to be true.

Thursday the stock gained three more after a day of brisk trading. It fluctuated a bit then and closed Friday evactly 10 points above the price at which Eve had made her initial investment.

Ten points! Eve figured her gain. Oh, this was fun, she thought. At that rate she could make money—loads of it! No wonder there was so much excitement about the stock market. Sell? Indeed no, Eve told herself. Not when Pure Soap, Inc., was advancing at that rate. She would hold out until it had advanced five more points.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

For the LOVE of EVE by Lucy Welling

PANTRY SHELF

Chiffon Chocolate Pie

3 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces
½ cups cold milk
1 1/3 cups sugar
⅓ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten.
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater one minute, or until blended. Sift sugar, cornstarch, and salt together, and add a small amount of chocolate mixture, stirring until smooth. Return to double boiler, add butter, and stir constantly until thickened. Cook 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Pour a small amount over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler, and cook until thickened. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Cool. Pour into pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar, and beat until mixture thickens again. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) 20 minutes, or until slightly browned.

Chocolate Steamed Pudding

2 cups sifted Swans Down cake flour
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
3 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate melted
1½ cups milk

Sift flour once, measure, add soda, baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg and chocolate, beating until smooth. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat well after each addition. Turn into greased mold, and steam two hours. Serve hot with chocolate sauce. Serves 10.

Christmas Plum Pudding

½ cup apple, chopped
½ cup suet, chopped
½ cup molasses
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
¼ cup figs, chopped
½ cup raisins
½ cup currants
¼ cup citron, sliced
¼ cup candied cherries, quartered
1 tablespoon candied orange peel, chopped
¼ cup almonds, blanched and chopped
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine apple, suet, molasses, eggs and milk. Sift flour once, measure. Mix ½ cup flour with fruit and nuts. Combine remaining flour, baking powder, salt, soda and spices and sift again. Add to molasses mixture. Add fruit. Turn into well-greased molds, filling 2/3 full. Cover tightly. Steam three hours. Serve hot with hard sauce. Serves 12.

Apple Fritters

1 cup sifted flour
1 tsp. Calumet baking powder
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
Tart apples, pared and cut in eighths

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, and salt, and sift again. Combine egg and milk and add to flour. Dip apple sections in batter. Fry in deep fat (370 deg. F.) until brown. Remove from fat. Drain. Serve with Log Cabin syrup. Makes 12 fritters.

Apple Dumplings

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
2/3 cup milk
8 small apples, pared and cored
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
Dash of nutmeg
Dash of cinnamon
1 1/3 cups hot water

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening until mixture look like meal. Add milk, a small amount at a time. Roll dough 1/8 inch thick. Cut into circles large enough to enclose a small apple. Place apples on dough, fill cavities with mixture of sugar and cinnamon, and dot with butter. Bring dough up over apples, joining edges underneath. Place in pan, allowing space between dumplings.

Combine sugar, butter, nutmeg, cinnamon and water, and pour into pan with dumplings. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 minutes, then decrease heat slightly (400 deg. F.) and bake 20 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Makes eight dumplings.

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Luncheon

Salad Plate:
1 apple diced
4 stalks celery, diced
4 double walnut meats, cut fine
3 Tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
Lettuce heart for garnish
2 graham crackers without butter
Clear tea with lemon and saccharine
Calory total, 287.

I hope none of the Mixing Bowl readers ever discard a bit of waffle batter . . . there is no need to do so. In fact, waffle batter is one item which improves with age. Cover it, set in the refrigerator, when wanted again simply add a scant teaspoon of baking powder dissolved in a tablespoonful of hot water. Whip well and use.

By adding the dissolved baking powder and a little more flour the batter makes a fine fritter batter. For main dish serving cut squash in match lengths, or add canned corn, drop by small spoonfuls in hot fat. For dessert fritters add sliced bananas or sections of pineapple and serve with a hot sweet lemon sauce.

Perhaps you may want emergency muffins: add the baking powder, a little more flour, corn meal, or prepared bran breakfast cereal. Bake in a hot oven.

Doughnuts

1 cup sugar
2 Tbsps. fat
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup sweet milk
4 cups flour
4 tsps. baking powder
—Contributed recipe.

Cream fat and sugar, add eggs and beat two minutes. Sift spices, salt, baking powder and flour twice and work quickly into the sugar part, alternating flour and milk in mixing.

Turn onto a floured board, pat into shape and roll out (slightly more than half an inch in thickness). Cut and fry in fat, hot enough to brown a crust in 60 seconds. Drain on brown paper, roll in sugar when cool. Yield: five dozen, spicy light doughnuts.

The contributor says: "Too much mixing, handling, and rolling out will cause doughnuts to become tough."

In that event, unless your board is high enough to roll out the entire batch, just pinch off portions which can be handled with one rolling. But how about the scraps and the holes? Why not do this?

When the batch has been worked up take the scraps and pat together, roll out quite thin, cut with cooky cutter, put a spoonful of jelly on one, wet the edges of the other, press the two together and fry for Jelly Doughnuts. Grand food for breakfast!

GOVERNMENT RULING

ends confusion on bran products

TO PROTECT the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains. If less than 50% is actually bran, the percentage should be printed on the carton. If other parts of wheat are included, a qualifying phrase explaining this should be added.

Before this ruling, it was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes the "bulk" needed to promote normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

For most kinds of common constipation, two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are enough. In chronic cases, two tablespoonfuls with each meal. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables.

However, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN because it furnishes "bulk" in concentrated form for satisfactory results. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Other Kellogg Products with Bran

* Kellogg's Bran Flakes, with other parts of wheat, now contain more than 50% bran.

* Kellogg's PEP contains less than 50% bran and is now labeled "Toasted Wheat with Extra Bran Added."

PANTRY SHELF

Chiffon Chocolate Pie

3 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate cut in pieces
2½ cups cold milk
1 1/3 cups sugar
⅓ cup cornstarch
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten.
1 teaspoon vanilla
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
3 egg whites
6 tablespoons sugar

Add chocolate to milk and heat in double boiler. When chocolate is melted, beat with rotary egg beater one minute, or until blended. Sift sugar, cornstarch, and salt together, and add a small amount of chocolate mixture, stirring until smooth. Return to double boiler, add butter, and stir constantly until thickened. Cook 10 minutes longer, stirring occasionally. Pour a small amount over egg yolks, stirring vigorously. Return to double boiler, and cook until thickened. Remove from fire and add vanilla. Cool. Pour into pie shell. Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar, and beat until mixture thickens again. Pile lightly on filling. Bake in moderate oven (325 deg. F.) 20 minutes, or until slightly browned.

Chocolate Steamed Pudding

2 cups sifted Swans Down cake flour
½ teaspoon soda
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/3 cup butter or other shortening
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
3 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate melted
1½ cups milk

Sift flour once, measure, add soda, baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream butter, add sugar gradually, and cream together thoroughly. Add egg and chocolate, beating until smooth. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat well after each addition. Turn into greased mold, and steam two hours. Serve hot with chocolate sauce. Serves 10.

Christmas Plum Pudding

½ cup apple, chopped
½ cup suet, chopped
½ cup molasses
2 eggs, well beaten
½ cup milk
2 cups flour
¼ cup figs, chopped
½ cup raisins
½ cup currants
¼ cup citron, sliced
¼ cup candied cherries, quartered
1 tablespoon candied orange peel, chopped
¼ cup almonds, blanched and chopped
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon soda
½ teaspoon cinnamon
¼ teaspoon allspice
½ teaspoon nutmeg

Combine apple, suet, molasses, eggs and milk. Sift flour once, measure. Mix ½ cup flour with fruit and nuts. Combine remaining flour, baking powder, salt, soda and spices and sift again. Add to molasses mixture. Add fruit. Turn into well-greased molds, filling 2/3 full. Cover tightly. Steam three hours. Serve hot with hard sauce. Serves 12.

Apple Fritters

1 cup sifted flour
1 tsp. Calumet baking powder
3 tablespoons powdered sugar
1/4 teaspoon salt
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 cup milk
Tart apples, pared and cut in eighths

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, sugar, and salt, and sift again. Combine egg and milk and add to flour. Dip apple sections in batter. Fry in deep fat (370 deg. F.) until brown. Remove from fat. Drain. Serve with Log Cabin syrup. Makes 12 fritters.

Apple Dumplings

2 cups sifted flour
2 teaspoons Calumet baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup shortening
2/3 cup milk
8 small apples, pared and cored
1/2 cup sugar
1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons butter
3/4 cup sugar
1/2 cup butter
Dash of nutmeg
Dash of cinnamon
1 1/3 cups hot water

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening until mixture look like meal. Add milk, a small amount at a time. Roll dough 1/8 inch thick. Cut into circles large enough to enclose a small apple. Place apples on dough, fill cavities with mixture of sugar and cinnamon, and dot with butter. Bring dough up over apples, joining edges underneath. Place in pan, allowing space between dumplings.

Combine sugar, butter, nutmeg, cinnamon and water, and pour into pan with dumplings. Bake in hot oven (450 deg. F.) 10 minutes, then decrease heat slightly (400 deg. F.) and bake 20 minutes longer, or until apples are tender. Makes eight dumplings.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

EAT AND GROW SLIM
Luncheon

Salad Plate:
1 apple diced
4 stalks celery, diced
4 double walnut meats, cut fine
3 Tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise
Lettuce heart for garnish
2 graham crackers without butter
Clear tea with lemon and saccharine
Calory total, 287.

I hope none of the Mixing Bowl readers ever discard a bit of waffle batter . . . there is no need to do so. In fact, waffle batter is one item which improves with age. Cover it, set in the refrigerator, when wanted again simply add a scant teaspoon of baking powder dissolved in a tablespoonful of hot water. Whip well and use.

By adding the dissolved baking powder and a little more flour the batter makes a fine fritter batter. For main dish serving cut squash in match lengths, or add canned corn, drop by small spoonfuls in hot fat. For dessert fritters add sliced bananas or sections of pineapple and serve with a hot sweet lemon sauce.

Perhaps you may want emergency muffins: add the baking powder, a little more flour, corn meal, or prepared bran breakfast cereal. Bake in a hot oven.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Doughnuts

1 cup sugar
2 Tbsps. fat
2 eggs
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. nutmeg
1 cup sweet milk
4 cups flour
4 tsps. baking powder

—Contributed recipe.

Cream fat and sugar, add eggs and beat two minutes. Sift spices, salt, baking powder and flour twice and work quickly into the sugar part, alternating flour and milk in mixing.

Turn onto a floured board, pat into shape and roll out (slightly more than half an inch in thickness). Cut and fry in fat, hot enough to brown a crust in 60 seconds. Drain on brown paper, roll in sugar when cool. Yield: five dozen, spicy light doughnuts.

The contributor says: "Too much mixing, handling, and rolling out will cause doughnuts to become tough."

In that event, unless your board is high enough to roll out the entire batch, just pinch off portions which can be handled with one rolling. But how about the scraps and the holes? Why not do this?

When the batch has been worked up take the scraps and pat together, roll out quite thin, cut with cooky cutter, put a spoonful of jelly on one, wet the edges of the other, press the two together and fry for Jelly Doughnuts. Grand food for breakfast!

ANN MEREDITH.

ends confusion on bran products

TO PROTECT the buying public, the United States Food and Drug Administration has advised that every package of cereal labeled "Bran" state on the label exactly what it contains. If less than 50% is actually bran, the percentage should be printed on the carton. If other parts of wheat are included, a qualifying phrase explaining this should be added.

Before this ruling, it was not easy for the purchaser to distinguish between a cereal that was entirely bran, or all bran with flavoring, and another that was mostly wheat.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is labeled "ALL-BRAN Deliciously Flavored with Malt, Sugar and Salt," a statement which describes the product fairly and honestly.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN corrects most types of common constipation safely and pleasantly. It furnishes the "bulk" needed to promote normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is also rich in vitamin B and iron.

For most kinds of common constipation, two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are enough. In chronic cases, two tablespoonfuls with each meal. The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that in leafy vegetables.

However, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is not a "cure-all." Certain types of intestinal disorders should be treated only on a physician's advice.

When you buy a bran cereal, read the wording on the package. The facts are there! Get Kellogg's ALL-BRAN because it furnishes "bulk" in concentrated form for satisfactory results. At all grocers. In the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Other Kellogg Products with Bran

* Kellogg's Bran Flakes, with other parts of wheat, now contain more than 50% bran.

* Kellogg's PEP contains less than 50% bran and is now labeled "Toasted Wheat with Extra Bran Added."

MRS. HEN: "DEARIE, WILL YOU TELL ME WHY WE DON'T GET ANY CAKE ANY MORE? SHE USED TO THROW SOME OUT REAL OFTEN!"

MR. ROOSTER: "MY LOVE, DON'T YOU SEE THAT CAN OF CALUMET BAKING POWDER ON THE SHELF AND THAT CALUMET RECIPE BOOK? SHE DOESN'T HAVE TO THROW AWAY ANY CAKE NOW!"

You can always depend upon Calumet Baking Powder to give successful r... remarkable texture will be a revelation to you.

The first action takes place in the mixing bowl—but the second is held in reserve to act in the heat of the oven. It is the two actions, so well-balanced and sure, that make all Calumet baking rise to such beautiful, even lightness.

Ribbon Cake—(3 eggs)

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
⅔ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
⅛ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ tablespoons molasses
½ cup raisins, finely cut
½ cup figs, finely cut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Fill two greased 9-inch layer pans with two-thirds of mixture. To remaining mixture, add spices, molasses, and fruit, and pour into one greased 9-inch layer pan. Bake layers in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Arrange spice layer between light layers. Spread red currant jelly between layers and boiled frosting on top and sides of cake. (All measurements are level.)

The "velvety crumb" of Calumet cakes—the delicate fluffiness of Calumet biscuits and muffins—are the result of perfectly controlled Double-Action.

The first action takes place in the mixing bowl—but the second is held in reserve to act in the heat of the oven. It is the two actions, so well-balanced and sure, that make all Calumet baking rise to such beautiful, even lightness.

Notice the thrifty small proportion called for in Calumet recipes—usually only one level teaspoon to a cup of sifted flour, much less than with many baking powders. Thanks to Calumet's efficient Double-Action—a little goes a long way!

Ribbon Cake—(3 eggs)

3 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
3 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
⅔ cup butter or other shortening
1½ cups sugar
3 egg yolks, well beaten
1 cup milk
3 egg whites, stiffly beaten
¼ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon cloves
¼ teaspoon mace
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1½ tablespoons molasses
½ cup raisins, finely cut
½ cup figs, finely cut

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg yolks and beat well. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat after each addition until smooth. Fold in egg whites. Fill two greased 9-inch layer pans with two-thirds of mixture. To remaining mixture, add spices, molasses, and fruit, and pour into one greased 9-inch layer pan. Bake layers in moderate oven (375° F.) 25 minutes. Arrange spice layer between light layers. Spread red currant jelly between layers and boiled frosting on top and sides of cake. (All measurements are level.)

— THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF —

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, Nov. 17.—Several from Aloha Rebekah lodge attended a meeting in Brea this week. Mrs. Maude Michl, Mrs. J. H. Murdy and Miss Ella Murdy were present for the dinner, while Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mansperger, Mrs. India McDaniel and Mrs. Linda McDaniel and Mrs. Alice Hare were present for the lodge meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Hanline have arrived from Ventura; where Mr. Hanline has been with an oil company, to remain for a time at home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Baker, of Jacumba, have been spending a few days with their two daughters, Mrs. Vera Skinner and Mrs. May Finley, and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Larter entertained relatives this week, Mrs. Larter's brother, F. D. Keifhafer, and wife, of Newhall, and a granddaughter, Mrs. Wilma Frampton, of Artesia.

A wedding which occurred November 12 in San Bernardino united Saturino Bermudez, of Westminster, and Miss Ysaugrua Gusman, of San Bernardino. The groom is well known here. A reception was held at the Bermudez home. Following dinner a dance at the Martenez hall at the intersection of Garden Grove and Seventeenth boulevards was enjoyed. The new Mr. and Mrs. Bermudez plan on residing in Westminster.

The Rev. G. A. Rosenburg, uncle of Mrs. Fred Basse, has arrived to spend the winter in the Basse home. The Rev. Mr. Roseburg is a retired Presbyterian minister.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Knouse will spend the week-end at Maricopa in company with Mr. and Mrs. Harding and children, Junior and Elinore Harding, of Huntington Beach, both families visiting relatives and friends there.

Honey Maid Grahams are recommended for children

School days are keen-appetite days for active little bodies. And nothing "hits the spot" like good-tasting Honey Maid Grahams. They help provide energy for romping youngsters, elements and vitamins for bone and tissue building. They are crisp and crunchy, sweetened just enough with honey. You always get Honey Maids fresh because they are baked in our Pacific Coast bakeries, then wax-wrapped to seal in the freshness. Save money—get the larger green packages—the thrift size.

KREG NOTES

The amazing adventures of a girl who was forced to masquerade as a man, whom the world accepted as a man, will be acted by an all-star cast in a play tonight at 7:45 on KREG, titled "Switchboard Secrets." This true story, which almost develops into a tragedy, is topped off with an extremely amusing climax.

The second broadcast of "Dr. Reed's Rhythms" at 7 o'clock tonight will offer more popular melodies, latest hits of the day, as sung and played by the nation's leading artists.

"Have you had your Cal-Baden today?" That is the theme or substance of the nightly broadcasts of "Sparkling Melodies," 8:30 to 9 p. m. from KREG, announcing the newly discovered health drink, the popularity of which is increasing by leaps and bounds. Reasons why this remarkable mineral water is so effective in relieving stomach disorders, indigestion, lack of energy, the effects of wrong diet, skin disorders and many other ailments, will be given in brief announcements during tonight's broadcast.

"Gajeski's Music Album," presented each Friday at 7:30 p. m. from KREG, will offer Beethoven's "Seven Variations on a Theme by Mozart," as played by Felix Salmond, 'cellist, accompanied by Simeon Rumschisky at the piano. In this composition, the great pianist has made seven interpretations of the same theme, embellished by the variations, but always present. The presentation will be made in four parts.

Tomorrow morning at 11:46, Bonnie Mae Martin, concert pianist will play four compositions by Grieg. They will be "Papillon" (Butterfly), "Morning," from "Peer Gynt Suite;" "Nocturne," and "Elegie."

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Wheat reacted to a stronger dollar today, carrying other grains down it. Some selling in the wheat pit also was based on modification of the North Dakota embargo, which aroused fears of an increased wheat movement in the northwest. It was estimated there are about 60,000,000 bushels of spring and drum wheat in North Dakato, at the present time.

At the close wheat was 1⅜ to 2c lower, corn was off a cent and oats were ½ to ¾ cents lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP)—A 17-cent drop in the Pound Sterling and corresponding strength in the American dollar featured operations in the financial district today.

Stocks were secondary to the dollar gyrations. They gave a creditable performance in the early dealings when tickers were unable to keep pace. Then mining shares sold off, notably the gold issues as the world gold price automatically dropped with the pound, and the whole list turned irregular.

KREG NOTES

The amazing adventures of a girl who was forced to masquerade as a man, whom the world accepted as a man, will be acted by an all-star cast in a play tonight at 7:45 on KREG, titled "Switchboard Secrets." This true story, which almost develops into a tragedy, is topped off with an extremely amusing climax.

The second broadcast of "Dr. Reed's Rhythms" at 7 o'clock tonight will offer more popular melodies, latest hits of the day, as sung and played by the nation's leading artists.

"Have you had your Cal-Baden today?" That is the theme or substance of the nightly broadcasts of "Sparkling Melodies," 8:30 to 9 p. m. from KREG, announcing the newly discovered health drink, the popularity of which is increasing by leaps and bounds. Reasons why this remarkable mineral water is so effective in relieving stomach disorders, indigestion, lack of energy, the effects of wrong diet, skin disorders and many other ailments, will be given in brief announcements during tonight's broadcast.

"Gajeski's Music Album," presented each Friday at 7:30 p. m. from KREG, will offer Beethoven's "Seven Variations on a Theme by Mozart," as played by Felix Salmond, 'cellist, accompanied by Simeon Rumschisky at the piano. In this composition, the great pianist has made seven interpretations of the same theme, embellished by the variations, but always present. The presentation will be made in four parts.

Tomorrow morning at 11:45, Bonnie Mae Martin, concert pianist will play four compositions by Grieg. They will be "Papillon" (Butterfly), "Morning," from "Peer Gynt Suite;" "Nocturne," and "Elegie."

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—(UP)—Wheat reacted to a stronger dollar today, carrying other grains down it. Some selling in the wheat pit also was based on modification of the North Dakota embargo, which aroused fears of an increased wheat movement in the northwest. It was estimated there are about 60,000,000 bushels of spring and drum wheat in North Dakota, at the present time.

At the close wheat was 1⅜ to 2c lower, corn was off a cent and oats were ½ to ¾ cents lower.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—(UP)—A 17-cent drop in the Pound Sterling and corresponding strength in the American dollar featured operations in the financial district today.

Stocks were secondary to the dollar gyrations. They gave a creditable performance in the early dealings when tickers were unable to keep pace. Then mining shares sold off, notably the gold issues as the world gold price automatically dropped with the pound, and the whole list turned irregular.

THE NEBBS—A Comedy of Errors

By SOL HESS

GASP AT THESE VALUES!

Quality considered, our reduced prices are astounding. Evidence of the statement will be found below. Every car reduced—no junk. Strictly high class, 100 per cent serviced merchandise. And yet we reduce our prices in face of a general upward trend. How do we do it? Come in and we will explain to your satisfaction.

"RING UP THE CURTAIN"

The San Francisco Chronicle, a day or two ago, under the caption "Ring Up The Curtain!" made a few very apropos remarks concerning investigations. It said:

Representative Dickstein of New York is going to give the American people a substitute for the Soviet Peril game with which Hamilton Fish so long enthralled his audiences. With Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Litvinoff amiably discussing recognition we are learning that the Red Menace was just a sweetheart in disguise. The mention of Moscow no longer makes delightful chills chase each other up and down the American spine.

So Mr. Dickstein is launching a Nazi plot investigation. He can use the same scenery that Mr. Fish used. Nazis can peer from behind the same fire hydrants, lurk behind the same hedges that used to shelter the Fiends from the Kremlin who have turned out to be our best potential customers.

With such minor changes as substitution of the Hitler lip decoration for the bale of mattress stuffing that adorned the Soviet chin the Dickstein production can follow the same general lines of Mr. Fish's sure fire success. The same mechanical devices can set honest burghers to shivering by their firesides, make children scream and scare women into fits.

Mr. Dickstein's enterprise shows that he understands one of America's foibles. We are never so happy as when pretending to be afraid of some big, bad wolf.

We noted yesterday that Hamilton Fish, who is the outstanding sleuth for the discovery of the things that are going to destroy the Constitution and the government, told a friend of his in the State department that he was going to speak over the radio against Russian recognition. His friend said: "Yes, Hamilton, yes, I know, I turn on to Amos 'n Andy and so I can listen to you."

We have already begun to hear that the Nazi is doing some secret destructive work in New York. It probably will soon reach the Coast. We do not agree with the attitude that Mr. Hitler has assumed upon certain things, notably the Jews. But we don't believe that Mr. Hitler or any of his friends can or intend to try to do anything injurious to the United States government.

And while we are talking about Russia, it might be well for us to remember that Russia could hardly afford to favor the rest of the world going Communistic. She is in a position where she must get machinery and brains along engineering lines from other sections.

If the United States or England, for example, would do away with the profit system, it might so disturb international trade as to make it impossible for Russia to get what she needs for her development in exchange for that which she has to offer. Her very future depends upon this trade and upon the other countries being capitalistic to some degree. World revolution would leave Russia exactly where she is now. She is looking to an industrial era that she will not reach probably for 50 years.

While we are thinking in terms of the rights of Americans in Russia, Arthur Brisbane calls attention to the thought of the rights of the Russians in America. We want the freedom to worship whom and how we please. Brisbane calls attention to the fact that the Russians worship Lenin, so if they insist on their right to worship, it would be a singular spectacle they would present to our country.

THE DICTATOR BECOMES A TYRANT

Robert R. McCormick, head of the Chicago Tribune, spoke at the 165th anniversary banquet of the New York State Chamber of Commerce. He was attacking the NRA for its alleged curb on the press. Among other things he said:

The freedom of the press is the freedom of the American people. Circumstances have imposed upon the publishers of America the important duty and responsibility of preserving that freedom and handing it down to posterity. I believe they will prove worthy of it.

This is fine. And again, when he says:

Men who are given dictatorial powers invariably become tyrants, with a tyrannical conviction that they are Heaven-sent; that what they do is divinely inspired and that dissent is treason.

While we do not believe that the NRA jeopardizes the freedom of the press, we do know these are truths embodied in the statements of Mr. McCormick. There is the constant tendency of men and groups to imagine that they have practically all wisdom, and that anyone who thinks differently is wrong, and so they become tyrannical, as Mr. McCormick says, and desire to prohibit the expression by the one or ones who disagree with them.

By some strange hallucination they do believe they represent Heaven itself, and the country, and the Constitution, and those who disagree are, as Mr. McCormick says, in their mind, "guilty of treason." It is not surprising that most people who take this view are themselves ignorant and frequently with only the most rudimentary education. The man who is "cocksure" that his way is the only way, usually reaches this conclusion because he has not made a complete survey of all the territory, and found the other possible "ways." When he has done this, he is frequently uncertain as to which way is the wisest one, if any, that has yet been discovered.

The oracular certainty of the soap-box orator is in marked contrast to the thorough exposition of all the possibilities, with their assets and liabilities, which come from the professor in the university, who is making a specialty of that very subject. Both of them should have a right to the floor or to speak where either may choose. The hearers are the judges of the two expositions. And we really, through those whom we hear and go to hear of our own volition, "tag" ourselves as to whether we want information and knowledge or simply prejudice and "hot air."

ANOTHER KIDNAPING STIRS NATION

Another sad case of kidnaping has stirred the hearts of the people,—in this case a young man from San Jose. And the heartless and brutal kidnapers destroyed his life even before they telephoned his family demanding ransom.

There are few crimes, if any, in the whole category, that are more damnable than that of stealing a loved one of a family and holding him for ransom, even if he is later returned to them. The tragic fear and horror of the unknown in the minds of the members of the family, and particularly if they are parents, is the most severe, probably through which the human mind can pass.

The uncertainties are even harder to bear than the knowledge of the tragic which is afterward learned. We have known of a number of cases where the simple uncertainties have driven the mothers to invalidism.

We are glad that the Federal authorities have taken charge of these cases and have assumed jurisdiction on the ground of the use of the United States mails. The apprehension and the immediate conviction of the kidnapers and certain punishment will go far to deter others who have their minds on the same course.

It almost causes one to excuse lynch law, which our reason tells us never helps, but always injures and aggravates the very condition which has aroused the actors. No, let us insist that the law shall take its course. In kidnaping cases at least there is little if any maudlin sympathy for the guilty to deflect punishment.

Hitch-hiking has kept finger-waving popular among young men, too.

RAILWAY FARES ARE COMING DOWN

The 3.6 cent rate per mile on the railroads of the country was too high. The Pullman surtax added to that discouraged railroad travel. The private automobile and bus took away a great part of the railroad business until the situation became financially embarrassing to the railroad companies.

Now the southeastern lines are to experiment with lower fares for a fixed period. The western roads have also entered upon an agreement to make reductions. In general, the rate for day coach travel will be two cents a mile, with some of the roads making it one and a half cents, while the Pullman rate will be reduced to three cents with the surcharge abolished.

These rates have been fixed for a definite period, in most cases for a six months period. Whether the people can be induced to go back to railroad travel remains to be seen. If they cannot, it will be up to the railroads to find some other way out from the mounting deficits.

Thus far the eastern lines, including New England, have held to the higher rates. How long they will be able to hold these up is for them a very serious question. Due to overcapitalization as well as decreased travel, the railroads are up against it. In these days of depression when the traveling man has all but disappeared from the road, and the people in general are too poor to travel, what are the "poor railroads" to do?

White Rabbit—Welsh Rabbit?

Christian Science Monitor

The erection of a statue of the White Rabbit in the Welsh seaside resort of Llandudno in honor of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" has begun a good-humored discussion as to what town in the British Isles has the best claim to have inspired that delectable story.

It is recognized that it is right and proper for Llandudno to perpetuate the memory of the White Rabbit; but there is a widespread feeling (especially strong in Warrington in Lancashire) that if the memorial is intended to indicate any close connection between Llandudno and Carroll, then there must be a mistake somewhere.

Warrington feels that its own claims are at least as good as Llandudno's. Lewis Carroll spent a few holidays in Llandudno with the Liddells, the little girls for whom he wrote the story. But Daresbury, near Warrington, was actually his birthplace, and the neighboring Hill Warren, "haunt of birds and small beasts, innumerable rabbits and an occasional fox," is thought to form an admirable setting for Alice's adventures. But a stronger claimant than either appears to be Oxford and the surrounding district, for on July 4, 1862, Lewis Carroll and the three Liddells "made an expedition up the river to Godstow," and it was on this occasion that he began the story of Alice.

However, the current discussion is being carried on in a much profounder manner than the mere recital of facts and dates indicates. It is pointed out, as an argument against Llandudno, that the White Rabbit was certainly not a Welsh rabbit, while the Cheshire Cat undoubtedly had Cheshire ancestors, though this consideration does not seem to advance the cause of Warrington very far. But even on this purely literary plane Oxford can look all its rivals in the face. The dormouse was incontestably an Oxford man. He could not keep awake even at the Mad Hatter's afternoon party. Does not this point him out unmistakably as an inhabitant of that "fair city" where, according to Matthew Arnold, even the spires are "dreaming"?

Dead Letters

Oakland Tribune

The postoffice has decided it has been spending too much money on dead letters. Figured out is a way to save a hundred thousand dollars a year by declaring the missives dead a little earlier than heretofore.

Such letters have been sent to Washington or one of the branch dead letter offices and the process has required at least seven days. The new plan will return them to senders or destroy them within 48 hours and the 966 first-class postoffices of the country will become branch offices for the work.

Of course the public could help the Government save more money if it took a little more pains with the missives it sends. Dead letters are those which fail to reach their destinations because of incorrect or illegible addresses, insufficient postage, or violation of some postal regulation. A simple expedient to be recommended is the writing of return address on the envelope.

All Quiet Along the Potomac?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE STORY

Time was when every passing May—
The green new leaves, the blossoms swelling,
The brooks that chattered on their way—
Brought one a story worth the telling.
And when the calm, unruffled sun
Behind the hilltop had descended,
Another tale was told and done,
Another story had been ended.

Then lo! a bright new day was here,
To bring its tale of joy or sorrow,
A day that brought a glow of cheer
And promised us a glad tomorrow,
And when its last beams shone like gold
Upon the fields of blooming clover
Another story had been told,
Another fleeting day was over.

Dreams pass unnoticed as they fly;
Youth, busy with some new endeavor,
Observes them as they hasten by
And hopes that they will last forever.
But age, more sad, more worldly wise,
Looks on the sunset's gleaming glory,
And reads, far written in the skies,
The ending of a futile story.

And, though he like the tale or no,
Man must through all the coming ages—
Though they bring joy or care or woe—
With eager fingers turn the pages.
Whatever be our doubts or fears,
Whatever shadows may enfold us,
Why vex ourselves with futile fears?
No other story shall be told us.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Why not boil it all down to one law authorizing each of us to charge all of us twice what a thing is worth?

Maybe it isn't a dictatorship, but about the only thing you can keep secret from the government is your appendix scar.

The law failed to make people good, but they may cooperate a little harder when it tries to make them rich.

You can't get a big circulation, but you can always make money with a magazine that says: "Darn the smelly common people that aren't like our readers."

TIMES ARE PICKING UP WHEN YOU DON'T CARE IF THE GROCER SEES YOU PAYING FOR GAS.

Still, the world will profit by all this if it learns that you can't get rich by killing good customers.

AMERICANISM: Wondering how to keep the youngsters sinless; supporting movies and magazines that portray unchastity as part of life's nice clean fun.

But when counting the unemployed you mustn't forget the three million who would feel abused if they weren't.

Another state that favors repeal more and more is the state of matrimony.

Ford officials say the law won't permit this and that. And a member of the Federal Trade Commission said the President couldn't fire him.

BETTER LET YOUR WIFE DRIVE. SHE MAY SCARE YOU AT TIMES, BUT SHE'LL SAVE YOU MONEY IN A PINCH.

These stratosphere trips are news, but the thing that interests us is not how high man can get but how far he is going to fall.

N. R. A. can't expect a fever of patriotism if it doesn't dress its workers in uniforms to thrill the gals.

The chief fault with China is that she'd rather save her face than the place where the boot lands.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "SHE'S ENGAGED TO THE STAR QUARTERBACK," SAID THE GOSSIP. "AND SHE NEVER TELLS A SOUL."

THAWTS ON LIFE

Most men with no hair look part missing,
Though some feel distinguished, no doubt,
Some day I myself may see my own scalp,
Though it's a privelege I'd rather do without.

Lock your worries in a cage.
Time will cure whatever ales you

The nicest way of waking up
And starting the day with cheer
Is to have a little doggie
Lick the end of your ear.

You haff to be brite to write a whole book,
Even if it's half full of bumness,
But just to write "punk" on strange margins
It a sure sine of ignorant dumness.

O look before you leep and think before you act
If you want to make life smoother and not ruffer,
For when you've once pored too much salt on your egg
There's nothing to do but suffer

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 17, 1919

Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted composer, made his first appearance on a concert program in Santa Ana, giving a program in company with Princess Tsianina at the Congregational church as a feature of the Santa Ana Music Association concert course.

H. T. Dunning was elected president of the Huntington Beach public library, with John W. Eader, secretary, and A. M. O'Brien and Mrs. S. A. Moore as board members.

Material had arrived for the wholesale fish market to be built on property owned by the Newport Syndicate fronting the channel. Contractor A. Luke of Orange, who had just completed remodeling the Newport Harbor Yacht clubhouse, was to do the building.

The Southern Counties Gas company was rushing to completion a new three inch main to serve Seal Beach, where increased consumption of gas made the new main necessary.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

AGRICULTURE AND GOVERNMENT

The touchstone of soundness for any recovery policy is its success or failure in actually increasing the total purchasing power of the consumers of the nation.

For all the difficulties and perplexities involved in its application, the national drive for higher wages and shorter hours will, in my judgment, ultimately prove a sound procedure for increasing popular purchasing power.

The same cannot, I think, be said for the policies of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

I am quite willing to run the risks of prophecy in this kaleidoscopic time that makes prophecy a death defying venture. I confidentially predict that the undeviating and wholesale application of the policies of the Agricultural Adjustment Act will reduce rather than increase the total purchasing power of the consumers of the nation.

The rise in the cost of living will, as a result of the inevitable increase in the cost of consumer goods, more than offset the increase in the amount the farmer will get for his products.

The consumers generally will have to foot the bill for everything the government hands over to the farmer in return for his limitation of production. Prices generally will rise both because of the processing taxes and the relative scarcity resulting from reduced production. And the farmer will not straightway spend the money he gets from the government for consumer goods. He will not even spend all his increased income from higher farm prices for consumer goods. There is a long pull ahead during which a good share of the farmer's increased income will go to satisfy interest and principal of farm debts. And the creditor class as a whole will not spend all the money the farmers pay it for consumer goods.

The actual purchasing power of the nation's consumers will inevitably be decreased rather than increased by the Agricultural Adjustment Act policies.

If, as it now seems, we are doomed to go in for a policy of relative isolation from the currents of world trade, we shall have to effect a reduction of farm output. But the only ultimately valid way to effect such reduction is not by scaling down all farms, efficient and inefficient alike, but by a bold national land utilization program that will take wholly out of cultivation, and turn to their proper use, millions of acres now in cultivation.

NAGGING

We hear a good deal about the sin of nagging children, and it is a sin we should guard ourselves against committing. But how about children nagging their mothers and teachers into distraction? That happens too, and it is no less a sin against humanity than is the other.

"Ma. Ma. Ma."

The monosyllable was repeated at rhythmic intervals without change of tone for about a dozen times.

"What is it, Peter? I've asked you what you wanted now three times. I'm not going to ask again. Either you tell me what you want or stop calling me like that."

Peter looked with round and unexpressive eyes at his mother standing there in the doorway. He liked to look at his mother. He nodded approvingly but said nothing and made as though to return to his play with the blocks and his bear. But no sooner had his mother seated herself at her work than he began his "Ma, Ma, Ma."

At the third repetition his mother folded her work, took off her slipper and went to Peter who was still comfortably seated on his rug with his toys. She picked him up, gave him three smart smacks with the slipper, sat him down again and without a word returned to her work.

For a moment Peter held his breath and then let it go in a howl of pain and anger. Mostly anger. He hollered with all his might but his mother never lifted her head. She set the stitches in his rompers steadily, swiftly, and he howled frantically to catch her attention. By and by he decided that he was only tiring himself and getting nothing out of it and being an intelligent child curled himself up on the rug and went to sleep.

"Something had to be done. Either he stopped or I lost my wits. I'd rather give him a spanking than have him give me a headache."

That's what nagging children drive their mothers and teachers into doing in self defense. I can readily understand it but it doesn't help us very much. What the nagging child needs is occupation in association with other children of the same age. And they have to be promptly silenced, sent off by themselves when they begin their ruthless attack.

Older children can nag too. They find ways to annoy the teachers and those who rule over them at home and abroad. There is the one who scratches his finger nail across a sheet of paper to make the teacher squirm. There is the one who whistles between his teeth, one who smiles with uplifted eyebrows at any direction given him, one who drops things at inconvenient times, one who asks an endless stream of pointless questions. These are nagging children and they know they are annoying people. What can one do?

Laugh them out of countenance. Show them that you see their childishness and that you laugh at it. It is impossible to nag a person who laughs at you.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

With such minor changes as substitution of the Hitler lip decoration for the bale of mattress stuffing that adorned the Soviet chin the Dickstein production can follow the same general lines of Mr. Fish's sure fire success. The same mechanical devices can set honest burghers to shivering by their firesides, make children scream and scare women into fits.

Mr. Dickstein's enterprise shows that he understands one of America's foibles. We are never so happy as when pretending to be afraid of some big, bad wolf.

We noted yesterday that Hamilton Fish, who is the outstanding sleuth for the discovery of the things that are going to destroy the Constitution and the government, told a friend of his in the State department that he was going to speak over the radio against Russian recognition. His friend said: "Yes, Hamilton, yes, I know, I turn on to Amos 'n Andy and so I can listen to you."

We have already begun to hear that the Nazi is doing some secret destructive work in New York. It probably will soon reach the Coast. We do not agree with the attitude that Mr. Hitler has assumed upon certain things, notably the Jews. But we don't believe that Mr. Hitler or any of his friends can or intend to try to do anything injurious to the United States government.

And while we are talking about Russia, it might be well for us to remember that Russia could hardly afford to favor the rest of the world going Communistic. She is in a position where she must get machinery and brains along engineering lines from other sections.

If the United States or England, for example, would do away with the profit system, it might so disturb international trade as to make it impossible for Russia to get what she needs for her development in exchange for that which she has to offer. Her very future depends upon this trade and upon the other countries being capitalistic to some degree. World revolution would leave Russia exactly where she is now. She is looking to an industrial era that she will not reach probably for 50 years.

While we are thinking in terms of the rights of Americans in Russia, Arthur Brisbane calls attention to the thought of the rights of the Russians in America. We want the freedom to worship whom and how we please. Brisbane calls attention to the fact that the Russians worship Lenin, so if they insist on their right to worship, it would be a singular spectacle they would present to our country.

THE DICTATOR BECOMES A TYRANT

Robert R. McCormick, head of the Chicago Tribune, spoke at the 165th anniversary banquet of the New York State Chamber of Commerce. He was attacking the NRA for its alleged curb on the press. Among other things he said:

The freedom of the press is the freedom of the American people. Circumstances have imposed upon the publishers of America the important duty and responsibility of preserving that freedom and handing it down to posterity. I believe they will prove worthy of it.

This is fine. And again, when he says:

Men who are given dictatorial powers invariably become tyrants, with a tyrannical conviction that they are Heaven-sent; that what they do is divinely inspired and that dissent is treason.

While we do not believe that the NRA jeopardizes the freedom of the press, we do know these are truths embodied in the statements of Mr. McCormick. There is the constant tendency of men and groups to imagine that they have practically all wisdom, and that anyone who thinks differently is wrong, and so they become tyrannical, as Mr. McCormick says, and desire to prohibit the expression by the one or ones who disagree with them.

By some strange hallucination they do believe they represent Heaven itself, and the country, and the Constitution, and those who disagree are, as Mr. McCormick says, in their mind, "guilty of treason." It is not surprising that most people who take this view are themselves ignorant and frequently with only the most rudimentary education. The man who is "cocksure" that his way is the only way, usually reaches this conclusion because he has not made a complete survey of all the territory, and found the other possible "ways." When he has done this, he is frequently uncertain as to which way is the wisest one, if any, that has yet been discovered.

The oracular certainty of the soap-box orator is in marked contrast to the thorough exposition of all the possibilities, with their assets and liabilities, which come from the professor in the university, who is making a specialty of that very subject. Both of them should have a right to the floor or to speak where either may choose. The hearers are the judges of the two expositions. And we really, through those whom we hear and go to hear of our own volition, "tag" ourselves as to whether we want information and knowledge or simply prejudice and "hot air."

ANOTHER KIDNAPING STIRS NATION

Another sad case of kidnaping has stirred the hearts of the people,—in this case a young man from San Jose. And the heartless and brutal kidnapers destroyed his life even before they telephoned his family demanding ransom.

There are few crimes, if any, in the whole category, that are more damnable than that of stealing a loved one of a family and holding him for ransom, even if he is later returned to them. The tragic fear and horror of the unknown in the minds of the members of the family, and particularly if they are parents, is the most severe, probably through which the human mind can pass.

The uncertainties are even harder to bear than the knowledge of the tragic which is afterward learned. We have known of a number of cases where the simple uncertainties have driven the mothers to invalidism.

We are glad that the Federal authorities have taken charge of these cases and have assumed jurisdiction on the ground of the use of the United States mails. The apprehension and the immediate conviction of the kidnapers and certain punishment will go far to deter others who have their minds on the same course.

It almost causes one to excuse lynch law, which our reason tells us never helps, but always injures and aggravates the very condition which has aroused the actors. No, let us insist that the law shall take its course. In kidnaping cases at least there is little if any maudlin sympathy for the guilty to deflect punishment.

Hitch-hiking has kept finger-waving popular among young men, too.

RAILWAY FARES ARE COMING DOWN

The 3.6 cent rate per mile on the railroads of the country was too high. The Pullman surtax added to that discouraged railroad travel. The private automobile and bus took away a great part of the railroad business until the situation became financially embarrassing to the railroad companies.

Now the southeastern lines are to experiment with lower fares for a fixed period. The western roads have also entered upon an agreement to make reductions. In general, the rate for day coach travel will be two cents a mile, with some of the roads making it one and a half cents, while the Pullman rate will be reduced to three cents with the surcharge abolished.

These rates have been fixed for a definite period, in most cases for a six months period. Whether the people can be induced to go back to railroad travel remains to be seen. If they cannot, it will be up to the railroads to find some other way out from the mounting deficits.

Thus far the eastern lines, including New England, have held to the higher rates. How long they will be able to hold these up is for them a very serious question. Due to overcapitalization as well as decreased travel, the railroads are up against it. In these days of depression when the traveling man has all but disappeared from the road, and the people in general are too poor to travel, what are the "poor railroads" to do?

White Rabbit—Welsh Rabbit?

Christian Science Monitor

The erection of a statue of the White Rabbit in the Welsh seaside resort of Llandudno in honor of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland" has begun a good-humored discussion as to what town in the British Isles has the best claim to have inspired that delectable story.

It is recognized that it is right and proper for Llandudno to perpetuate the memory of the White Rabbit; but there is a widespread feeling (especially strong in Warrington in Lancashire) that if the memorial is intended to indicate any close connection between Llandudno and Carroll, then there must be a mistake somewhere.

Warrington feels that its own claims are at least as good as Llandudno's. Lewis Carroll spent a few holidays in Llandudno with the Liddells, the little girls for whom he wrote the story. But Daresbury, near Warrington, was actually his birthplace, and the neighboring Hill Warren, "haunt of birds and small beasts, innumerable rabbits and an occasional fox," is thought to form an admirable setting for Alice's adventures. But a stronger claimant than either appears to be Oxford and the surrounding district, for on July 4, 1862, Lewis Carroll and the three Liddells "made an expedition up the river to Godstow," and it was on this occasion that he began the story of Alice.

However, the current discussion is being carried on in a much profounder manner than the mere recital of facts and dates indicates. It is pointed out, as an argument against Llandudno, that the White Rabbit was certainly not a Welsh rabbit, while the Cheshire Cat undoubtedly had Cheshire ancestors, though this consideration does not seem to advance the cause of Warrington very far. But even on this purely literary plane Oxford can look all its rivals in the face. The dormouse was incontestably an Oxford man. He could not keep awake even at the Mad Hatter's afternoon party. Does not this point him out unmistakably as an inhabitant of that "fair city" where, according to Matthew Arnold, even the spires are "dreaming"?

Dead Letters

Oakland Tribune

The postoffice has decided it has been spending too much money on dead letters. Figured out is a way to save a hundred thousand dollars a year by declaring the missives dead a little earlier than heretofore.

Such letters have been sent to Washington or one of the branch dead letter offices and the process has required at least seven days. The new plan will return them to senders or destroy them within 48 hours and the 966 first-class postoffices of the country will become branch offices for the work.

Of course the public could help the Government save more money if it took a little more pains with the missives it sends. Dead letters are those which fail to reach their destinations because of incorrect or illegible addresses, insufficient postage, or violation of some postal regulation. A simple expedient to be recommended is the writing of return address on the envelope.

All Quiet Along the Potomac?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE STORY

Time was when every passing May—
The green new leaves, the blossoms swelling,
The brooks that chattered on their way—
Brought one a story worth the telling.
And when the calm, unruffled sun
Behind the hilltop had descended,
Another tale was told and done,
Another story had been ended.

Then lo! a bright new day was here,
To bring its tale of joy or sorrow,
A day that brought a glow of cheer
And promised us a glad tomorrow,
And when its last beams shone like gold
Upon the fields of blooming clover
Another story had been told,
Another fleeting day was over.

Dreams pass unnoticed as they fly;
Youth, busy with some new endeavor,
Observes them as they hasten by
And hopes that they will last forever.
But age, more sad, more worldly wise,
Looks on the sunset's gleaming glory,
And reads, far written in the skies,
The ending of a futile story.

And, though he like the tale or no,
Man must through all the coming ages—
Though they bring joy or care or woe—
With eager fingers turn the pages.
Whatever be our doubts or fears,
Whatever shadows may enfold us,
Why vex ourselves with futile fears?
No other story shall be told us.

PARAGRAPHS

By Robert Quillen

Why not boil it all down to one law authorizing each of us to charge all of us twice what a thing is worth?

Maybe it isn't a dictatorship, but about the only thing you can keep secret from the government is your appendix scar.

The law failed to make people good, but they may cooperate a little harder when it tries to make them rich.

One reason for Roosevelt's popularity is the fact that people who get sore have Johnson to cuss.

You can't get a big circulation, but you can always make money with a magazine that says: "Darn the smelly common people that aren't like our readers."

TIMES ARE PICKING UP WHEN YOU DON'T CARE IF THE GROCER SEES YOU PAYING FOR GAS.

Still, the world will profit by all this if it learns that you can't get rich by killing good customers.

A free land is one where a climber rises so fast he still spits on his hands when he reaches for a tea cup.

It must be a relief to turn professional and get your money at a bank instead of feeling under a pillow.

AMERICANISM: Wondering how to keep the youngsters sinless; supporting movies and magazines that portray unchastity as part of life's nice clean fun.

But when counting the unemployed you mustn't forget the three million who would feel abused if they weren't.

Another state that favors repeal more and more is the state of matrimony.

Ford officials say the law won't permit this and that. And a member of the Federal Trade Commission said the President couldn't fire him.

BETTER LET YOUR WIFE DRIVE. SHE MAY SCARE YOU AT TIMES, BUT SHE'LL SAVE YOU MONEY IN A PINCH.

These stratosphere trips are news, but the thing that interests us is not how high man can get but how far he is going to fall.

N. R. A. can't expect a fever of patriotism if it doesn't dress its workers in uniforms to thrill the gals.

CORRECT THIS SENTENCE: "SHE'S ENGAGED TO THE STAR QUARTERBACK," SAID THE GOSSIP. "AND SHE NEVER TELLS A SOUL."

THAWTS ON LIFE

Most men with no hair look part missing,
Though some feel distinguished, no doubt,
Some day I myself may see my own scalp,
Though it's a privelege I'd rather do without.

O take your troubles easy,
Lock your worries in a cage.
Time will cure whatever ales you
Unless you're worried about your age.

The nicest way of waking up
And starting the day with cheer
Is to have a little doggie
Lick the end of your ear.

You haff to be brite to write a whole book,
Even if it's half full of bumness,
But just to write "punk" on strange margins
It a sure sine of ignorant dumness.

O look before you leep and think before you act
If you want to make life smoother and not ruffer,
For when you've once pored too much salt on your egg

In the Long Ago

From the Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

NOVEMBER 17, 1919

Charles Wakefield Cadman, noted composer, made his first appearance on a concert program in Santa Ana, giving a program in company with Princess Tsianina at the Congregational church as a feature of the Santa Ana Music Association concert course.

H. T. Dunning was elected president of the Huntington Beach public library, with John W. Eader, secretary, and A. M. O'Brien and Mrs. S. A. Moore as board members.

Material had arrived for the wholesale fish market to be built on property owned by the Newport Syndicate fronting the channel. Contractor A. Luke of Orange, who had just completed remodeling the Newport Harbor Yacht clubhouse, was to do the building.

The Southern Counties Gas company was rushing to completion a new three inch main to serve Seal Beach, where increased consumption of gas made the new main necessary.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

AGRICULTURE AND GOVERNMENT

The touchstone of soundness for any recovery policy is its success or failure in actually increasing the total purchasing power of the consumers of the nation.

For all the difficulties and perplexities involved in its application, the national drive for higher wages and shorter hours will, in my judgment, ultimately prove a sound procedure for increasing popular purchasing power.

The same cannot, I think, be said for the policies of the Agricultural Adjustment Act.

I am quite willing to run the risks of prophecy in this kaleidoscopic time that makes prophecy a death defying venture. I confidentially predict that the undeviating and wholesale application of the policies of the Agricultural Adjustment Act will reduce rather than increase the total purchasing power of the consumers of the nation.

The rise in the cost of living will, as a result of the inevitable increase in the cost of consumer goods, more than offset the increase in the amount the farmer will get for his products.

The consumers generally will have to foot the bill for everything the government hands over to the farmer in return for his limitation of production. Prices generally will rise both because of the processing taxes and the relative scarcity resulting from reduced production. And the farmer will not straightway spend the money he gets from the government for consumer goods. He will not even spend all his increased income from higher farm prices for consumer goods. There is a long pull ahead during which a good share of the farmer's increased income will go to satisfy interest and principal of farm debts. And the creditor class as a whole will not spend all the money the farmers pay it for consumer goods.

The actual purchasing power of the nation's consumers will inevitably be decreased rather than increased by the Agricultural Adjustment Act policies.

If, as it now seems, we are doomed to go in for a policy of relative isolation from the currents of world trade, we shall have to effect a reduction of farm output. But the only ultimately valid way to effect such reduction is not by scaling down all farms, efficient and inefficient alike, but by a bold national land utilization program that will take wholly out of cultivation, and turn to their proper use, millions of acres now in cultivation.

NAGGING

We hear a good deal about the sin of nagging children, and it is a sin we should guard ourselves against committing. But how about children nagging their mothers and teachers into distraction? That happens too, and it is no less a sin against humanity than is the other.

"Ma. Ma. Ma."

The monosyllable was repeated at rhythmic intervals without change of tone for about a dozen times.

"What is it, Peter? I've asked you what you wanted now three times. I'm not going to ask again. Either you tell me what you want or stop calling me like that."

Peter looked with round and unexpressive eyes at his mother standing there in the doorway. He liked to look at his mother. He nodded approvingly but said nothing and made as though to return to his play with the blocks and his bear. But no sooner had his mother seated herself at her work than he began his "Ma, Ma, Ma."

At the third repetition his mother folded her work, took off her slipper and went to Peter who was still comfortably seated on his rug with his toys. She picked him up, gave him three smart smacks with the slipper, sat him down again and without a word returned to her work.

For a moment Peter held his breath and then let it go in a howl of pain and anger. Mostly anger. He hollered with all his might but his mother never lifted her head. She set the stitches in his rompers steadily, swiftly, and he howled frantically to catch her attention. By and by he decided that he was only tiring himself and getting nothing out of it and being an intelligent child curled himself up on the rug and went to sleep.

"Something had to be done. Either he stopped or I lost my wits. I'd rather give him a spanking than have him give me a headache."

That's what nagging children drive their mothers and teachers into doing in self defense. I can readily understand it but it doesn't help us very much. What the nagging child needs is occupation in association with other children of the same age. And they have to be promptly silenced, sent off by themselves when they begin their ruthless attack.

Older children can nag too. They find ways to annoy the teachers and those who rule over them at home and abroad. There is the one who scratches his finger nail across a sheet of paper to make the teacher squirm. There is the one who whistles between his teeth, one who smiles with uplifted eyebrows at any direction given him, one who drops things at inconvenient times, one who asks an endless stream of pointless questions. These are nagging children and they know they are annoying people. What can one do?

Laugh them out of countenance. Show them that you see their childishness and that you laugh at it. It is impossible to nag a person who laughs at you.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
